THIRTEEN BURIED ALIVE IN SUBWAY

Tons of Rock and Dirt Cave in on the Underground Workmen

SIX BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Prompt Effort Made to Dig Out Unfortunate Workmen—A Blast Caused Cave-in—The Victims Foreigners.

New York, June 14.—Thirteen workmen on the new Lexington avenue subway were buried under tons of rock and dirt by a cave-in late today. One dead and two injured were taken out shortly afterward. It is feared the others are dead or will die, as the rock will have to be blasted away to reach them.

At 10:30 o'clock six bodies had been recovered and five were reported still buried under many tons of rock and earth. Two injured men were rescued, but one of them probably will die.

Five hundred laborers were quickly assembled at the scene in an effort to dig out the buried men. According to the police and fire authorities it may be hours before some of the bodies are reached. There appears to be no hope that any of the men have escaped death.

The First Alarm.

There is a conflict of opinion as to whether the cave-in was due to a blast or to the collapse of timbering. There are two levels to the subway construction point, the upper one for local trains, and the lower level for express trains. It was the ceiling of the latter tunnel which caved in. A policeman who gave the first alarm following the accident, stated that he heard a loud blast and it was at once succeeded by the chies of wounded and dying.

Robert Ridgeway, engineer in charge of the public service commission, after an interview, announced that the cave-in was directly traceable to a blast.

Firemen early on the scene dicovered that a rock weighing everal tons had fallen on some of the buried men. It could not be moved by the means at hand and probably will have to be blasted before the bodies underneath it can be recovered. Three priests descended into the tunnel in excavation buckets to administer the last rites of the church if any of the men were rescued still alive.

Most of the dead whose bodies were recovered were foreigners, and their identification awaits the tallying of the numbered brass checks found in their clothing.

SENTENCE WAS INCREASED.

Judge Connor Gave Man Three Years for Attempted Escape.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 14.—After Judge Connor, in the Federal Court, had sentenced J. H. Kilpatrick, white man from Delaware, and three negroes, to two years each in the Atlanta penitentiary for breaking open and attempting to get away with a $700 package of money lost out of a Seaboard Air Line express car near Raleigh May 29th, Kilpatrick was recalled to the bar and given five years instead of two, because of a message from the jailor that his cell was found to have two bars sawed in two, and a note was found written to a friend by Kilpatrick, urging him to send him saws as he must get out before court or go to the penitentiary.

The note instructed the friend to put the saws inside a Saturday Evening Post, so they could not be detected in passing the paper to him.

The court also convicted Dave McNeil and Joe Penn of stealing cigars from a car of inter-State freight between Cary and Moncure on the Seaboard Air Line, and they were given three years each in the penitentiary.

Judge Connor remitted the one year sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary in the case of Carl Cameron, he being allowed to go on the payment of the $100 fine and costs. He was convicted yesterday of blockading near Vass and is a young man, member of a prominent family.

SPRING SNAKE STORY.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., June 14.—Mr. Charles Killette tells of killing a number of large moccasin snakes along the line of the waterworks canal. Mr. Killette has a force of hands at work cleaning the canal and cutting away the brush along the banks and they have had some snake experience. So far they report having killed 35 and some of the snakes showed fight. One is said to have been almost eight inches in circumference and five feet long.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE Y. W. C. A.

Miss Emma Hayes the Leader in Yesterday's Session.

Asheville, N. C., June 14.—Miss Emma Hayes, secretary of the New York Central Y. W. C. A., was the leader today at the sessions of the second annual Southern conference of the organization at Black Mountain. She told the 600 young women of the South of the great work being accomplished in New York by the Y. W. C. A., and the extensive plans under headway for the future. In the afternoon the visitors were driven over the George W. Vanderbilt estate at Biltmore. The conference will end with Sunday's sessions.

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 14.—A heavy earthquake was felt throughout Bulgaria at 11:33 this morning. Serious damage is reported from the Central districts.

TO RECLAIM SWAMP LANDS

Library of Congress

Secretary L... Would Have Government Aid Sta... inage Undertakings—S... ps Hold Large W... n.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., June 14.—Secretary of the Interior Lane today went on record as favoring a broad legislative policy for the reclamation of swamp lands. His action is regarded as pledging the support of the Wilson administration to the drainage movement.

In a report which he has submitted to Congress, Mr. Lane recommends the enactment of a law authorizing the drainage and reclamation by the United States of public swamp lands and overflowed lands in any State or territory where such lands are situated.

While it is designated primarily for the reclamation of public lands, the measure authorizes the inclusion in the drainage projects, under certain conditions, of State or private swamp land contiguous thereto or located in the same drainage basin. The measure is very comprehensive and is somewhat analogous to the reclamation act passed in 1902, for the irrigation of arid lands, including, however, a number of improvements suggested by experience in the administration of that act. The measure, if enacted, will be a notable step in the reclamation of public lands and the establishment of houses and farms upon areas now uninhabitable and worthless.

Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, of Chapel Hill, who attended the National Drainage Congress here last month, in an interview stated that there were thousands of acres of land in North Carolina, under present conditions almost worthless, but if drained would increase the State's wealth over $6,000,000. Dr. Pratt is a member of the commission appointed to co-operate with Commissioner Lane in drafting a measure that would be suitable to the administration.

SOLDIER BOUND OVER.

Private Smith Held in the Sum of $1,000 at Southport.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Southport, N. C., June 14.—The soldier, Smith, who shot Oscar Lewis on last Wednesday night, as reported in this correspondence, was given a preliminary hearing yesterday before Mayor Furpless, and his honor deemed there was sufficient evidence to ask $1,000 bond, or a return to jail, the latter being the result. Lewis, the man shot, is reported as getting along with no complications, as yet.

A very enjoyable entertainment was given at the Pavilion last night by the Acme Male Quartette, assisted by Miss Sallie Pickett Oldham, reader, of Wilmington, there being good sized audiences present, in spite of threatening weather. The entertainment was under the auspices of the Civic Club, the proceeds going to the public library fund.

The dredge Potomac that has been clearing out the channel to the dock at the north approach to Fort Caswell, has completed the work.

Mrs. Viola Weeks and little daughter, Elizabeth, have returned from Raleigh, where the little girl had been undergoing Pasteur treatment for three weeks. She was bitten by a dog afflicted with rabies, and has most happily escaped the danger through treatment.

Your recent editorial asking why peaches were not cultivated in this section, provokes your correspondent to say that he has eaten as fine peaches grown in this vicinity as he ever tasted. On private grounds not for commercial purposes, an occasional Greensboro peach tree can now be seen in this city, and some June peaches, fine ones, are to be seen on private tables as usual, this month. All needed is cultivation to make peaches in this section.

Miss Katherine Butler, who has been here several months, visiting her sister, Mrs. James W. Thompson, left today for her home in South Carolina.

The Cape Fear Oil Company, which leases the "pilots' dock" and supplies the trade, has erected a 30-foot sign at the head of the rock reading, "Gasoline", sufficiently prominent that no boat man, no matter if unable to read, could fail to understand.

Dull times, hard times, money scarce, but there exists a continual inquiry for lots, and sales are made that indicate that property values are not too high for investors in and near Southport.

The telephone poles for the W. B. & S. Railroad Company are being placed, and the wire and other things for this system are ready to follow to give the road this very greatly needed 'phone service, in order to more readily transact its freight and passenger traffic. It is expected that the 'phone service betwen this city and Navassa will be in operation by the 25th inst.

FLAG DAY EXERCISES

"Father of the American Navy" Honored—Patriotic Celebration

Philadelphia, June 14.—Included among flag day exercises in this city today there was unveiled at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church a tablet in memory of Commodore John Barry, "Father of the American Navy," whose body lies buried in the church yard there. Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, participated in the ceremonies.

The usual patriotic exercises were held at the little house at 239 Ashe street, in the wholesal business district, where Betsy Ross made the first American flag, 136 years ago.

TREATY RENEWAL IS FAVORED BY JAPAN

Viscount Chinda Makes the Announcement to Secretary Bryan

THE ARBITRATION FEATURES

Expected That Twenty-five Nations Will Conclude Treaties With the United States Before Next Year—Flag Day

Washington, June 14.—Viscount Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador, has advised Secretary Bryan that Japan is willing to renew for another period of five years her arbitration treaty with the United States which expires by limitation August 24th.

Secretary Bryan, making the announcement today said he expected the Senate would ratify the new arbitration treaties already signed with Great Britain and other countries, despite the opposition against them. No date for signing the Japanese renewal has been determined.

The Senate opposition originally was voiced by Senator Chamberlain, who insisted that in renewing a treaty with Great Britain specific expressions should be made to remove the Panama canal tolls controversy from the field of arbitration. The question of arbitrating with Japan the issue of the California alien land law also has been a subject of discussion among Senators opposed to renewing that arbitration treaty. President Wilson has had frequent conferences over the arbitration treaties with Senators.

At elaborate and impressive flag day exercises conducted in the great court of the Interior Department and presided over by Secretary Lane, Secretary of State Bryan delivered an oration upon the "American Flag and World Peace."

Peace and Justice

Mr. Bryan vividly pictured his ideal of a world of friendly nations among which war would have no place. He believed that long steps now were being taken to insure universal peace, and added:

"Only this morning I received assurances from the Empire of Japan of its desire to renew with the United States its general arbitration treaty. Before next Christmas I am expecting that at least twenty-five nations will have concluded with this country treaties by the terms of which controversies which cannot be adjusted otherwise may be referred to a disinterested international tribunal, thus practically insuring peace and justice between us and all of the great nations of the world.

Love Stronger Than Fear

"Love is a stronger force than fear. It is the proud boast of this nation that our flag is loved, rather than feared. No gun ever mounted is as strong as a great thought. Great thoughts are the controlling forces of the world; and love is the basis of every great thought."

Concluding in an apothesis to the flag, Secretary Bryan compared the ideals represented respectively by Christ and Pilate:

"The power of the unarmed man of Galilee is represented by that flag, and no man will dare to put it on the side of Pilate, who was the embodiment of force. Let us always make it a smybol of the nation's purpose—a purpose pure enough to be represented by such a flag.

"The ideals of this nation shall be greater than its armament, and it always shall represent a cause so just that it will bear the blessing of Almighty God."

ELON COLLEGE NOTES.

Preparing for the Opening of the Seventieth School Year.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Elon College, N. C., June 14.—It would not be correct to say that Elon is a dead town now that the student body has taken its flight, because you do see a few individuals perambulating around the hill and the town has some 600 inhabitants, but the life of the place is gone. This is distinctly a college town, and that is full and significant explanation.

In the president's office, however, there is the steady click of the typewriter and signs of returning life are unmistakable there. Two stenographers are steadily at it, waging the campaign for the opening of the Fall term, the 70th term of the college's history.

Plans are being matured for the erection of the Ladies' Hall, which is to be a 40x60 structure and will house 44 young ladies. This building will be conducted on the co-operative plan and will be able to furnish board, room and laundry for a very low figure. The bookkeeper for the hall last year, not so conveniently appointed as the new building is to be, reports that the total cost for these items last year per individual was $70.70, an extremely low mark indeed.

The president is also considering bids on the 50,000 gallon steel tank and the 100 foot steel tower, upon which it is to be mounted. This improvement will give the college an ideal water supply and at the same time most ample fire protection.

Establishment of Pullman Parlor Car Service between Wilmington and Greensboro, N. C., via Sanford and Fayetteville.

Effective with first car leaving Wilmington, train No. 53, Monday, June 16th, at 8:45 A. M., and first car leaving Greensboro, train No. 52, Tuesday, June 17th, at 12:50 P. M., Pullman Parlor Car service will be operated during the Summer season. Between Wilmington and Greensboro Via the ATLANTIC COAST LINE. (The Standard Railroad of the South.) (advertisement.)

NEEDS ONE THOUSAND MEN

Inter-State Commerce Commission Will Want Men of Technical Training in Valuing Railroads—Examinations

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., June 14.—In order to take care of the enormous work in connection with the taking of the physical valuation of railroads, the Inter-State Commerce Commission needs probably 1,000 extra men. All of the places, however, will be filled through civil service examinations.

In order to get eligibles for these places the Civil Service Commission has announced examinations on July 21st for the following positions:

Senior civil engineers, senior structural engineer, senior inspector of car equipment, senior electrical engineer, senior inspector of motive power, senior railway signal engineer, senior mechanical engineer, senior architect.

Civil engineer, structural engineer, inspector of car equipment, electrical engineer, inspector of motive power, railway signal engineer and mechanical engineer.

These examinations will be held at the following places in North Carolina: Asheville, Charlotte, Durham, Goldsboro, Greensboro, Raleigh and Wilmington. The examinations are only open to males. Any one desiring to take either of these examinations should write to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., for form 2039.

Major Hale in Washington

Major E. J. Hale, of Fayetteville, the newly-appointed Minister to Costa Rica, is here, the guest of Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan. Major Hale will remain in Washington until his confirmation is made by the Senate, and will then receive his instructions from the State Department. He will not sail for the Central American country for about six weeks.

Major Hale expressed great delight with the assignment picked out for his personal friend Bryan. He said tonight that he had much rather have the Costa Rican post than any other assignment that could have been offered him. "I am a poor man," said the veteran editor, "and an appointment to most any other country would have been an impossibility for a man of my means. The cost of living in Costa Rica is not high, and the climate is most delightful."

WEDDING OF PROMINENCE

North Carolina Belle Becomes the Wife of Wealthy Mine Owner

Raleigh, N. C., June 14.—Miss Lily Watt Penn, North Carolina belle and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cabell Penn, of Reidsville, was married tonight in her Reidsville home to Theodore Herman Kruttschnitt, of Tucson, Arizona.

Following the wedding, the parents tendered an elaborate reception attended by notable North Carolinians. They left on a late train for New York, thence to New Orleans, California and finally Arizona. Mrs. Kruttschnitt belongs to one of the richest North Carolina families, pioneers in tobacco manufacturing. The bridegroom is a former New Yorker, and wealthy mine owner.

FORGOT TO MAIL IT

Letter Written Forty-two Years Ago Received Yesterday

Pottsville, Pa., June 14.—A letter written at Fort Washington, May 30th, 1861, by Henry C. Russell, of Pottsville, a Civil war soldier, reached his widow in Pottsville today through the regular channels of the United States mail. The letter had been entrusted to a comrade, M. E. Richards, of Pottstown, Pa., to mail and he never sent it. Recently Mr. Richards died and the letter, sealed and stamped, was found among some old papers. It was posted and arrived this morning.

MOTHER DESERTED INFANT.

Weldon Young Woman Held at Raleigh for Abandoning Child.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 14.—Hallie Carlyle, a young woman 22 years old, was brought from Henderson today to answer the charge of deserting her month-old infant in the Hotel Turner here June 2nd. She admitted the charge, pleading inability to provide for it. She is a native of Weldon. She was bound over to Superior Court. The police are seeking a home for the child.

INQUIRY REVEALS ASTOUNDING STORY

SEARCHING INVESTIGATION

Charleston, W. Va., June 14.—About a single battle in the coal strike on the Paint and Cabin creek districts centered today's inquiry by the Senate investigating committee. Almost all day the committee heard statements concerning the attack on Holly Grove, a strikers' camp from an armored train which was run up into the strike district on February 7th.

The committee was astounded at the testimony of Lee Calvin, an exmine guard, who was one of the men in the ormored train when the strikers' camp was fired on. Cosco Estep, a miner, was killed and Mrs. Annie Hall wounded. Calvin, called by the attorneys for the miners, told a sensational story of the attack. After stating that he had been a "chief guard" on Cabin Creek, and had left the district because of the shootings there, he said that Sheriff Bonerhill and Quinn Morton, a mine operator, had prevailed upon him to join a party going up Paint Creek in the armored train.

"There were 10 or 12 men in the armored car attached to the train," said Calvin, "and when we got just above Paint Creek Junction all of them began getting rifles ready. They tried to give me a rifle, but I told them I had no shooting to do. The brakeman came through the train and turned down the lights.

"He told us not to raise the windows, but to shoot right through the windows. I was leaning out of an open window and as we came up to Holly Grove I saw a stream of fire start out of the baggage car where the machine guns were mounted. The stream kept up as we went through Holly Grove. As we passed I saw three or four flashes of fire from the tents."

He did not see any shots from the tents before the shooting began from the train.

"I just heard the engine whistle blow, toot, toot, and the shooting from the train began. I am positive the shooting first began from the baggage car."

The witness said that when the train had passed the miners' camp at Holly Grove, Quinn Morton came running back through the car and shouted, "Back up the train and we will give them another round." "I think the sheriff told him something about there being women and children up in those tents and he wouldn't shoot" said the witness.

At this statement Senator Martine, of New Jersey, almost leaped from his chair.

"What sort of a man is this man, Paul Morton—I mean Quinn Morton?" he shouted. "Is he an ordinary American citizen that he could order such a thing?"

The attorneys for the coal operators were on their feet in a moment, and for a time the committee room was in confusion.

"Mr. Morton will be brought before your committee," shouted Attorney Jackson, "and you will see him and talk with him."

"God help me then," remarked Senator Martine.

The attorneys for the operators protested vigorously against Senator Martine's remarks, and after some argument they were told by the committee that they would be given an opportunity to cross examine Calvin and to call witnesses in rebuttal.

"The Senator ought not to say that," said Mr. Jackson.

"I just can't help it," said Senator Martine.

Pale faced women and men who showed traces of years of arduous toil digging coal from the West Virginia mountains told the committee their side of the controversy.

It was a tale of a peace community of happy, contented people, transformed into a theatre of war, and the members of the Senate committee sat back, startled, as witness after witness told the story of the strike.

The attorneys for the striking miners in presenting their case called about a dozen men and women of the hills to tell the committee of the attack on the strikers' camp at Holly Grove.

The attorneys for the mine operators insisted they would show that the train was fired on from the town before the machine guns in the armored car were turned loose.

The advent of the "death special" as the miners termed it, or the "Bull Moose" train as it was called by the operators, was the principal subject of the inquiry this afternoon, following a general condemnation by witnesses of the mine guards who were brought into the district by the operators, and who former Governor Glasscock said he considered the principal cause of the trouble, when he declared martial law.

A detailed description of the armored train was obtained from Harry Arthur, who was employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad as a brakeman on the train.

Mrs. Annie Hall, who limped into the committee room, told the committee how she shielded her three little children from the bullets by hiding them in the chimney corner of her little home at Holly Grove when the armored train made its apearance. She said she had been shot through the feet by a bullet which passed through the Bible and Hymnal on her parlor table.

W. B. Buzzard told the committee that a man with whom he was talking on a Cabin Creek train was shot from a closet on the car after an argument with a mine guard. No criminal action had ever resulted from the shooting, so far as he knew. Harvey S. Campbell, a former special agent of the C. & O. Railroad, said that he had ridden on the "Bull Moose" train and had been ordered to shoot if stones were thrown at the train.

"'If you shoot, shoot to kill,' was our orders," he said.

IMPORTANT TARIFF CHANGES

Transfer of Iron and Steel Raw Materials to Free List is Approved by Majority Members of Senate Committee.

Washington, June 14.—The transfer to the free list of the tariff bill of iron and steel raw materials, with an estimated dutiable value of more than $600,000 a year, was approved today by the majority members of the Senate committee. This increased the Senate's addition to the Underwood free list to an aggregate annual loss of $2,000,000 in revenue, making the total estimated revenue loss from the free list about $27,000,000.

After an entire day spent on the sub-committee's report of the metal schedule, Chairman Simmons announced it had been widely cut, nearly every item of the schedule being reduced. To the free list were added pig iron, ferro manganese, steel blooms, slabs and billets. On all finished steel products an average reduction of 10 per cent. was made from the Underwood rates. Lead, zinc and aluminum were left unsettled to be disposed of Monday.

Aluminum will be changed from an ad valorem to a specific tariff basis, and the duty will be reduced, but it will not be transferred to the free list as many had advocated. Aluminum experts will be called in Monday to go over the committee's proposed specific rates.

All structural steel, which was made dutiable at 12 per cent. in the Underwood bill has been reduced compensatory to the free listing of raw materials, the average rates being about 10 per cent. ad valorem. The raw materials were placed on the free list largely because they are controlled by the United States Steel Corporation.

Senator Simmons said the administrative features of the bill which have presented such a problem would be acted upon Monday or Tuesday. It was agreed by many of the Democratic Senators that it would have been well had there been no attempt at this session to revise the tariff administrative regulations.

Inasmuch as the House bill has been changed, and the Senate has considered the subject for many weeks, it finally was determined that the revision task should be completed. All Democrats of the Finance committee, however, make no secret of their wish that it would have been possible to retain the Payne-Aldrich bill administrative privileges until a commission could make a thorough study of the subject.

On Monday the committee will take up the agricultural and sundries schedules, and the free list. It is predicted the caucus will make few changes and that the debate on the measure can begin in the Senate by Wednesday, June 25th.

MOREHEAD'S OPENING BALL

Brilliant Social Function at Atlantic Hotel, Morehead City

(Special Star Telegram.)

Morehead City, N. C., June 14.—The opening ball tonight at the Atlantic Hotel, was one of the most brilliant social functions ever given at the grand old Atlantic.

Special music was furnished by the Atlantic orchestra. The hall was beautifully decorated with bunting and large American flags.

The gentlemen were in full dress and the ladies gorgeously gowned. Each lady was presented with a beautiful bouquet of lovely carnations. There were guests from New York, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Raleigh, Baltimore, and in fact, from nearly every State in the union.

Mr. W. E. Fenner gracefuly led this unique and special feature with Mrs. Fenner. Expense had not been considered. The one idea of perfect and pleasing arrangements had been the only consideration of the popular proprietors, Messrs. T. L. Bland and R. A. Cherry.

One of the most pleasant features of the occasion was a solo by Mrs. H. J. Arnette, of New York.

AMERICAN YACHT RELEASED

Was Seized by Japanese Authorities for Unlawful Entry

Washington, June 14.—The American yacht Columbia, seized by the Japanese authorities for unlawful entry into the closed port of Nagahama, has been released, and what threatened to be an international incident has disappeared. The news of the yacht's release came to the Japanese embassy today in a cablegram from Tokio.

It was said that as the Columbia approached the entrance of the harbor at Nagahama she was met by the port authorities and warned against entry. The vessel, however, steamed up to the wharf and proceeded to repair.

Although not so stated in the dispatch, it is presumed that the Japanese authorities satisfied themselves either that these repairs were urgent, or that there was no intent of violation of the law.

The Columbia is the property of J. Harvey Ladew, of the New York Yacht Club, and had jist conveyed her owner and a party of friends across the Pacific to Japan, from where they proceeded by rail to Europe.

FIRE AT CHARLOTTE.

Disastrous Flames Consume Car Barn of Electric Railway.

Charlotte, N. C., June 14.—Fire of an unknown origin gutted the car barn of the Charlotte Electric Railway Co., here this afternoon, also burning the machine shop in the rear and four street cars. The loss is estimated at $50,000, fully covered by insurance. As a result of the fire street car service was interrupted for the space of three hours.

SENATORS AFTER THE SUGAR FORCES

Lobby Investigating Committee Questions Millionaire Witness

SENATORS CLASH IN DEBATE

Henry T. Oxford Admits Having Spent Enormous Sums in Behalf of Beet Sugar Industry—Influencing Legislation

Washington, June 14.—Henry T. Oxnard, the millionaire vice president of the American Beet Sugar Company, testified today before the Senate Lobby committee that he estimated he had spent on an average of $20,000 a year in Washington for the last 23 years in behalf of the beet sugar industry.

He declared not a cent had been spent illegally. Each year when he was at his home in Washington, he declared, he came to the capitol to watch legislation, and see his friends among the Senators.

Senator Reed demanded that the witness give the names of Senators who were his friends.

"Most all the Senators," replied Mr. Oxnard.

"You need not include me in that list," declared Senator Reed.

"Well, I call Senator Overman one of my friends, and Senator Cummins there and—I don't know so much about Senator Neison," said the witness.

Senator Overman promptly asked Mr. Oxnard if he had ever called upon him at his office or house, or if he had ever attended Mr. Oxnard's entertainments.

Mr. Oxnard replied in the negative.

The committee adjourned until Monday without finishing the examination.

The First Witness

John A. Carroll, of St. Louis, attorney for the Hill system of railroads, was the first witness today in the lobby investigation. His only tariff activitiy, he said, was the filing of a brief for the Great Northern and Burlington roads, dealing with creosote oil.

"I want to say that the so-called Hill railroads have no one in Washington trying to influence legislation," said he.

Anselm Wold, the Senate printing clerk, testified about the orders for printing "Sugar at a Glance," an anti-free sugar document prepared by Truman G. Palmer, representing beet sugar interests and circulated free under the franking privilege of Senator Lodge. The committee has developed testimony on whether Palmer was permitted to change the document after the Senate had ordered it printed. Tirning to Senator Overman, Wold referred to a previous conversation about the incident, and added:

"I told you then somebody had been monkeying with orders here, and I still think so."

Wold could not throw much light on the situation, and other Senate employes may be called.

When F. R. Hathaway, of the Michigan Beet Sugar Co., took the stand hostilities broke out again between Senator Reed and Senator Nelson. Reed insisted on having the witness answer in one way, and the witness persisted in answering another. The Minnesota Senator finally quit his place and took a seat with the audience.

Reads Letters

Hathaway read several letters that passed between himself and W. H. Wallace and H. A. Douglas explaining what they understood the position of President Wilson to be on sugar before the election.

Douglas wrote Hathaway that on September 20th, 1912, he had seen Mr. Wilson, and that he had been assured the beet sugar interests need have no fear.

"You need not be one bit afraid of me, sir," Douglas quoted the President as saying.

WOULD PROVIDE FOR DRAINAGE

Secretary Lane Submits Recommendation to Congress for New Law

Washington, June 14.—Secretary Lane today submitted a recommendation to Congress for a law authorizing the drainage and reclamation by the United States of public swamp and overflow lands in any State or territory.

While the proposed measure is designed primarily for the reclamation of public lands, it authorizes inclusion on the drainage projects, under specified conditions of State or privately-owned swamp lands contiguous to the public land or located in the same drainage basin.

Secretary Lane said today that the enactment of the measure into law would would be a "notable step in the reclamation of public lands and in the establishment of homes and farms upon areas now uninhabitable and worthless."

BIG ROLL DISAPPEARS

Approximately $5,000 Lost in Transit —The Pay Roll Suffers

Detroit, Mich., June 14.—Approximately $5,000 in currency disappeared in transit this afternoon between the Wynadotte office of the American Express Co., and a Wyandotte manufacturing concern where the money was to be used to meet the pay roll. According to the express company the money was in charge of Driver Edward Rushlow. A search revealed Rushlow's wagon, but the young man was not found. A bag of silver coins was found in the wagon, but a bag of bills, making up the greater part of the pay roll, was missing.

THREE STRAIGHT TO PHILS

Took Third Game of Series From St. Louis Yesterday—Giants Won With Matty—Cubs and Braves Winners.

Charlie Dooin again put it over the St. Louis National Leaguers in the third game of the series played at St. Louis yesterday, Tom Seaton registering another victory to be added on his long string. Seaton hurt his side in the sixth inning and was retired in favor of Moore.

The New York Giants, with Matty on the mound, won another game from the Pittsburg Pirates, bunching hits in three innings good for six tallies. Mathewson allowed but seven hits, two of these being homers and two triples, or a total of 17 bases.

The Chicago Cubs made it three straight from the Dodgers yesterday, the score being 5 to 1. Brooklyn lost one of their best catchers, Erwin, who broke his arm while attempting to block Zimmerman's steal home. After retiring the side with the broken arm, Erwin collapsed.

The Cincinnati Reds played mumble-peg while the Boston Braves played baseball, and the game went to the Beaneaters by a 4 to 2 score, the third straight of the series. Ames pitched the latter half of the game without allowing a hit.

Phillies Won.

St. Louis, June 14.—Philadelphia won from St. Louis today 7 to 0. Seaton, who hurt his side in the sixth inning, held the locals hitless until the third when the home team filled the bases. With two out Seaton fanned Mowry and ended the locals' chances.

Chicago's Third Straight.

Chicago, June 14.—Chicago made it three straights from Brooklyn today, winning 5 to 1. The game cost the visitors the loss of one of their best backstops, R. E. Erwin, who suffered a broken arm when he caught Zimmerman, who, while attempting to steal home, slid with great force, feet first. Erwin held the ball and retired the side, but then collapsed.

PICK UPS AND JUNIORS TIE

Break Even in a Couple of Fast and Snappy Games

In a couple of fast and snappy games yesterday between the Wilmington Juniors and Pick Ups, honors were evenly divided. In the first game the Juniors walked away with a score of 10 to 7, the batteries being Greenwald and Shore, for the Juniors, and E. McIntire and W. McIntire, for the Pick Ups. McIntire outpitched Greenwald yut played in hard luck. In the second game the Pick Ups turned the tables and won 7 to 2. Snakenburg, for the Pick Ups, cleaned up the pitching honors, though Hunt pitched well for the Juniors. The Pick Ups were guilty of fine fielding. Individual players on both teams did good work and both games developed many features.

WITH THE MOVIES

The Academy of Music always makes it a rule to remain "dark" during the Summer months, but Manager Marx Nathan having opportunity of securing what has been pronounced the greatest attraction in the moving picture world, determined that the people of Wilmington should not miss the chance to see it. Consequently, the Academy attaches have been summoned back to duty for next week, when on Thursday, Friday and Saturday the Academy will offer the wonderful and sublime film, "From the Manger to the Cross." It is something mammoth, as well as impressive and beautiful. It takes five reels, 5,000 feet of film to tell the story and it has been pronounced a Biblical masterpiece. It was produced at a cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars in Palestine and Egypt, and some well known actors appeared in the leading role. There is nothing trite about the picture, but it is a reverent moving picture life story, and will deeply impress all who behold it. A daily matinee will be given, commencing at 3:30 o'clock and the shows at night will commence at 7:30. The prices will be 10 cents for children and 15 cents for adults.

The Bijou Tomorrow.

Truly indeed will the popular Bijou, the mecca for both old and young and the fair sex and the gallan sex, make a glorious week inauguration tomorrow. Not three films, but four big ones, will make up tomorrow's swell show, headed by a massive special two-reel release photoplay, "Hearts of the First Empire", a thrilling story during the days of Emperor Napoleon, and that well known actor, William Humphrey, will appear as Napoleon and charming Edith Storey and Leah Baird are also to appear. As an excellent foil to this great dramatic masterpiece will be Pathe's "Over the 'Phone", which is a rousing comedy. Another notable firm for tomorrow is "The Luxemburg Gardens", a superb educational film. Regardless of this big and costly show the price of admission will remain at 5 cents, any old time and all the time.

At the Grand.

After winding up a big week in most glorious manner, playing last night to capacity business, the Grand Theatre, where comfort and big shows are ever on tap and where the price is 5 cents, afternoon and night, will start off the new week in a blaze of glory. Four superb pictures, each the latest and the best, will lead the show, with plenty of merry music on the side. The fun side of life will be held up in great way by Lubin's masterpiece, "The Pawned Bracelet," which is a laughable novelty, and Edison's "The Office Boy's Birthday," which is a scream. In the dramatic, Pathe's wonderful creation, "God Is Love", founded on Count Tolstoi's famous story of a Russian shoemaker, will prove a beautiful feature. There will also be something superb on tomorrow in the way of an educational film. It is "The Lake Geneva Camp of the Y. M. C. A."

THE NAPS PUT ONE OVER

Defeated Athletics in Third Game of Series—Senators Won From White Sox—Boston and Detroit Winners

When the Philadelphia Athletics were right on the verge of adding the third game of the series with Cleveland to their already long string of victories, the Naps turned in the eighth innings and put two tallies across, which won the game three to nothing. Vic Gregg twirled a magnificent game, keeping the leaders helpless throughout. Bush held the Naps to four hits, but poor fielding threw the game to the Clevelanders.

The final game of the series will be played Monday, and should the Naps get away with it, the series will be an even break, and the teams will end up about seventy points apart.

Washington took yesterday's game from the White Sox, and took the upper end of the see-saw away from the Chicagos. The Senators and White Sox have now been juggling third position between them, swapping positions on alternate days, for over two weeks, remaining not over 15 points apart for this length of time.

Walter Johnson held the Six at his mercy, but two homers were among the choice morsels he fed out to the visitors.

The Boston Red Sox at the ending of the second week of what Manager Jake Stahl forecasted was their final running start which would land them at the top for good and always, find themselves about the same distance from the top as when they began, having won just a few points, but no climb in their position, in this time.

Yesterday's game at Boston was won by the Champions, Ray Collins pitching a spectacular game for the Red Sox. The visitors scored their only run in the eighth inning on a lucky single by Pratt.

The New York Highlanders dropped another ragged-edged game to the Detroit Tigers, the third game of the series, yesterday.

The Naps Won Out

Philadelphia, June 14.—Cleveland triumphed over the Philadelphia Athletics today 3 to 0. The crowd overflowed into rightfield, making ground rules necessary. The league leaders were almost helpless before the pitching of Gregg. Bush held Cleveland to four hits, but poor fielding helped to lose the game. Ryan's batting and base running was the feature.

Two Homers Off Johnson

Washington, June 14.—Washington easily defeated Chicago today 8 to 3. Johnson kept the visitors' hits well scattered, two of their runs being home runs. Scott, who started for Chicago, pitched but one inning, and White who relieved him, was pounded hard.

Boston Downs St. Louis

Boston, June 14.—A single by Pratt with two on bases in the eighth inning saved St. Louis from a shut out today, Boston winning 8 to 1. Stone did not last one inning and Mitchell was also hit hard. In the seventh Pratt muffed Engle's fly to right, letting in Boston's two final runs.

Yanks Lost in Tenth

New York, June 14.—New York lost to Detroit in the tenth inning today when Monority's single followed Gainer's triple. The score was 6 to 5. The game abounded in spectacular plays intersperesd with ragged fielding. Manager Chance has asked for waivers on Pitcher Caldwell and Catcher Sterrett.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE

Two More Games at Hilton Park Yesterday—Scores

The first game at 3 between the Athletics and Rattlers was one of the best games played thus far this season. The game began and ended with plenty of snap. The game was won after a hard but determined fight by the Rattlers to the score of 6 to 5. Hines and Bell formed the battery for the Athletics, while for the Rattlers Boswell and Wilson did the honors. Hines struck out eight men and Boswell struck out three. The Athletics made three errors and the Rattlers four. Both Hines and Boswell pitched good ball, but heavy hitting by the Rattlers in the ninth won the game. Time 1:15. Umpire, L. V. Lacy.

The second game was a little slow, but there were some good plays made. This was at 5, between Company B and the Giants. In the first inning Company B gave the Giants to understand they were determined to win the game, and in the second they practically made sure of the game by having nine runs to their credit. The Giants never at any stage of the game gave up, and made it very interesting several times. Register and Burnett formed the battery for Company B, and Davis, Green and Lewis, for the Giants. Register struck out seven, while Davis and Green made it four. Errors were a little frequent in this game. Company B took the game at the score of 18 to 8 and took two hours to do it. The game was much better than the score and time would indicate. Umpire, W. R. Dosher. Fowler should be credited with winning the game for the Rattlers, as he caught a hard fly with the bases crowded. Smith, for the Athletics, did some good stick work, batting .750. In the second game the Burnett brothers, Robt. and Charles, each batted .750 for Company B. "Pud" Palmgren also did some hitting.

AMERICANS WIN POLO GAME

Successful in Deciding Contest Over English Challengers by Close Score—The Trophy Retained for Another Year

Meadow Brook Club, Westbury, L. I., June 14.—By the narrow margin of one quarter of one goal the American polo team won the second and deciding game of the International Cup series at the Meadow Brook Club this afternoon, and thereby retains the trophy for at least another year. The score was 4 1-2 to 4 1-4.

The slight advantage of the United States four over the English challengers at the end of one hour of the most desperate kind of play is fully indicated by the trifling difference in the scores of the two teams. Polo play of the type shown by both the fours in the crucial game this afternoon has never been seen heretofore in either national or international contests in this country.

The spectacle thrilled the crowd of 35,000 persons which "rooted" like a typical baseball crowd.

Clever team play like that shown by the American four on Tuesday was missing, but in its place was one uninterrupted series of dashing and desperate plays that swayed the spectators to a degree seldom seen at sports of the type of polo.

Never for a moment did the action lag and the game was one continuous spectacle of rushes, first in the direction of the American goal, then toward the poles of the Union Jack.

The English showed better team attack than the cup-defeating four, and their ponies, too, played the game as though they knew the international honor was at stake. It was only by daring flashes of individual play that the Americans were finally able to emerge victorious by a score of 4 1-2 to 4 1-4 goals.

The substitution of L. E. Stoddard for "Monty" Waterbury, made necessary by the accident to Waterbury on Tlesday, and the moving back of "Larry" Waterbury to No. 2, caused a noticeable break in the team play of the Meadow Brook "Big Four." Neither Waterbury nor Stoddard appeared to get in communication, and repeatedly missed the balls fed to them by both Whitney and Milburn.

To offset this the forwards eventually cut loose with such desperate individual play that they actually overcame the defect of lax team work and won on merit a game which will stand for years as a polo "thriller."

The English four on the other hand, benefitted by the change which brought F. M. Freake into the game in place of Captain A. Noel Edwards.

GOES TO NORFOLK

Mr. J .P. Whyte Becomes Manager of Swift & Co., in That City

Mr. J. P. Whyte, who has been manager of Swift & Company in this city, for the past two or three years, has been transferred to Norfolk, Va., where he will become manager for the company in that city. He was notified yesterday morning of the transfer, which comes in the nature of a promotion. Mr. Whyte has made many friends in Wilmington who will regret exceedingly to learn that he is to leave this city to make his home elsewhere. He will leave early this week to take up his new work and expects to return about July 10th to move his family to their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Whyte have been very prominent socially and in church affairs during their residence here and their departure will be genuinely regretted. Mr. Whyte has been teacher of the Business Men's Bible Class of the First Baptist church for some time and under his leadership the class has become a very important factor in the church work. Mr. Whyte is a splendid orator and on many occasions has delighted Wilmington audiences. The best wishes of many friends will good with Mr. Whyte and family in their new home.

Funeral Services Yesterday

The funeral of little Mary Catherine Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Montgomery, of Winter Park, who died early Friday morning, was held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock from the residence, conducted by Rev. J. S. Crowley, pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian church. Interment was at Bellevue cemetery.

Blacksburg, Va., June 14.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the shops of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute early today. The building was valued at $150,000 and was insured for $50,000.

THE WEEK AT LUMBERTON

Superior Court for Civil Cases Opens Tomorrow With Judge Ferguson Presiding—Big Criminal Docket June 30th.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 14.—A one-week term of Superior Court for the trial of civil cases only will convene here Monday with Judge Ferguson presiding. This will be the last court Judge Ferguson will hold here for sometime, which is greatly regretted by all who have formed his acquaintance during his services in Robeson county. To know him as judge or as man is to like him.

Two weeks hence, June 30th, a two-weeks term of court for the trial of criminal cases will convene, with Judge Lyon presiding. This promises to be one of the busiest courts in some time. Besides a jail full of defendants and those out on bond, a murder case from Scotland county is scheduled to be sent here. While not speaking for other sections of the county, it is the opinion of some people here that the Recorder's court is simply a great big farce.

The weather has been the chief topic of conversation during the week, its most important phase being the effect on crops. The grass has been given a good start but with fair weather the farmers will get busy.

Messrs. Birmingham & Wishart yesterday unloaded a solid car of green bananas which they placed in their cold storage room just fitted up underneath the express office next to the Seaboard station. This is a new enterprise which ought to prove successful, as the money spent in Lumberton for this one item is something that would be surprising if the exact figures were known. The firm proposes to handle this fruit regularly, delivering it to its customers when wanted, beginning with next week.

People in this section who desire to spend Sundays at the beach can purchase tickets for the week-end to Wilmington for $2.75 and then the round-trip tickets to the beach cost only 35 cents, making the roundtrip for all $3.10. These tickets are sold to Wilmington for both trains Saturday and the first train Sunday, good returning Tuesday morning.

Some eight or ten years ago we got into trouble by trying to help others who were in trouble. They were in trouble because they had driven into a hole in the ground. We helped others to get them out and there's where we got in, for we had to attend court for three or four years as a witness. When through with that, we made up our mind to keep away from such things in the future, but resolutions are often broken, especially when a person thinks some one is in distress, and we have failed to stick to our purpose. Saturday night just a few moments before 12 o'clock, while resting on the porch after the day's work, an indescribable noise began to make itself heard not far away in the darkness, in the shade of some trees. It was a mingled yell, beginning in the lower notes and ascending the scale to the screeching point. There was in it the low growl of a bulldog, the bleat of a calf lost from its mother, and a sound that would make a bantam rooster swear off from ever attempting to crow again. We found it was three young men tuning their voices to sing for an entertainment. One ran away when the correspondent advanced to investigate, but came back on promise that his name would be kept secret. About this time lights could be seen dodging from window to window and voices called to know the trouble, if any one was sick, if a physician was needed, were the officers wanted—what was the matter, anyway? The trio vanished. There are no better boys in town but they simply didn't realize that they were making the night vocal with hideous sounds.

If any have the idea The Star is not read in Lumberton, the idea must have been dispelled Thursday when the paper stated that certain people here were expected to arrive at the beach soon. It certainly did cause a flurry until the Robesonian explained things. But what if they do want to go to the beach? We take it that it is their privilege to do so, the same as anybody else. However, we have heard no wedding bells in that direction.

The young people expect to enjoy a dance Monday night which, it is expected, will be largely attended, as several of those who recently returned from the various colleges will be here. Mesdames T. C. Johnson, E. L. Holloway and W. S. Wishart will be the chaperones. An evening of pleasure is anticipated.

An ordinance has been enacted by the town authorities forbidding the distribution by any one of any kind of samples of patent medicines. Ever citizen should make it his business to aid in the enforcement of this law by reporting violations promptly. No one knows what innocent child will find and eat or drink the samples thrown promiscuously around. Just what happened in Wilmington during the week, when a three-year-old child was made terribly sick, by eating sample pills, may occur here, or anywhere else.

A man who recently located in Lumberton is spending a good bit of time finding fault with the people and town generally. The distance between here and the place he came from, we take it, is the same now as it was when he came to Lumberton, and the railroad fare is no higher.

Several weeks ago Mr. Dennis Biggs circulated a petition among the business men on Elm street, asking that the sidewalks be kept open, and not be blocked by goods, wares, etc. That petition was liberally signed but for some cause it have never been acted upon by the authorities. Travel part of the way from the postoffice to the railroad station and you butt into different things on the sidewalk, tear your clothes, go sheep fashion, get out in the street and walk around the stuff, and then realize how nice it is.

On and after July 1st it will be Postmaster French. During the time Mrs. Norment has been acting as postmistress she has done her best to give satisfaction to the public and while nothing else could be expected but for her to be relieved, at the same time many friends will regret her leaving the service. No one who is acquainted with Mr. French will expect anything but the best of service and they will not be disappointed.

A few shipped apples arrived in town this week but the price is prohibitory—five cents each.

Mr. G. S. Crawford, for the past three or four years superintendent of the oil mill left with his family Thursday for Cheraw, S. C., where they expect to reside.

On account of rain none of the church bells in town have rung for prayer meeting the past two Wednesday nights, neither did they ring for services Sunday night. That will give some idea of the weather conditions during the week, for it is a well known fact that Lumberton church goers are "hard to hinder."

For genuine unadulterated nerve, it would appear that young Ertte Carlyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Carlyle, has his share. A few days since his father sold a mule which was to be delivered at Elizabethtown, a distance of something like 25 miles. Ertte was assigned to the job of riding the mule to Betsytown, which feat he accomplished in good time.

An examination will be held June 28th for the purpose of selecting a postmaster for Abbottsburg.

Assistant Postmaster E. C. Edmund will leave Wednesday on a vacation, the first time he has been off for a rest in five years. He expects to return the 28th.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Parker, who were married on the 3rd and have been spending their honeymoon in the North, are expected home tomorrow evening or Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin McNeil, who were married at Parkton last week, returned from Florida this week, where they went on a bridal tour.

Messrs. W. G. Pittman and S. F. Caldwell expect to leave July 15th on a trip to Europe to be gone about six weeks.

Mrs. L. J. Birthright who has been spending some time here with friends, returned to her home in Wilmington this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wright, after visiting relatives here for several days, will leave Monday night for their home at Bluefield, W. Va.

Mr. Jno. Jones who was called from Charleston, S. C., a week ago on account of the illness of Mrs. Jones, will return to Charleston tomorrow.

The work of improving the grounds near the Seaboard station, which has been delayed by bad weather, is now under way again. A new well has been driven which gives a fairly good flow of water and there is much rejoicing by those accustomed to secure water at that place.

Lumberton people are hereby notified to be on their guard against counterfeit money. It is here in 25-cent pieces and a mighty poor job, if you look at it.

Mr. A. E. Spivey is now engaged in marking the streets of the town. His work is very fine and attractive.

Mrs. M. W. Floyd and Miss Epsie Fuller, both of whom have been quite ill, are very much improved and are now convalescent. We regret to report the illness of County Auditor A. T. Parmele, whose condition is such as to cause gravest apprehension of his family and a host of friends.

As a matter of accommodation to those who desire to purchase stamps in the evening after the office has closed, the moving picture show will keep a limited supply and the management will be glad to furnish them.

SKETCH OF CHAS. M. GALLOWAY

To the Editor of The Star:

In Wednesday's Star, under the head of a special from Washington, D. C., there is a complimentary reference to Mr. Charles M. Galloway, Jr., but the writer is in error in saying that he was born in Bladen county. Several of the papers, among them the Philadelphia Ledger, say he is a native of South Carolina; so, to clear up the matter of his birth, and to give other points in his career, now that he has come into the limelight by a dint of hard work and talent and character, I will give a sketch containing the facts.

His father, Mr. Charles M. Galloway, Sr., is now on a visit to relatives in Wilmington. He is 78 years old and is a scion of the well-known Galloway family of Brunswick county, where he was born; and he lived at the county seat, old Smithville, for many years. His mother's maiden name was Miss Ellen Register, of New Hanover county, and she lived within a few miles of Moore's Creek Battle Ground. She died a few years ago at Greenville, S. C., at an advanced age.

There were six children in the family, two daughters and four sons. All the boys "took to" the telegraph business as naturally as bees sip honey from the flowers. The younger one was John D. Rockefeller's private telegraph operator for quite a number of years, but to go into all details would make this article too long.

Charles M. Galloway, Jr., was born at the home of his mother in New Hanover county, now Pender county, near the battle ground mentioned above, and came to Wilmington with the family when he was seven years old. Herbert, an older brother, paid Mr. John Gore $50 to teach him telegraphy. Mr. Gore was then the bookkeeper for Mr. D. L. Gore, but previously had been an operator. Charles, who was a boy of 11 Summers and small for his age, asked Mr. Gore if he could not go down with his brother Herbert (the teaching was done at night as both boys were employed during the day), and pick up what he could of the Morse, to which Mr. Gore very kindly consented.

They studied under Mr. Gore about six months. Charles started life as a messenger boy at the Atlantic Coast Line offices, and it was while so engaged that he began to pick up telegraphy. His first work as an operator was at the "Y" of the A. C. L. in the edge of the city when he was only rounding into his 12th year. From there he went to Wrightsville Beach under the old railroad regime. A Mr. MacRae, of Fayetteville, induced him to go to Elizabethtown where he taught MacRae how to telegraph, and then returned to Wilmington to resume telegraphing.

He was now 13 years old and was under Mr. E. B. Borden, who was then a splendid telegraph operator. During the time he was with Mr. Borden, Mr. A. J. Galloway, of Goldsboro, walked into the office one day and said to Mr. Borden, "Who is the little boy standing on the box and handling the telegraph key so deftly?"

Mr. Borden replied, "That's young Charles Galloway, a kinsman of yours." Thereupon Mr. Galloway spoke to the boy and invited him to go to Goldsboro and see his son Jack.

Young Galloway afterwards went to Sumter, S. C., to work for the Western Union, later he plied his calling at Charleston, Charlotte and Savannah, being promoted from time to time on account of his industry, honesty, sobriety and lightling-like rapidity on the key. He finally went to Columbia, S. C., as a press operator for the Columbia State, having had experience in that line before; and boarded in the family of that great and gifted editor, Gonzales, for four years. He lived in Columbia some 12 or 13 years, enjoying the fast friendship of Gonzales, who promoted him to telegraph editor, and afterwards to news editor, of his influential paper.

While in Columbia, he began the study of law and graduated from the University in 1907, but I do not think he followed his profession for a livelihood. He married Mrs. Bruland, nee Miss Lyda McNulty, a resident of his adopted city and a lady of many graces of mind and person. They have no children.

His courteous manners, industrious habits, faithfulness in the discharge of his duties, together with popularity and fine abilities, attracted the attention of Hon. Ellison D. Smith, and when that gentleman was elected to the Senate of the United States some five years ago, he appointed young Galloway his private secretary and also helped to secure for him the position of clerk to the Senate Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard, of which Senator Smith is the chairman.

Among the newspaper articles written about Mr. Galloway since his recent appointment as Civil Service Commissioner is one from the Philadelphia Ledger, which says that Galloway, who has been a sort of vade mecum of Senator Smith, will be missed by that gentleman when next he fares forth to seek recognition and reward at the hands of the people of South Carolina. "Galloway is of the Scotch-Irish sort," says the article, "a very popular sort just now, and as his name would indicate, is probably of the Presbyterian persuasion, likewise a very popular brand at this time. Commissioner Galloway is a good looker, of medium stature and a rather delicate frame, but with a finely shaped head, well set on square shoulders. His eyes are black, of the liquid type, set wide apart under an intellectual forehead. His manners are courteous, and his habit that of the student rather than the politician. He is not a politician, except in the sense that he is a Democrat of approved courage and consistent record. He is diligent in business, has the invaluable gift of industry and knows a good deal about men and their ways. He is well educated and 'made good' in newspaper work of the better sort before he entered the public service as the special 'gardeen' of Senator Smith.

"How the President found him out is not known—probably somewhat after the method he adopted in the selection of his cabinet advisers—but the public may be well assured that in this modest young man he has made no mistake."

W. C. GALLOWAY.

FAIR-MINDED PHYSICIANS

recognize the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and do not hesitate to prescribe it. A woman from St. Cloud, Minn., says she was led to take it because she learned that her doctor's daughter had been taking it with most excellent results. This is another link in the long chain of evidence to prove the reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for women.

WILMINGTON MEN HONORED.

Col. Taylor and Dr. Nutt Receive Gifts From Grand Lodge.

At the recent annual meeting of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, at Winston-Salem, Col. Walker Taylor, who served as Grand Chancellor the past year, was presented with a handsome Hamilton gold watch, suitably engraved on the inside, in recognition of his splendid administration. During the year the records show a net gain in membership of 264 which is one of the largest gains of any State in the Union. The speech of presentation in behalf of the Grand Lodge was made by Stonewall J. Durham, Esq., of Gastonia, who spoke in the highest terms of Col. Taylor's untiring efforts in forwarding the interests of the order. Col. Taylor was also given a rising vote of thanks as a further appreciation of his work by the Grand Lodge.

Dr. James D. Nutt, of this city, who has served as State Deputy for the past 10 years but who recently resigned, was given a beautiful mahogany China cabinet as a mark of appreciation of the Grand Lodge for his valuable services. This was presented in behalf of the Grand Lodge by Rev. Dr. John Hollowell Dickinson, of Goldsboro, who briefly reviewed the splendid work that Dr. Nutt has done in advancing the interests of the order.

It's red, redolent and juicy if it is a peach grown around Wilmington.

Men who can't use a typewriter are liable to be given away by their handwriting.

If freight rates get too high on corn, quit buying corn. Raise it and save the freight.

Wilmington and Southport possess the potentialities. The thing needed is for us to get jinger in us.

When some men want something they go out and buy up enough men to make the chances better.

When Wilson says he has seen something of an insidious character, don't dispute it till you look for the nigger in the woodpile.

A Chinese statesman declares: "China can hold all the Chinese for a hundred years to come." However, can the Chinese hold China that long?

A Virginia farmer refuses to use dynamite on his farm because he does not want to startle his wife. That leaves it to her to blow up things without any opposition.

An undertaker at Pottsville, Pa., gave the physicians of the city a banquet. It is left to the doctors to say whether the undertaker means to be appreciative or ironical.

Says a writer, who says things: "A man should hold his wife's hand." Yes, hold her hand and tell her that hereafter you expect to split the kindling and bring in the wood.

President Wilson's sudden appearance at the capitol doubtless reminds the Congress men of the days when the schoolmaster showed up when the boys were not expecting him on the scene. We have been there. Have you?

The sun came down hot and strong yesterday, but this is no complaint. We'd rather have to hunt the shady side of the street than to wear an overcoat perfumed with mothballs, as was done by some men during the cold week ending last Thursday.

Wilmington's progress as a banking center is manifested in the statement of the banks of that city on June 4th. There are seven banks in Wilmington. They represent total resources of $15,443,969.71. The cash on deposit is $10,037,989.15. This is a fine showing and is an index to the constantly expanding commercial interests of North Carolina's seaport.—Charlotte Observer.

Some men think a cow pasture is an open range where a cow would waste away trying to find something to eat. A couple of acres of vetch and rye, or alfalfa and rye, would furnish more green food and grazing for a dozen cattle than a square mile of swamps and ticks. People right around Wilmington are proving it. Why not follow the example of those who get there and show the goods?

While women are trying to get equal rights with men so far as voting is concerned, men can get even with them by trying to be as honest and trustworthy as women. Department store managers, business houses, and financial institutions all over the world are placing women in positions of trust. They are made cashiers and are trusted with handling money because they are regarded as being more honest than men.

STILL DEFYING ANTI-TRUST LAW

With the Congress of the United States busying itself to further amend the Sherman anti-trust act so as to prevent combinations and mergers in restraint of trade, the merger idea seems to predominate abroad as well as here. Even the trusts that are supposed to have been "busted" by Roosevelt and Taft have been so little affected by the dissolution decrees that the Wilson administration is facing the necessity of going after certain huge combinations again. Even amending the anti-trust law is found necessary, since yesterday the Star published a Washington dispatch containing some amendments proposed by Senator LaFollette.

The dispatch states that Senator LaFollette introduced "a bill to amend the Sherman anti-trust law so as to provide that when any person, firm or corporation is held guilty of restraining trade, the burden of proof to establish the reasonableness of such restraint should be upon the defendant." We do not know whether the LaFollette bill uses the words "held guilty of restraining trade" or not, but he must mean that when a person, firm or corporation is under indictment, for they couldn't be "held guilty" till they are tried and convicted. No person, firm or corporation is guilty in law until a conviction is had, and certainly while their trial would be in progress it already is their right to set up as a part of their defense the contention that such restraint as they may have practiced is "reasonable."

The Supreme Court of the United States adopted the "rule of reason" in trust cases, and no defendant would neglect to plead that rule and furnish the proof during trial. We cannot see the reason, therefore, of putting the burden of proof on defendants, when they already have the right to offer such proof and would be false to themselves if they did not do so. Hence, we do not see the necessity of that one of the LaFollette amendments so far as the public is concerned.

On the contrary, the LaFollette amendment would simply mean Congressional recognition of the rule of reason, and it would be writing into a Congressional act what the Supreme Court wrote into law by its decision a year or so ago. Defendants already are safe under the decision of the Supreme Court, and the LaFollette amendment puts on them what is already on them when government indictment charge them with "unreasonable restraint" of trade. The burden of proof is on the government to prove unreasonable restrain, and certainly it already is up to defendants to furnish all the proof they can to show that their action is reasonable under the decision of the Supreme Court.

Necessarily, all laws put the burden of proof on the government or the State to prove its case. The burden of proof of any charge is on the accuser, and it is up to the accused to furnish proof to the contrary by exercising his right under the law, and especially as construed by the highest court in the land. So long as the "rule of reason" decision stands, defendants can take advantage of it. We do not see how it would help the government's case to put the burden of proof on defendants, when, as a matter of fact, they can deny the allegations and furnish proof to sustain their denials. Clearly part of that proof would be to show that their action was not unreasonable, or the equivalent of showing that it was reasonable according to the decision of the Supreme Court.

Senator LaFollette's other amendment defines what is "conclusively unreasonable," but nothing is conclusively unreasonable if the Supreme Court should come to a different conclusion. Apt as not the Supreme Court would rule that the declaration in a Congressional act as to what is "conclusively unreasonable" is not conclusively unreasonable. If the LaFollette amendments aim at getting around the rule of reason of the Supreme Court, we can't see how he can do it by really incorporating recognition of it in an amendment to the anti-trust law.

However, the combinations and mergers continue. At Montreal, Canada, June 10th, eleven steamship companies operating on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river entered into a $16,000,000 merger, the consolidated company to be known as the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company. The one company will operate all the ships and steamers of the eleven Canadian and American lines. Among the eleven old companies is the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company of the United States, and as the consolidated company takes that name it is presumed that the American company has swallowed up the others.

None of the companies seem to fear the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, unless their organization in a Canadian city indicates that it is their purpose to get beyond Uncle Sam's jurisdiction. The combination will monopolize commerce on the Great Lakes.

WILMINGTON ON THE MAP

It is educational to look at your map quite often. People can learn a great deal by looking at their maps. A glimpse at your map will show you that Wilmington is the natural distributing point for two-thirds of North Carolina, half of Georgia, half of Alabama, and nearly all of Tennessee. That is the reason the greatest distributing concerns of the United States are locating in Wilmington. The Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, the American Agricultural Chemical Company, Swift & Co., and Armour & Co., have located fertilizer factories at Wilmington. They have located where they have the facilities of water and rail for distribution into a large and productive agricultural region. For the same reason, William R. Grace & Co., and Wessel, Duval & Co., New York firms, and the German Kali Works, are distributing nitrate of soda, kainit, potash salts and other fertilizer materials out of Wilmington. They will continue to come. More terminal facilities will bring them every time.

Harbor terminal facilities make ocean and river transportation available. Without them all the possibilities of water transportation are naught. Wilmington owes her growing commerce to her terminal facilities. Those who have not seen the Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line terminals have no idea of their potentiality as a factor in the growth of the commerce of the port. The Seaboard Air Line has five commodious warehouses with docking facilities for handling the numerous ocean steamers engaged in bringing potash salts and other fertilizer materials to this port. In the same vicinity the Atlantic Coast Line has a huge warehouse and docks where $3,000,000 of nitrate imports have been handled during the past six months. These railroad terminals are responsible for adding about $6,000,000 to $7,000,000 annually to the commerce of Wilmington.

The larger of Wilmington industries owe their success to their admirable water and rail terminals. Chief among them is the compress of Messrs. Alexander Sprunt & Son, from which goes cotton exports of from $28,000,000 to $31,000,000 a year. Then there are a half dozen large fertilizer factories with their water and rail terminals, all adding to the economy of manufacturing and transportation. The best way to realize the advantages of Wilmington for handling commerce is to see the terminals. The best way to realize the advantage of water and rail transportation for manufacturing is to see the plants of Wilmington's big fertilizer factories.

As we increase our water terminals, we increase Wilmington's adaptibilities for both commerce and manufacturing. Just as modern terminal facilities are increasing the commerce of the port and furnishing business for the railroads, so will the terminals increase the advantages of Wilmington for manufacturing of all kinds. The simple reason is that manufactories can be so located that they can secure economical distribution by water and rail.

We ought to play this up to everybody who wants to locate manufactories where they can get the most out of them. Others may not observe these advantages if Wilmingtonians do not point them out and emphasize them at every opportunity.

THE CITY OF 1,000 FACTORIES

Referring to the pluck of Dayton, Ohio, the Knoxville Sentinel marvels that in two days that thrifty Ohio city raised $2,000,000 to defend itself against such disastrous flood conditions as the city experienced a few months ago, and to put the city back on its feet, so to speak.

Of course, that was heroic in the citizens of Dayton. It was specially altruistic, for Daytonians have shown their confidence in the stability of their city and its future possibilities. From a small town a few years ago, Dayton has grown from a small town to a city with more than 100,000 population. It has developed into an industrial city with more than 1,000 factories. The factories have brought population and thrift to Dayton. They will continue to add to the material development of that city.

A city with 1,000 factories can get a hustle on itself when it comes to raising $2,000,000 to take care of itself. Dayton's citizens were financing a big asset. They were insuring their city of 1,000 factories against flood damage in the future. Dayton has grown too big to think of moving, and she will not move but will stay where she is and go right on manufacturing.

Manufacturing is Dayton's job. Dayton's growth shows what manufacturing will do for a city. The readiness with which a fund of $2,000,000 can be raised in a manufacturing city of 100,000 population and 1,000 factories, ought to enable other cities to take careful note of the potential factors in making a city. It is manufacturing.

GOVERNMENT STEAMSHIPS

Representative Edmonds, of Pennsylvania, wants the government to build twenty big steamships of 8,000 tons displacement each, to be employed in commerce during times of peace and utilized as transports in the eventuality of war. He has introduced a bill authorizing the President to construct or acquire twenty such steamships, and his bill proposes an appropriation of $25,000,000 for the purpose.

The Pennsylvania Congressman's bill proposes that the twenty ships be leased to the Panama Railroad Company in the upbuilding of Central and South American trade when not in the use of the government. The Panama Railroad is owned by the government, and as its railroad prosperity can be used to better advantage with steamship connections, Mr. Edmonds has made a two-fold proposition that may yet strike the country as a mighty good idea.

Don't get too hilarious on the Fourth of July. Some men's idea of the 4th is that it is a good time to do like a Commanche Indian.

CURRENT COMMENT.

When you tell an extraordinary story, always furnish proof. This is what Mr. B. B. Bouldin generally does. He has a little farm a mile from the city. Tuesday morning he noticed something peculiar about his potato vines; he examined them and saw they were frost bitten. On his place is an old darkey who has spent his life in farming. He said it was frost. But to insure satisfaction he brought some of the tops to this office and no man can deny that frost got in its work. They are burned black in spots. In addition to Mr. Bouldin's word and the word of the old darkey, Mrs. Bouldin is likewise a witness. The potatoes were on a hill facing the north, where the wind has clean sweep for miles.—Greensboro Record, June 13.

The Wilmington Star says that: "A woman in North Carolina owns a farm that nets her $5,000 a year. It is easy to understand how a man can love the very ground a woman walks on." There are many farms in North Carolina that earn 20 per cent. and more upon their market value, while some of them earn in the neighborhood of 100 per cent. on their assessed value.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Wilmington has quite lately installed a crematory or incinerator, and the City Council now has under consideration the purpchase of one of these plants for Raleigh. A great many cities have them and in many they are in central locations, at Atlanta, for example, as they are odorless and so cause no annoyance. The one at Wilmington is of steel and is considered superior to those lined with brick. These incinerators consume everything that is taken to them, even dead animals, such as horses and cattle.—Raleigh Times.

The search and seizure law did a good stroke of business in grabbing that carload consignment of liquor on the way from Norfolk to Morehead City. The seizure at Oriental shows that the officers had their eyes open and that they did business. There should be some way to get at shippers and railroads engaged in the business of deliberately planning to violate the laws of this State. The railroads are engaged in a sorry business when they become assistants in violating the law.—Raleigh News and Observer.

There is no greater enthusiast in North Carolina than Hubert Ramseur, of Fayetteville, which is at the head of navigation on the Cape Fear river. Up to a half a century ago Fayetteville was a household word in a large area of North Carolina, including Raleigh, from which it is only 62 miles distant, for goods were brought to it by boat and then hauled into a large section of the lower piedmont country. This had then been the case for over 100 years. Now Mr. Ramseur sees Fayetteville again becoming a distributing point and giving Raleigh the benefit of lower freight rates. He says that within eight months the improvement of the river by the United States engineers will give eight feet of water to this town, and he declares that Raleigh is going to get the benefit of this. Like every good North Carolinan, Mr. Ramseur thinks a lot of the Capital City, Raleigh, and regards a combination of Fayetteville and Raleigh, with the Norfolk Southern Railway as a "binder", as a mighty strong combination. Raleigh sees these things and goes him one better by predicting a trolley line some of these days, as another tie between this city and the metropolis of the Upper Cape Fear.—Raleigh Times.

THE GETTYSBURG COMMISSION.

To the Editor of The Star:

I notice the criticism of Governor Craig's appointments for commissioners at Gettysburg, and I think the point is well taken. While there should be no distinction made where every soldier who followed the immortal Lee did his whole duty, yet we have some of those noble veterans left in Eastern Carolina. It would have been a graceful thing for Governor Craig to have appointed to that commission Gen. James I. Metts, as gallant a soldier as ever trod the soil of Virginia, and who was desperately wounded at Gettysburg. I have written the Governor what we Eastern people think. R. P. PADDISON,

MATTERS BEFORE COUNCIL

Reconsider Action Relative to Distance Private Markets Shall be From City Markets—"No Tax" Analysis.

While nothing of a sensational character developed, yesterday's called meeting of the City Council was full of interest and "something was doing" every minute of the three-quarters of an hour the body was in session. Briefly, the Council voted to reconsider its action in prohibiting private markets within 396 feet of markets owned by the city, referring the matter to a committee for investigation and report; discussed the enactment of a new Sunday selling ordinance; adopted a resolution asking the Board of Health to instruct the city chemist to make report direct to the chief of police of the result of analyses of samples of concoctions given to him for examination from the chief; heard from the city attorney an "off hand" opinion that the city has no right to allow merchants the use of any portion of the sidewalk for the display of their goods.

There were present a large delegation of prominent citizens in the interest of an ordinance to take the place of the Sunday selling ordinance that was repealed at the regular meeting Wednesday. It was soon seen that neither the Council nor the citizens had anything definite in mind as to what the proposed ordinance should contain, so the matter goes over to a subsequent meeting and in the meantime the city attorney is to get the views of the Council and the ministers and endeavor to draft an ordinance that will come as nearly meeting the views of all as is possible and at the same time be a measure that will stand the tests of the courts. A conference was held by the Council immediately following the open meeting for the purpose of discussing with the city attorney the proposed ordinance.

Councilman Wood said that his attention had been called to fortune tellers doing business in this city and inquired if they were paying any tax. The Mayor informed him that they were paying a tax of $50 a month.

City Would be Liable.

Councilman Wood said that he would like for Council to take whatever action is necessary to give the merchants the privilege of using two feet of the sidewalk in front of their stores for the display of their goods. Mayor Moore inquired of the city attorney if the Council had the right to grant this privilege. The city attorney, ex-Judge E. K. Bryan, replied that the Council could not grant permission to obstruct the streets. The ordinance now on the statute books of the city, he said, prohibiting the use of any portion of the sidewalks for the display of goods, wares, etc., is in accordance with his view of the law. He said further that if the Council gave to the merchants permission to utilize the sidewalks that the city would be liable for any injury that might result to any pedestrian by reason of the obstruction. At the request of Councilman Wood the city attorney said he would look into the matter thoroughly and make report at the next meeting of what relief, if any, Council can give the merchants in this regard.

Vote to Reconsider.

Councilman Wood moved that the action of Council in adopting an ordinance prohibiting a private market from doing business within 396 feet of markets owned by the city, be reconsidered. The motion was seconded by Councilman Merritt. Councilman Chadwick was on his feet in a jiffy loudly and vigorously protesting against reconsideration of the ordinance. He said that the city receives only 3 per cent now on the money invested in the Front street market house, but if the ordinance as adopted is allowed to stand the revenue might be increased 5 or 6 per cent. through the rental of the space that is not at present taken. The vacant space, he said, would hardly be rented unless some "protection is given our clients." Councilman Cradwick said he wanted to register his most vigorous protest against any change in the ordinance and served notice on the Council that if it is repealed he will "bring it up at every meeting of this body until you will be forced to take favorable action."

Councilman Wood said that in no other city is such protection of monopoly given by the city government, but on the other hand they have private markets all around those located in the city market buildings. Councilman Chadwick objected to the term monopoly and asserted that there could be no monopoly when there is so large an amount of vacant space at the city market house which can be had by any one desiring to do business there.

Councilman Merritt said that he felt that it was not so much the duty of Council to protect the markets as it was to protect the public. He said he understood that the two stores in the Front street market could not be rented for market purposes and the only space left in the building that could be used for sale of meats, etc., is in the rear of the place, and is not considered very desirable for market purposes.

Councilman Wood said that he thought that if he was in the business he would be ashamed to come before a meeting and say that he feared competition; that if he could not do enough business without asking special favors of the city he would quit.

Councilman Chadwick replied by saying that it was not a question of fearing competition, but that he considered it the duty of Council to protect the persons who rent their market space from the city.

The motion of Councilman Wood to reconsider was then put and carried, Councilman Chadwick alone voting in the negative. Councilman Loughlin was not present, but he voted against the ordinance when it was introduced.

Councilman Wood moved to rescind the ordinance, but at the request of Councilman Jones, who suggested that it would be well to hear both sides before taking further action, it was agreed that the Mayor should appoint a committee with Councilman Loughlin, in charge of Public Affairs, as chairman to investigate and report at the next meeting. Councilman Chadwick and Wood were named to serve on the committee with Councilman Loughlin.

Mayor Moore suggested to members of Council that hereafter it would be well for them to consult with the Mayor and city attorney before adopting an ordinance so as to avoid as far as possible being placed in the position of marching up hill and then down again.

During the discussion of the market house ordinance it was stated that the firm of Hopkins, Davis & Hintze, which has most of the space at the Front street market, pay to the city $111 a month as rent. All market men occupying space in the city markets are exempt from the license

SHOW THEIR APPRECIATION

Postmaster Wallace, Who Retires Today, Presented With Several Gifts by Postoffice Employes Yesterday

Postmaster T. E. Wallace was very much surprised yesterday afternoon when the city carriers came marching into his office in a body, and presented him with a beautiful diamond studded Elk's pin as a mark of their appreciation of his administration as postmaster. The speech of presentation was made by Mr. W. G. Otersen, who, in behalf of the carriers of the city, paid a splendid tribute to the man who has been their chief now for nearly 10 years.

Mr. Wallace responded in appropriate words of gratitude, stating that during his administration he had ever tried to do his duty faithfully, and that he had held the carriers to a strict accountability. He had always tried to administer the affairs of the office, he stated, in a kind and courteous manner but he had never shown favor to any, and had always required a faithful performance of duty. In view of these facts he was especially grateful for the mark of appreciation from the carriers, for he could receive it with a clear conscience.

In a few minutes after the carriers had gone another knock was heard at the door, and this time it was the clerks of the office headed by the assistant postmaster, Mr. Warren G. Elliott, who came to say farewell to their chief. Mr. Elliott in fitting and eloquent words of praise presented Mr. Wallace with a handsome amber briar wood pipe and a meerschaum cigar holder as a token of appreciation from the clerks of the office.

This time Mr. Wallace was so overcome with emotion that he could hardly express his thanks, but he told the boys of the postoffice that while he was severing his official relation with them he would always remember not only them but the carriers as a band of earnest, faithful workers. There were few dry eyes in the room when he finished. It was indeed a scene that will long be remembered by those who were present.

The change in postmasters will take place this afternoon when Mr. H. McL. Green will take charge of the affairs of the office. Tomorrow it will be Postmaster Green, and Mr. Wallace will be a private citizen. Mr. Wallace leaves the office with the respect of all the citizens of the town. He has served faithfully and well during the 10 years he has been in office, and not only do the men who have worked under him honor him for the splendid service he has rendered but every patron of the office is also grateful to him for the efficient maner in which the affairs of the office have been administered from day to day.

Mr. H. McL. Green will have the hearty co-operation of Mr. Wallace as he takes charge of the office, and with the many years of experience that he has already had in public life, is in a position to render most efficient service. The postoffice is falling into capable hands, and the people of Wilmington are assured of a postoffice service second to none in the State.

AN INTERESTING VISITOR

Hon. Adam B. Littlepage Talks of Wilmington—Wilson

Hon. Adam B. Littlepage, of Charleston, W. Va., a distinguished lawyer and public man of his State, Democratic member of the last Congress, has been a visitor to Wilmington the past few days on professional business. He and Mr. Iredell Meares, of this city, are associate counsel representing West Virginia interests in litigation pending in the U. S. Circuit Court at Charleston. After a visit to that city Thursday, these gentlemen returned to the city and Mr. Littlepage spent the day at Wrightsville, enjoying a fishing frolic, etc. He is a gentleman of handsome appearance and charming address and speaks enthusiastically of this city and its resorts. He leaves tomorrow for his home. Asked of his impressions here, Mr. Littlepage said:

"Wilmington is a beautiful city; in fact, one of our most important Southern cities. Its improvement since I was here three years ago demonstrates the energy and thrift of your good people. Your surroundings are good, location excellent and the hospitality of your people is simply superb. Hospitality, you know, brings us all into closer bonds of friendly interest. Your street car service is of the best and it will not be long until the people of the United States will ascertain that Wrightsville Beach on your near seacoast is the most desirable for Summer vacations in this country. This means so much for Wilmington and your people. With the finest pleasure resort on the Atlantic coast, which you are destined to have in the not-far distant future; the best society, the finest people, good and strong banks and successful business, your city will go by leaps and bounds."

"How about the Wilson administration?" Mr. Littlepage was asked.

"President Wilson is a Christian gentleman, an old-time Southern Democrat, but of the progressive school. The trusts of this country are impoverishing the rank and file of all our beloved people. He is a patriarch. Every honest man who loves his country should stand by him and help him to rid this country of the corrupting influences which are about to prove its damnation. Christ cleaned out the money-changers and history is repeating itself. He will win because he is struggling to help the masses as against the classes. He has served notice and watch him make good as certainly as he lives and God reigns." said Mr. Littlepage.

SERMONS BY REV. L. L. LITTLE.

First Presbyterian Church Missionaries in the City.

Rev. Lacy L. Little and wife, missionaries from Kiang-yin, China, whose coming was noted in yesterday's Star, arrived Friday night and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cumming, No. 115 Church street. Many friends in the city will find peculiar pleasure in greeting them. They are supported at the Kiang-yin station by the congregation of the First Presbyterian church, and were associated with Dr. and Mrs. George C. Worth in the work at Kiang-yin. This morning at 11 o'clock, Mr. Little will preach in the First Presbyterian church, and will hold services again at 6 P. M., to which the congregation and public are cordially invited.

MERCHANTS OF THE STATE

Annual Meeting at Wrightsville Beach This Week—Upwards of 200 Merchants Are Expected to Attend.

Upwards of 200 merchants from various parts of the State are expected at Wrightsville Beach Tuesday to attend the annual meeting of the North Carolina Merchants' Association which opens in the asembly hall of the Oceanic Hotel Tuesday evenng and continues in session through Thursday. A number of the merchants will arrive on the afternoon and evening trains Monday and will go through to the resort.

Mr. Joe Garibaidi, of Charlotte, is president; Mr. E. H. Munson, of Wilmington, is vice president, and Mr. E. W. Berryhill, of Charlotte, is secretary. The opening session Tuesday will be devoted largely to formally welcoming the visitors.

The badges of the association, received yesterday, are of a most attractive design. The idea for the design was given by Mr. Munson. On the pin which supports the pendant is a blank space with celluloid card on which the name of the wearer may be easily written, thus serving as an identification at first glance. It also has the official title—"North Carolina Association"—and underneath this is the seal of the State.

The pendant represents an oyster shell on which is seen the ocean and breakers dashing against the shore, while far out is seen a sail boat riding the waves. At the bottom are the words, "Wrightsville Beach, June 17th, 18th, 19th," the whole finished in green antique. As a souvenir of the occasion it will be highly prized by the merchants.

Defendant Charged With Sale of "No Tax" to be Tried Wednesday. Interviews in Answer to Chief Williams.

In Justice Harriss' court yesterday at noon the trial of the case against J. B. Neeley, charged with the sale of malt liquor containing alcohol in violation of law, was continued until Wednesday at noon. The defendant was continued under the same bond with Mr. Carl Strunck as surety. Wbodus Kellum and A. G. Ricaud, Esqs., appear for the defendant.

Neeley was arrested late Friday afternoon on a warrant from Justice Harriss' court, affidavit by Mr. H. Mack Godwin, a special officer. In yesterday's Star there appeared an interview with Chief of Police Williams to the effect that he and his officers had been working on the case against Neeley for the past ten days; that when a car load of "No Tax", the beverage Neeley is charged with selling, was received here Thursday morning by Neeley that he (the chief) immediately took four bottles from different barrels to be analyzed by the city chemist in accordance with instructions given him by County Solicitor Peschau; that he left the bottles in the health department on Thursday to be turned over to the city chemist; that the report of the analyses was made to the County Solicitor, who in turn notified Justice Harriss, who caused a warrant to be issued and served on Neeley, thus putting the police department in the position of doing nothing to enforce the law while the county officers were busy. He protested that he was not treated fairly in the matter. Yesterday statements were made by others concerned in the matter and they are given below.

Mr. Geo. F. Catlett, chemist at the waterworks plant, who is now under the County Board of Health, and receives his compensation through that body and is engaged only for the time it requires to make water analyses, made the following statement last night of his connection with the analyses of the "No Tax": "I want it distinctly understood that up until today I have never received a sample of any concoction from the chief of police. I was given to understand by Dr. Nesbitt, superintendent of health, that part of my duties in the health department under arrangement with Mr. Peschau was to test samples submitted by Mr. Peschau and was to be paid for the same by him. The samples I have received, whether collected by the chief of police or others, were turned over by me to Mr. Peschau, who had given them to me.

"Today the chief of police gave me a sample and I tested it for him as a matter of courtesy. I told him that if he had much of this work to do he would have to make some arrangements about the compensation. Later in the afternoon I was notified by him that arrangements had been made to provide compensation for making the analyses and he also informed me that he would have much of this work to do. The result of these analyses will be made known to Chief Williams and to no other person."

Justice Harriss, in discussing the matter last night, said "Upon complaint, Sunday, June 2nd, that nearbeer was being sold at Wrightsville Beach, near Lumina, the matter was at once investigated and finding that it was being sold by Neeley we commenced buying sample bottles for examination. Some of these bottles were given to a chemist here who had done some work for the Robert Portner Brewing Company, manufacturers of the "No Tax", and the report of the analyses showed it contained alcohol. A warrant would have been issued immediately, but upon consultation with County Solicitor Peschau we decided to wait a little longer as he desired to get further information for his own use. These samples and analyses were not known to the police department or any one connected with it. And I did not know of the report made by Mr. Catlett for Chief of Police Williams until I read it in The Morning Star this morning, whereupon I immediately issued subpoenas for the chief of police and Mr. Catlett, the chemist, in order that I might use their evidence at the trial, which would be in addition to the evidence I have already secured.

"I have nothing further to say on the subject except that in the future I shall do as in the past, run my own business to suit myself and without any dictation whatever from anybody. When I desire to have analyses made I shall select such chemist as I desire and will be in position to pay the bill.

"I had hoped to work in perfect harmony with Chief Williams as I had done for the last two years with former Chief Fowler, but if this is not to be by his choice, 'Lay on McDuff'."

Mr. H. Mack Godwin, who is serving as a special officer, said yesterday in regard to the report that he had spent a portion of his time at police headquarters looking over the records, that he was engaged to investigate alleged violations of the law and had only been at headquarters when he wanted information in regard to these matters. He said that he had been employed for some time as special officer and no effort had been made to keep the fact a secret. The only records to which he has had access, he said, is the police blotter, which is open to anyone who cares to look at it, and the carbon copies of express receipts of shipments of beverages. This information, he said, can be had at the express office, and his only reason for going to police headquarters, he said, was because it was more convenient for him. He said that ever since he had been put on as a special office he had endeavored to be of service to the police and felt that he had.

Carry Patterson Arrested.

Carry Patterson, colored, the husband of Cora Patterson, who was badly cut Thursday afternoon, was arrested Friday night on a warrant charming him with assault with a deadly weapon. He was recognized in the sum of $25 for his appearance in Recorder's court. Isaiah James, the assailant of Cora Patterson, had a load of bird shot poured into him from some source. It is with this offense that Carry is charged but he has kept his mouth closed, and if he did it, he has not divulged the fact. As soon as the injured woman is able to appear in court both cases, one against Isaiah James and the other against Carry Patterson, will be heard in the Recorder's court.

AN AMBITIOUS PROJECT

Charlotte Chronicle Comments on Steamship Line Proposition

Editorially the Charlotte Chronicle has the following relative to the suggestion of Mr. C. E. Greenamyer, of this city, that the people of the State organize a company and own and operate a boat line from New York to Wilmington, thus giving to all points in the State a lower freight rate:

"That is a rather ambitious project described to the shippers and manufacturers and business men of the city by Mr. Greenamyer, of Wilmington, who proposes that a company be organized by the business men of the State to finance and operate a ship line between Wilmington and New York, the object being to secure material reductions in freight rates to all points in the State accessible to Wilmington. A quarter of a million dollars would be necessary to finance the proposition at the least, and if the reductions contemplated in freight rates could be secured the cost would be small compared to the benefits to be secured.

"The manufacturers and shippers and business men of the city generally are naturally deeply interested in any proposition with the possibilities of that suggested by Mr. Greenamyer, and The Chronicle has little doubt but that they will be ready to enter into such an organization as that proposed when a definite and practical plan is offered. It is decidedly up to the business men of Wilmington, however, to inaugurate the movement, work out the plans, secure a charter and then come to the people of the State with a clear proposition. It would certainly appear to the very great advantage of the people of the Coast City to do this, since Mr. Greenamyer declares that freight is taken from within 50 miles of Wilmington, hauled several hundred miles by rail to Norfolk and then taken to Baltimore and New York by water."

Civil Service Examination.

A civil service examination for the appointment of second officer for duty on light house tenders, will be held in the office of H. D. King, inspector sixth district, Charleston, S. C., Tuesday, July 1st, and applications for such examination will be received until noon of that day. The salary of the position is $900 per annum.

MARRIAGE TOOK PLACE NEARLY A YEAR AGO.

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage of Miss Mamie Bounds and Mr. Henderson Cole, Jr., which took place in Pittsboro November 1st of last year, the young people keeping their secret all these months. Magistrate "Bob" Burns, of Pittsboro, performed the ceremony. Mr. Cole was attending school at Elon College and Miss Bounds had gone to Roanoke College to attend the marriage of her brother. They met in Pittsboro and were married. The young people had reasons for desiring to keep their marriage a secret and nothing was said about it until yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Cole expect to spend the Summer at Wrightsville Beach.

Friday evening the Friday Afternoon Club gave a linen shower complimentary to Miss Lucile R. King, whose marriage to Mr. Bryan W. Newkirk, Jr., will take place at high noon June 18th. The pleasant affair took place at the home of Mrs. Lewis Williams, who was assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. R. Kelly. The color scheme of pink and green was carried out everywhere and formed very pretty combinations in the decorations. Telegrams were written to the bride-to-be, dated as of ten years hence, and were read by Mrs. C. E. Bethea, affording much enjoyment. After this the guests pulled green ribbons with cards attached, the bride-elect drawing a small express wagon loaded with beautiful linen. The guests were then served with ices, and the happy event came to a close. There were 30 guests.

Mr. Edmund A. Kneisel is director of the Hotel Orchestra.

The other night the old Atlantic got restless, and rolled and tumbled, the waves beating with terrific force upon the sandy shore line. In the rear of the Hanover Inn there was a high ridge of sand which obstructed the view of the briny ocean. It was the intention of Manager Foss to have it cut down, but the ocean waves saved him that trouble. It was cut down to the proper level and left. Now he has a plain view as far as eye can reach. Down at Lumina the sand was washed out to a depth of four feet. There was no storm but simply the restless turmoil that such weather as the past week has furnished must have made the old Atlantic feel.

The concerts to be given at Lumina this afternoon and tonight will no doubt be largely attended. Well selected programmes have been arranged for both concerts by Prof. Kneisel. The feature of the afternoon concert is a trombone solo by Mr. Cox, the trombonist of the orchestra. His selection for this number is "When I Lost You". Other important numbers on the afternoon programme are "The King's Bal Masque," "The Jolly Robebrs," overture; "After Vespers." On the night programme will be found a number of favorites among which are melodies from "Faust", "Peer Gynt" and "Orphee aux Enfers." The complete programmes for both concerts will be found in other columns of today's paper. The afternoon concert begins at 4 o'clock and the night concert at 8:30 o'clock.

Yacht Race Called Off

The yacht races at Wrightsville Beach were called off yesterday afternoon on account of the lack of wind. There were eight yachts entered for the race, and they started off splendidly but the wind soon died down. The Carolina Yacht Club has recently received the Jones-Walters trophy which is to be awarded the yacht which takes highest rank in Class A. The club will give a handsome silver pitcher as a second prize. Both of these prizes are now on display at Honnet's jewelry store.

tax of $100 a year, which is imposed on private markets.

In the opinion of Councilman Wood the city has been purchasing its supplies illegally since the new administration took charge in that no purchasing agent, as the law provides, has been elected. He said that this should be attended to at once. Mayor Moore suggested that action be deferred until Councilman Loughlin returns to the city, saying that he did not think it would be right to take up a matter of so much importance in the absence of a member of the body.

The Sunday Ordinance.

When asked if he had framed an ordinance to take the place of the Sunday selling ordinance repealed at Wednesday's session, City Attorney Bryan said that he had not for the reason that the Council had not communicated to him their views as to what should be included in the new law. He said further that he would like to discuss the matter in private with the Council and ministers as he had some things to say that he did not think it well to say in a public meeting, and thought that in a meeting of this kind where ideas could be freely interchanged that out of it all should come a law that would meet the requirements and at the same time stand the tests of the courts. He said that it would be better to have no law at all than to have one that is never enforced. The old law, he said, was never enforced and so far as he knew there never was a prosecution under it. He said that there was no one within the sound of his voice that had not at some time violated the State law as to observance of the Sabbath. Judge Bryan said that he would be glad to co-operate with the ministers and would meet with them Monday morning. He said that he would try to do what the ministers want done, but if he cannot do so then he will frankly say so. He repeated that a law not enforced, like the prohibition law, is worse than no law at all as it leads to contempt for all laws and brings on a spirit of anarchy.

"You don't mean to say that because a law is violated that it should be repealed?" inquired Rev. J. D. Bundy, pastor of Grace Methodist church.

"No," said Judge Bryan, "but I say don't put on the statute books unless you intend to enforce them. If they are put there merely for the moral effect it is hoped they will have without any intention of enforcing them they had best never be put on the statute books."

Mr. Bundy suggested that the Councilmen state their views of a Sunday ordinance so that the ministers would know whether or not it is worth while for them to give the matter further consideration.

Councilman Wood said that he had practically made up his mind as to what he was going to do. He understood, he said, that the drug stores would not remain open on Sundays unless allowed to sell cigars and cold drinks as the drug business alone would not justify them in keeping open. And said Councilman Wood, as we must let the drug stores remain open we will have to let the other cold drinks places stay open.

Councilman Merritt suggested that the gentlemen present let the Council know their views on the question. Mr. Bundy said that the matter had not been threshed out before the Ministerial Association, therefore anything he might say would be his own opinion only and would not reflect the views of the association.

Mr. J. Allan Taylor said that it occurred to him that the Council must deal with the matter in a practical way. The repeal of the ordinance Wednesday was not because the law per se was a bad one, but because it was discriminatory. It seemed to him that the Council might say to the city attorney that he draft an ordinance that would prohibit just as much work, business, etc., on Sunday as is possible. This would give the attorney something to work on.

Councilman Wood here remarked that in their informal discussions members of Council had suggested that all the stores be required to close at 10:30 A. M. on Sunday and stay closed until 2 P. M.

Councilman Jones said that so far as he was concerned he was in favor of allowing the sale of cigars and cold drinks on Sunday for the benefit of the large number of excursionists who come here every Sunday during the Summer.

The discussion was ended by the adoption of a suggestion of Councilman Chadwick that a conference on the question be held immediately after the meeting.

A communication was read from City Engineer Pillett suggesting that the contract for constructing the approaches to the incinerator be given to Mr. Brady at his bid of $600. On motion the recommendation of the city engineer was adopted. On motion a bill of $25 covering the amount of the expenses of Councilman Chadwick the Richmond to negotiate the $200,000 loan was allowed.

The Plate Ice Co., through Councilman Merritt, asked permission to place a water barrel at corner of Front and Princess and another on Front street, near the Masonic Temple, for the purpose of furnishing free ice water to excursionists in the city this Summer. A resolution giving the permission asked for was carried, subject to approval by the city attorney.

Councilman Wood inquired something of the occupancy of the foot of Red Cross street by Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son. Mayor Moore suggested that the matter be brought up at a later meeting. Councilman Wood said that he wanted the Council to confer with the firm with a view of getting some rent for the use of the street.

Matter of Analysis.

Councilman Merritt stated that he had been informed that Chief of Police Williams had sent to the city chemist samples of "No Tax" to be analyzed and that report of the analyses was made to County Solicitor Peschau, who in turn had a case brought before Justice Harriss, ignoring entirely the chief of police. The Councilman stated that the Council elected Mr. Williams over the protest of a great many people, but since his election nearly everybody has tried to give him their support in the enforcement of the law. Mr. Williams, he said, was trying to do his duty, and there is practicaly no objection to him now. Councilman Merritt said that it was the duty of the Council to stand by Mr. Williams and see that he is not hampered in the least in his efforts to enforce the law. He made a motion to the effect that the chairman of the Board of Health instruct the city chemist to make reports of analyses to the chief of police when the samples are furnished by that official. The motion was seconded by Councilman Wood.

Maj. W. N. Harriss, Clerk of Superior Court, among the delegation appearing in behalf of a Sunday ordinance, suggested that the Council hear the other side before taking the action asked by Councilman Merritt, saying that he overheard a conversation in his office yesterday morning between the county solicitor and another person that put quite a different light on the whole matter.

Councilman Merritt then asked for a statement from Chief of Police Williams, who was present. Chief Williams detailed the case about as given in The Star yesterday morning in connection with the arrest of J. B. Neeley.

Fair Play Wanted.

"I do not care how much others enforce the law," said Chief Williams, "but I do not propose to be put in a false light in this community with regard to law enforcement. I ask only for fair play. I want only what belongs to me and I expect to have it. When the police department works up a case it is no more than right that the department should be given the credit. It is not fair to me nor the department after we have worked up a case against a person for somebody outside the department to take advantage of the information we have gained and bring an action on the strength of it. I am not claiming that anybody took advantage of the police department in this case; I have merely laid the facts of the matter before you. I have no feeling whatever in the matter. All I want is an opportunity to enforce the law unhampered. I feel that as chief of police I should have the right to turn over to the chemist samples of concoctions I desire analyzed and be assured that the reports on these will be made to me direct, so that I may take action as seems best to me in the circumstances."

"You understand, Mr. Williams," said Councilman Jones, "that Mr. Peschau has no jurisdiction whatever over you and your department."

The motion of Councilman Merritt, seconded by Councilman Wood, was then put to a vote and carried unanimously. The Council then adjourned.

As to Special Officers.

It had been understood Friday that at the meeting yesterday some question would be raised as to the appointment of a special officer, or officers, by Mayor Moore, who are said to receive their compensation from the Good Government League, but nothing was said about the matter. Representatives of the league were present in goodly numbers and it is said that they were prepared to meet the issue in case it came up.

Councilman Jones, in charge of the Department of Public Safety, stated last night that there never was any intention of bringing the matter up before the Council for the reason that it is not necessary. He said that the city attorney had already given a ruling that the appointment of special policemen was solely in the province of the Councilman of Public Safety. He also held, Councilman Jones said, that the Councilman of Public Safety has the authority to revoke any appointment at any time he sees fit to do so.

"The members of the Council," said Councilman Jones, "have insisted that I call in all the badges. This I have done today. When all the badges have been turned in I will then make appointments as I deem advisable."

Chautauqua Meeting Tonight

A special meeting will be held tonight at the Chautauqua Auditorium, near Tenth and Princess streets. Rev. Sydney Scott, who is in charge, has returned to the city from a visit to Washington, D. C., where he attended the world's conference of missionary workers, and will preach tonight at 7:30 o'clock. It is announced that it will be impossible to secure seats after 8:30 P. M.

LOCAL DOTS.

—Mr. J. H. Mohr has opened a new meat market at No. 609 Red Cross street and has arranged in a sanitary manner to handle a nice line of meats and vegetables.

—The Delgado second team and Seagate played a very interesting game of baseball yesterday afternoon. The score was three to one in favor of Delgado. The game was well played by both sides.

—The residence owned by Mrs. John L. Cantwell at No. 819 Princess street, is to be converted into apartments. Mr. John Thomas, the contractor, has been given the contract to remodel the house.

—Sympathy will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. John C. Redd, of East Wilmington, in the death of their infant daughter, Bessie Blanche, which occurred early yesterday morning. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon, the interment being in Bellevue cemetery.

—The grandstand and fragments of the fence at League Park, east of the city, where many baseball games have been played in the last few years, have been removed and the place is to be no longer used as a baseball ground. The property was controlled by the Tidewater Power Company.

—Delgado baseball team defeated the Immanuel team at Delgado yesterday afternoon by a score of 11 to 6. Holt, for Delgado, struck out 10 men, and the Delgado bunch garnered 14 hits off the Immanuel pitcher. Cordel got a home run. The Immanuel boys got five hits and Lockamy, their pitcher, struck out three men. Delgado has played seven games this season, winning six.

—Deputy Sheriff A. L. Kelly will leave today for Newbern where he goes to get Alex. Hall, colored, who was arrested in that city Friday night by the chief of police on a warrant sent to him by Sheriff Cowan. Hall is charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

DIED

REDD—At the home of the parents, East Wilmington, Saturday, June 14th, BESSIE BLANCHE, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Redd, aged one day. Interment Saturday afternoon in Bellevue cemetery.

COTTON CLOSES VERY STEADY

Reviews of Cotton Goods Trade Indicate Continued Good Business —Opening Steady at Decline —Offerings Checked

New York, June 14.—An early setback was recovered in the cotton market this morning and the close was very steady at a net advance of 1 to 3 points. The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 5 points with the active months selling about 6 to 7 points net lower during the early trading.

Cables were about as expected, and reviews of the cotton goods trade indicated a continued good business, particularly in the West, but the outlook was for generally fair and warmer weather over the week-end and in addition to realizing there appeared to be some local selling on favorable new crop conditions and a feeling that the short interest had been materially reduced. Offerings were checked at the decline, however, by a bullish view of the census report on supply and distribution for the month of May which indicated a continued active consumption by domestic mills and the market later rallied on covering in the absence of any important offerings.

Houses with foreign connections were moderate sellers of the near months here, and Memphis was credited with selling new crop positions, but New Orleans bought some crop deliveries, and there was a considerable scattering demand from Wall Street sources during the late trading.

Spot cotton closed unchanged, middling uplands 12.35; middling gulf, 12.60; no sales.

Cotton futures closed very steady.

IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE

Powerful Influences Are at Work in the Stock Market—Violent Rises and Declines Have Been the Features

New York, June 14.—The most violent decline in stocks of the year, followed by a recovery almost equally rapid, made the week a turbulent in the securities market. Pessimism had prevailed for months in the financial district. Quoted values had fallen steadily until many leading stocks were 15 to 25 points below the high figures of the year. World-wide money tension, tariff legislation, a railroad receivership, European selling of American securities, evidences of contraction in some lines of business, all tended to increase the weight under which the market was staggering. Then came the Supreme Court's decision in the Minnesota rate cases which Wall Street hastily construed as decidedly unfavorable to railroads.

That a reaction should have followed was to be expected in the usual course of affairs, growing out of technical market conditions. But the extent of the reaction and the continued strength shown throughout the remainder of the week, made it evident that a change in sentiment had at last come over the financial districts.

Hastily-drawn conclusions regarding the Minnesota rate decision were modified on second thought. The distinct improvement in the political situation abroad helped to bring about a change in sentiment. There were indications that a plan for dissolution of the Harriman system would be officially approved in the near future.

More important still was the change in the money market. It has been recognized for months that the monetary situation the world over was the chief cause of depression of the securities markets, and the more liberal offerings of money by leading banks was of direct effect. Secretary McAdoo's announcement that he would approve the issuance of emergency currency was of value chiefly for its effect on sentiment.

In spite of relaxation, the financial outlook in its broader aspects was little changed. The situation abroad was unrelieved. Banks were still reluctant to place loans except for short periods and continued to pile up reserves for the crop-moving season. From some lines of trade came further reports of a slowing down in business. Crops were favorable.

ALL IMPORTANT STOCKS RISE

Substantial Amounts Added to Large Gains Achieved Since the Upturn Began—The Advance Continued Throughout.

New York, June 14.—The advance in stocks, which came after the violent break earlier in the week, went on unchanged today. Virtually every important stock traded in shared in the day's rise, which added substantial amounts to the large gains achieved since the upturn began.

Many stocks were carried above their prices of a week ago, having sustained a complete recovery from the downward plunge after rendition of the Minnesota rate decision.

Operations for the long account were carried on more confidently today, bull traders having been encouraged by the market's demonstration of firmness yesterday. Concerted efforts were made to drive in the short interest, which was forced to retreat. The advance was continued through the half day session without serious interruption.

Growing ease in money rates was an important influence in broadening speculation for the long account. Predictions of a large cash gain on the week by the banks were fulfilled, the bank statement showing an actual cash gain of approximately $11,000,000.

The week's liquidation in securities was reflected in a scaling down of loans, and nearly $9,000,000 was added to the excess cash reserves.

In the weekly trade reviews emphasis was laid on various favorable features of the week, including the good crop report, the better tone in the money market and lessening of tension in trade circles.

The bond market was firm. Total sales, par value, $1,297,000. United States coupons 3s advanced 1-8 and the registered 3s 1-2c on call on the week. Total sales were 238,100 shares.

THE RECORDER'S COURT

Tom Stokes Failed to Make His Appearance—Light Docket

Tom Stokes, county convict superintendent, who was charged with immoral conduct, was due to be tried before the Recorder yesterday, but failed to make his appearance and his cash bond of $50 was therefore declared forfeited. Stokes' whereabouts are unknown, and it is supposed that he has skipped.

The cases against Walter Hoffman and Willie Alcox, who were charged with vagrancy, were nol prossed with leave, it appearing that the defendants had left town. These are two young boys who were picked up by the police last week. They said that they were from Kinston, and they were allowed to return home. Ben Green, colored, was found guilty of violating the prohibiton law, but judgment was left open until Monday. Bond for his appearance was fixed at $100.

Thirty days on the county farm was the sentence in the case against Etta Baldwin and Mabel Jones, charged with vagrancy. An appeal was taken to the Superior Court, and they gave bond of $25 each for their appearance at the next term.

—Mr. Bogan E. Edwards train dispatcher for the Atlantic Coast Line, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at Harper's Sanitarium, has recovered enough to be at home again and is mending rapidly.

DECISION AFFECTS N. C. RATES

Corporation Commission States Supreme Court Action Has Important Bearing on North Carolina Contest

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 14.—It is stated at the office of the Corporation Commission that the ruling of the United States Supreme Court in the Minnesota case, has a most important bearing on the North Carolina freight rate contest, in that the court holds that Congress has the right to control intra-State rates on lines of railroad doing inter-State business if it sees fit to assume such control and delegate this to the Inter-State Commerce Commission, as it has the inter-State rate affairs.

Furthermore, bills to this end are now being prepared and this situation will have to be reckoned with, it is said, in whatever steps are taken hereafter in proceeding against the railroads.

An amendment to the charter of the Cary Lumber Co., is filed, changing the location of the home office from Angier to Durham, where the company has for a long while had a branch office. H. C. Statterfield is president. There is also an amendment for the charter of the Sterchi-Tillery-Rich Co., Wilmington, changing the name to the Sterchi-Bancroft-Rich Co.

A completely revised railroad map of North Carolina is just received, ready for distribution by the North Carolina Corporation Commission, the Commission not having gotten out a map before since 1907.

There are a number of new and very valuable features. It shows with clear demarcation all the steam and electric railway lines that have been built or extended since the former map was issued. It shows the Inland Waterway from Norfolk to Beaufort and thence southward. The map shows 280 miles of new railway lines.

Adjutant General L. W. Young, of the North Carolina National Guard, has gone to Camp Glenn, Morehead, to look into the preparations for the annual encampments of the companies of the Guard to begin July 8th. The first encampment will be the Second Regiment, July 8th to 15th; the next the First Regiment, July 22nd to 29th, and the third will be the Third Regiment, August 5th to 12th, inclusive.

Considerable improvements are being made in the equipment of the camp ground, the ultimate object in view being to bring the camp up to the capacity of entertaining the entire membership of the Guard in one big encampment.

It is an important fact that the War Department regulations now require in these encampments, companies of infantry are now required to have two officers and 38 men in line. The same requirements apply as to troops of cavalry. Field hospital corps must have two officers and 21 men, the ambulance corps two officers and 28 men and the bands 18 men each.

JULY TENT PARTY.

Arrangements for Novel Outing at Carolina Beach Next Month.

Sergeant James G. Bailey, of Fort Caswell, was in the city yesterday making arrangements for a tent party at Carolina Beach from July 15th to 20th. He arranged for printing the programmes, regulations, and announcements concerning the camp. The camp will be pitched in army fashion, and parties will come from several States to enjoy the novelty of camping beside the broad Atlantic.

Sergt. Bailey is carrying on a large correspondence with prospective campers who desire to make tent reservations. They are coming in groups, in families, in couples and singly. Parties of young ladies will have chaperones. The tented seaside resorts will be provided with sanitary arrangements which will be complete in every detail.

There are a number of ladies on the committee of arrangements and they write that the are listing many reservations, with every prospect of a large crowd of agreeable campers. Mrs. J. F. Conaly, of Augusta, Ga., writes that she has already booked a party of ten. Miss Little Henderson, of Charlotte, has booked 18; Miss Kate Simpson, of Camden, S. C., has entered five on her list; Miss Nellie Boykin, of South Carolina, has listed three. The booking is one by invitation.

DEATH OF MRS. A. E. BENSON

Passed Away Yesterday at Noon After Long Illness—Funeral Today

Mrs. Anna Eliza Benson, wife of Mr. W. W. Benson, died at the family residence, 707 North Fifth street, yesterday at noon. The deceased has been an intense sufferer for some months, and death came as a relief to free her from her sufferings. Besides her husband she leaves two sons, Messrs. W. L. and C. M. Benson, and four daughters, Mrs. J. J. Sherman, of Point Caswell; Mrs. E. J. Skipper, of Mullins, S. C.; Mrs. L. E. Benson, of Evergreen, N. C., and Mrs .N. L. Woodcock, of Atkinson, N. C.

Mrs. Benson was 68 years of age and a consistent member of the Southside Baptist church. The funeral service will be conducted from the residence this morning at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. W. G. Hall, assisted by Rev. J. A. Sullivan. The remains will be taken on the 8:45 A. C. L. train to Point Caswell, and the interment will be made in the family cemetery.

CLERKS "RING" MR. WOODWARD

Retiring Chief Clerk Presented With Token of Esteem

In token of the high esteem in which they hold their former chief revising clerk, Mr. Chas. W. Woodward, the members of the Revising Bureau of the Auditor of Freight Receipts office, A. C. L., yesterday morning presented him with a beautiful gold signet ring. Mr. Woodward has been in charge of this department for several years, resigning to become chief clerk to Mr. C. M. Butler. His uniform courtesy and consideration of his subordinates won for him a very high regard on their part, and they greatly regret the change which takes him from their department, though they are pleased at the advancement that has come to him. Mr. Woodward expressed his thanks in a happy way, praising the loyalty and good work of those who had served under him.

Funeral of Ernest Thompson

The funeral services of Ernest Thompson, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Thompson, who live at 622 South Fifth street, were held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence, conducted by Rev. J. S. Crowley, pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian church. The interment was at Bellevue cemetery. There were a large number of friends of the bereaved parents who attended the services.

AN INTERESTING REUNION

Tri-centennial Meeting of Merriman Family in Connecticut

A tri-centennial meeting of the Merriman clan took place at Wallingford, Conn., June 4th, which town was founded by Nathaniel Merriman and associates in 1632. About 200 descendants from Europe, Canada and America were present. Mr. L. J. Merriman, of this city, and his brother, Mr. E. L. Merriman, of Scranton, Pa., direct descendants, were at the reunion with their wives. The late Judge A. S. Merriman, of this State, was also a direct descendant of Capt. Nathaniel Merriman. At the reunion last week the coat of arms of the family as used in England were displayed and discussed. Among the principal speakers were Prof. Roger Merriman, of Harvard College; Prof. George B. Merriman, of Washington, D. C.; Prof. Mansfield Merriman, of New York, and Judge E. A. Merriman, of Hartford, Conn. Plans were arranged at this meeting for a permanent organization.

Funeral of Miss Miller

The body of Miss Lora Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Miller, whose death occurred at the family home in Waycross, Ga., Friday, will be brought to this city on the 1:40 A. C. L. train this afternoon and the funeral will be held from St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at 5 o'clock. Interment will be in Bellevue cemetery.

RAILROADS ENTER AGREEMENT.

Will Open New Routes Tending to Lower Freight Rates.

Lynchburg, Va., June 14.—Ernest Williams, of this city, president of the Durham & South Carolina Railway, which completed physical connection with the Norfolk Southern Railway today at Duncan, N. C., announced that a freight tariff agreement was entered into last Tuesday in New York City between the Norfolk & Western and the Norfolk Southern systems, by which the western part of the Norfolk & Western will be enabled to compete with Richmond and Norfolk for business in eastern and Central North Carolina. The new freight route to be known as the Lynchburg dispatch, will enable Lynchburg and Roanoke to seek North Carolina trade in a territory hitherto inaccessible on account of the lack of direct freight lines. The agreement becomes ecective July 1st.

NINETEEN MOORS KILLED.

Spanish Cruiser Discharges Destructive Broadside Into Enemy.

Alhucemas, Morocco, June 14—Nineteen Moorish soldiers were killed and 60 wounded in a single volley fired by the Spanish cruiser Rein Regente, according to an official dispatch received here today. It says:

"A large party of Moors boarded the Spanish gunboat General Concha after the crew had been taken off when she went ashore Thursday near here. They were pillaging the vessel when the cruiser Reina Regente came up and fired her entire broadside among them, killing 19 and wounding 60."

Havana, June 14.—Dr. Enrique Nunezy Patomino, secretary of public health, resigned today. He declared that it was impossible to conduct his department satisfactorily, because he was besieged by hordes of officeseekers.

Raleigh Times: "The Wilmington Star's special edition was a hummer. It contained 48 pages of well arranged, interesting matter about Wilmington and that immediate section. The edition is a fine advertisement for Wilmington and Southport and should result in much good to that community and to the State at large.

The French military authorities make use of an ingenious invention to protect their carrier pigeons against hawks. The apparatus consists of a very tiny whistle and a screw attached to the pigeon, whose flight causes the screw to revolve and blow the whistle. The noise effectually scares away the enemy.

Tackle Talk

When you get ready to fish, naturally your mind turns to where you should go to get good Tackle of the Right Kind.

We've got the good Tackle, and furthermore, if you want to "line up" on what to use—why just ask Tomz. Willie Tomz—or Willie, as he is familiarly known by the sporting fraternity, is an encyclopedia on the art of fishing—what to fish with and where to go, and when! Because he knows what he is talking about.

SPRING BUTT RODS
made especially to order for us.
PRICE $12.50 EACH

They conform in weight and size to regulations required in this season's Fishing Contest.

They are Beauties — nice, straight-grained, Genuine Lancewood and Genuine Bethabara, too—with all the nice little features that should belong to a high-class rod like these.

Deep Sea Poles, 15 to 20 ounce, $2.50 to $10.00. Reels, 200 and 300 yards. "Free Spool," $8.00 to $15.00. Reels, Deep Sea, without Free Spool feature, $2.00 to $6.00.

Hooks, Snells, Squids, everything to contribute to your pleasure in this line, to the salt, as well as the fresh water fisherman.

Don't forget to call for Willie. It's a joy for him to show, whether you buy or not!

Your Vacation Assured

You must plan ahead if you are to take a vacation this Summer. Else when the time comes, you won't have the funds.

We invite you to start a Vacation Fund with this bank. You are at liberty to draw out your money whenever you need it.

It is high time you began to save for the vacation which is coming later in life—old age. A bank account added to from time to time will insure a happy vacation in later life when your work is over and you are ready to rest.

The sooner you begin, the quicker you'll be able to retire and the further away from helplessness. Small accounts will receive careful attention.

MYSTIC SHRINERS' ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE

"THE DAILY DESERT DUST"

Official Organ of the Ancient Arabic Order Issued to Faithful All Over State, Carrying the News.

If the Illustrious Nobles of Oasis Temple of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine had overlooked the fact that their annual pilgrimage was due to be made June 26th and 27th, to Wrightsville Beach, they were made fully acquainted of it during the week by the Daily Desert Dust, official organ of the Temple.

The unique sheet was mailed out to the number of 3,000 copies, to all parts of North Carolina, by Mr. J. F. Leitner, "editor and scissors artist," and his publicity committee. Parts of it are given in The Star today, together with certain of the illustrations which embellish its pages.

Editorial Announcement.

Under the heading "The Daily Desert Dust is Born", Editor Leitner makes the following announcement:

"This paper is Democratic, Republican, Suffragest, Anti-Suffrage, Prohibitionist, and is nine-tenths Bull and one-tenth Moose.

"If you have any other ideas about politics, pay your subscription and they will be included with the above.

"It is named The Daily Desert Dust for the reason that it is only published once (Thursday night, May 29,) to call attention of the Nobles of Oasis Temple, that on the 25th of June the annual Pilgrimage will start for the celebration which will take place at Wrightsville Beach, Wilmington, N. C., on the 26th and 27th days of June, 1913. Allah has blessed us in abundance, the greatest things are in store for you, and the key to the store room will be put in the very center of your gentle palm.

"Now take unto yourself the proper amount of sober, sober thought, and make your arrangements to join the caravan at the proper time to put you here on the morning of the 26th. Don't let your little twenty-thousand-dollars-a-week business get in your way, for we have fixed up for you and if you should fail to attend, it will be pleading guilty to supreme foolishness before all of the other Nobles, in which case, may Allah have mercy on your benighted soul. You may miss Paradise in the same way.

"Read this paper and familiarize yourself with the entire programme and let the date sink deep into your soul, June 26th and 27th. This kind of a date won't give indigestion. Read the jokes and be carried back to your boyhood days. If you don't like them, 'cut 'em out', that's how we got most of them, and also it is a way we have of putting other papers at a disadvantage. How can they say our paper is punk when they are reading some of their own stuff."

Further editorial announcement is:

"It is customary in all law-abiding and well-regulated communities for a paper to be sued for libel by some poor misguided son of sin who feels peeved when he sees his name spelled wrong, or to have it printed under a picture that looks like Lydia Pinkum. The Desert Dust gives notice that suits will be instituted against all Shriners who even hesitate in accepting the whole thing as a fact, because we know the truth when we see it. We can even prove some of it."

The annual pilgrimage of the Shriners means that from 500 to 800 people will be in the city and at Wrightsville Beach June 26th and 27th. The usual attendance at the annual events is around 500. There are usually about 150 candidates for initiation, and not a few of the Shriners bring their wives. Since the pilgrimage is to be made to Wrightsville Beach when the Summer season there is in full swing, it is not unlikely that the attendance of members and their wives will be much above the average. There are known now to be not less than 100 candidates for membership. Hence, it is expected that the convention will be the biggest this season in Wilmington and at Wrightsville Beach.

"Divan al Akarim."

O. W. Spencer, Illustrious Potentate; C. P. Ambler, Illustrious Chief Rabban; J. L. Dabbs, Illustrious Assistant Rabban; S. H. Green, Illustrious High Priest and Prophet; J. E. Cameron, Illustrious Oriental Guide; W. L. McDonald, Illustrious Treasurer; Thomas Griffith, Illustrious Recorder; C. E. Cotton, Illustrious First Ceremonial Master; S. Gallant, Illustrious Second Ceremonial Marshal; R. J. Noble, Illustrious Marshal; J. B. Owen, Illustrious Captain of the Guard; H. B. Hiatt, Illustrious Outer Guard.

Past Potentates of Oasis Temple are: E. S. Liddell, Charlotte; J. T. Barron, Columbia; Wm. Anderson, Charlotte; J. F. Johnston, Charleston; D. E. Allen, Norfolk, Va.; J. L. Ludlow, Winston-Salem; W. F. Randolph, Asheville; R. S. Reinhardt, Lincolnton; H. A. Murrill, Charlotte; A. J. Crampton, Charlotte; J. F. Rhem, Newbern; T. C. Linn, Salisbury; J. F. Robertson, Charlotte.

The representatives to the Imperial Council are W. S. Liddell, Charlotte; R. S. Rheinhardt, Lincolnton; W. F. Randolph, Asheville; J. F. Rhem, Newbern.

These officers are all expected to be here, and in addition to the North Carolina Shriners, there will be an unusually large number of Shriners from other States. The red fez will be gotten out and caravans in many cities along the seaboard will be organized and headed for Wilmington, where, as soon as their dust is seen arising in the distance, a cordial welcome will be framed.

The Oceanic Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, will be headquarters. The Arab Patrol will arrive from Charlotte on the night of the 25th. Registration of candidates will take place at the Oceanic at 2 P. M. the 26th, and a business meeting of the Shrine will be held in convention hall at the hotel at 3:30 P. M. During the morning of the 26th, there will be a ladies' tour of the city and suburbs in automobiles, ending with lunch at the Elks' Temple, at noon.

An event of much interest will be the Shriners' parade from the Oceanic to Lumina at 7 P. M., and a scene that will attract a huge crowd at 8 P. M. will be the exhibition drill of the Arab Patrol in Lumina Pavilion. This promises to be particularly fine. The Shriners' ball in Lumina will take place immediately after this, or at 8:30 o'clock.

The second day of the meeting opens at 9:30 A. M. with the instruction of the candidates, which will be public and laughable throughout. The ceremonial session will be at Lumina at 11:30. At 5 P. M. an entertainment will be tendered the ladies at the Oceanic, and the programme concludes with the grand banquet of the desert in Mystic Oasis, on the sands of the beach. For this event a structure will be prepared, to get into which will involve a vast deal of puzzled traveling on the part of the Shriners, but the promise is made that at the end of the journey every pilgrim will find a place that will prove "Paradise enow."

The Daily Desert Dust carries a proclamation from Potentate Orpheus W. Spencer, of Salisbury, as follows:

"Proclamation!

"Illustrious Nobles—Greeting:

"Peace be unto you.

"In order that our duty of making the Summer Pilgrimage be properly performed, and that all members of Oasis Temple of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine be given an opportunity of attending the ceremonial session, I hereby proclaim that the meeting be held on the 26th and 27th days of June, 1913, at Wrightsville Beach, Wilmington, N. C., and command all Nobles to be present and assist in the exercises by which we will bring many novices from the lowest depths of ignorance to our own perfect enlightenment. Bismillah.

"O. W. SPENCER,

"Illustrious Potentate, Oasis Temple.
"A. A. O. N. M. S."

"To All Nobles Everywhere!

"May Allah bless you. It does not matter to what Temple you belong, or how far away it is, we want you to be with us at this meeting. Everything is in readiness and all arrangements have been perfected for one of the best meetings we have ever had. We want you to be with us. May Allah direct you here—we will do the rest.

"O. W. Spencer,
"Illustrious Potentate."

The welcome in The Daily Desert Dust flows from Editor Leitner's typewriter in musical stream from sparkling wells of hospitality and fun. It reads:

"The Wilmington Shriners have extended you a cordial invitation to hold this ceremonial session here, and now if you want to tickle us to death, come and receive our hearty welcome. Come and we will show you a real town—a town which is spreading so fast that the city limits have to be made of rubber, and so high that we expect to be able soon to buy milk on the top of our sky-scrapers from dairy farms in the Milky Way. Come and we will show you a town where Push & Pull have an office on four sides of every block and where the streets are paved with golden opportunities. We will show you a beach which was undoubtedly made after all other beaches were finished, as it possesses all the good patentable improvements on every beach that ever dammed an ocean, and prevented salt water from climbing the trees.

"In honor of your visit we have added a mile or two to the length and raked it back 200 feet wider, where you can stand at any point and see 30,000 or more square miles of good fishing and good bathing too, if you can push the fish out of the way far enough to get in the water.

"The bathing is absolutely safe, no sharks and no lobsters in the water. Look out for them on the beach.

"We have provided for your entertainment by establishing an Oasis in every little half-way Desert. Our refreshments are provided by Nooles Foster, McEachern, Martin, Hooper and Fetter, and to assure you that there will be an abundance of everything, their first order was for nine hundred dollars worth of mustard and eighty dollars worth of toothpicks. Get wise, there must be something to put that mustard on.

"Look at our entertainment committee—S. R. Keyes, not skeleton, just plain Barrel Keys, and D. R. Foster, the doctor who dissects the earth and passes over lots and lots to his friends in exchange for their dirhems. If this earth don't suit you, he will sell you a lot on Mars or Jupiter. He don't care, so you are satisfied; and J. R. Bear (not Budweiser, although we call him Bud) as you read this he is running around town getting up the auto caravan. He has forty machines, two pockets full of wrenches, oil cans, and compressed air, and if we can arrange the programme so that our Nobles can be in two places at the same time, he will have 40 chauffeurs. And there is Eric Norden, who is getting up the ball at Lumina and assisting the ladies in charge. Even now he wants to show us that he knows other steps besides the Bunny and Grizzly. One he calls the four-foot step; he uses it in walking down the street and when surveying in marshy places. And least (in height only) but not last, C. J. Joseph, who says he don't care what anybody says about them, he knows his legs are long enough; they reach the ground, and that's all he wants with them. You should long and pine to get acquainted with this one; he is going to be chief turnkey in Noble Longley's Mystic Oasis.

"Look good, C. J. Kelloway, isn't that enough to make you come? Poor 'Kel' had the misfortune last year to throw a hip joint out of place reaching over too far, in his anxiety to put a $10 frogskin in the church collection, but he has since called on Bonesetter Reese, and he is again on the job. His crutch is cut into stovewood, and he is cooking doughnuts for the ladies' luncheon.

"If you should see the sidewalk smoking don't be alarmed, it is only Noble Smallbones going after some poor souls who are waiting on the outside for that ennoblement which will make them marked men among us. Excuse his haste, we must have fresh meat.

"That funny noise you hear is Noble Perdew dreaming and thinking over in his sleep some new and novel form of entertainment, that we can add for your enjoyment. The above mentioned Nobles are a complete and perfect guarantee that everything you desire will be here for you.

"Let us make this one of the largest caravans that ever set out on a pilgrimage and should you take notice of any poor son of the Desert frivolling away his time, give him a wise hunch and start him with his hump in this direction; and you, Noble reader, get your green card, red fez, and low-neck clothes, if you have them; if not, come, but wear something."

The Desert Dust contains other welcomes and advice, and under the caption, "Be Ready!" has the following:

"Procrastination is your worst enemy, for he not only encourages you in putting off everything for a later date, but he actually pushes you out of the door of opportunity. Get ready now for this meeting, put your white and green card, and your red fez, in your little oil-cloth bag, and if this is all you have just blow it up with a bicycle pump (to make a good showing) and join the caravan. Noble Fetter, the chairman of the transportation committee, has succeeded in getting a very low rate and in another column you will find a schedule of rates from the principal points. Don't forget the ladies and their beautiful white fezzes, for while we are working hard and enjoying ourselves they must do the same. Mrs. Cuthbert Martin, the chairlady of our ladies' committee, has everything in readiness and her programme will delight all of the ladies you bring.

"Now, if possible, bring your wives, daughters and sweethearts; they will be given a royal welcome and a good time, but whatever you do, don't procrastinate, don't put off making your arrangements or you will look like those little foolish virgins—good tungsten but no current. However, if you clothe yourself with wisdom and get here on time you will look like a Burbank graft on the tree of knowledge. Don't forget to bring all the available candidates."

"Noble F. A. Fetter, I. N. president of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad and chairman of our transportation committee, has taken the matter of reduced rates up with the proper parties and has succeeded in getting a rate from all points in North and South Carolina equivalent to three cents a mile for the round trip. (The I. N. after his name means IS NOT president.) This rate to Wilmington is low; (not low in the railroads to give it to us, but is really cheaper than walking). Even though you live so far back in the country that it takes $2 worth of stamps to send you a postal card, you will find the rates so cheap that you will almost be ashamed to look the ticket agent in the face, and if you take over two parcel post envelopes of ice water on the train the railroads will lose money."

"Bring Your Red Fez".

The Dust says: "Your red fez is going to be an important part of your costume at this meeting, as it is the sign that will admit you to all the little 'Oasises' that will be established in and around the vicinity of Wilmington and also to the banquet of the Desert. The immense auditorium in which this is to be held is now being built by Chief Constructor Longley and his able corps of hole-diggers, nail drivers, wire pullers and whitewash artists. Arrangements have also been made for the ladies' reception and refreshment rooms in the Oceanic Hotel, and also a place for the Nobles which will be open at all times except during the meetings. A place where congregations ne'er break up and Dutch lunch never ends. Bring your white and green card. And this above all: when we see the dust of your caravan announcing your approach on the horizon line, our telescopes want to show us your usual smile."

Thanks to a number of people and business houses are expressed by The Dust: "The Wilmington Shriners are making every provision and doing everything in their power to give the entire Temple the time of their lives. We believe that natural conditions are in our favor and that all things point to one of the largest meetings that Oasis Temple ever had. We know that you will have a good time. In making arrangements for this meeting we have had many favors shown us by different people who are in no way connected with our organization, and we wish to extend to Messrs. Hugh MacRae and A. B. Skelding, for the Tidewater Power Company, our thanks for the use of their property and for their offer of assistance to make the meeting a success. We also wish to acknowledge our obligation to the gentlemen of the Cape Fear Club and the Messrs. Bear for the use of their property on the beach, and the Morning Star and the Evening Dispatch for many friendly notices. To the Oceanic Hotel Company for the invitation to make their hotel our headquarters and for the use of their ball room for our business session."

The Widows' Fund.

"There is one most important thing," declares Editor Leitner, "and that is, that the Widows' Fund has your name attached to its list. If it is there, see to it that everyhing due it is paid promptly. If your name is not there (Allah have mercy on you) get it there quick, and make Noble Walter Liddell (Allah bless him) happy. And when you stop to think seriously of it yourself, you are most happy when you are contributing to the relief of others; besides there is no telling when a sandstorm in Life's desert may overtake you. Look to it that there is food on your pack camel and something in your water skin for the rest of your caravan. This is your chance to come clean. Go after it at once. Don't put it off. Write Noble W. S. Liddell at Charlotte, or by all means see him at this meeting. He will be overjoyed to see you."

"Khardam al Beyt Ullah."

The Arab Patrol, which will arouse a lot of interest among laymen, is officered by J. O. Walker, captain; W. W. Graham, first lieutenant; E. B. Graham, second lieutenant. The board of control is H. B. Lockwood, C. C. Barnhardt, L. D. Sutherland, Thos. Griffith and J. W. Cuthbertson, who is secretary and treasurer. The roster of the patrol, 1913, is: T. E. Austin, W. N. Bacon, C. E. Barnhardt, B. W. Barnett, R. L. Black, N. R. Baynard, A. F. Black, J. F. Blythe, W. H. Beardsley, P. M. Cave, C. B. Calswell, T. M. Cave, C. M. Crumley, J. W. Cuthbertson, A. Fisher, Thos. Griffith, B. S. Guion, W. H. Hancock, W B. Huntington, R. L. Keesler, F. D. Lethco, H. B. Lockwood, J. E. McIlwaine, V. J. McDaniel, W. A. Nisbet, C. W. Norman, J. R. Nix, W. H. Peeps, R. M. Pound, W. G. Rogers, O. B. Robinson, L. D. Sutherland, Edwin Scholtz, J. E. Torrence, Julius Wetzel and R. A. Young.

The Dust has an appreciation of the Patrol, as follows:

"Whatever subjects we may disagree on to the extent of giving it the required amount of debate, there is one subject that all Nobles with the best interest for the success of Oasis Temple at heart are of the same mind, that of doing all we can to promote the success of our Arab Patrol. These boys give more of their time and money and work harder in one week than most of us do in six, and for this reason we should give them our encouragement in every way possible, both financially and otherwise. Our Patrol is one of the best drilled and make as good an appearance as any; they are all good, clean, red-blooded, hard-working boys, that have contributed more toward our success than any other thing. Doesn't it do your heart good to see the degree team at work? Is there anything that their fertile brains cannot think out to make the novice wish he was in heaven already? And to see the perfect drill work, you would imagine you were looking through a glass of red lemonade at the best drilled company of zouaves that ever traveled with a circus. They have worked hard and deserve a lot of credit for what they have done for Oasis Temple. Help them all you can. They are the head on the match."

"Fresh Meat" for Shriners.

The supply of "fresh meat" is always a subject of keen interest to the Shriner, and it will rejoice him to know that The Dust thinks: "From the present outlook everything points to a very large number of candidates for the Shrine at this meeting and we thank Allah that good judgment has prevailed. The only thing that we regret is that we may be pushed for time and possibly cannot give all of them the entire work. It certainly looks like a shame to take the initiation fee and not give its true value. However, if the worst comes to the worst, wouldn't it be all right to give them something corresponding to a rain check so that they could come back at some future time and get the full value of the amount paid? All this is said in case they kick after seeing part of the class get theirs."

In order to increase the supply of "fresh meat," The Dust addresses the Nobles: "Why not give up a little of the time you generally use in counting your money and other things to go and give some poor benighted son of sin a little sound advice and make him give you his application for membership in Oasis Temple at this meeting? He would never forget you and an added star in your crown would be very becoming to your particular style of beauty. Go forth and rake the desert for good ones and let us make this meeting a record-breaking one in every way.

"Just see how these poor children would thank you for the rest of their

BABY SAVING CAMPAIGNS

Subject of Bulletin by Children's Bureau—Matter Receiving More and More Attention in Many Cities

What the American cities are doing and can do toward preventing infant mortality and the high death rate of children under five years of age is the subject of a bulletin now in press by the Children's Bureau. It is the purpose of the bureau to issue a similar bulletin annually and in time to make it a complete manual for municipal and philanthropic activities in the direction of child welfare. Summer campaigns for babies' lives have been waged with such marvellously good effect in some cities, that it seems to the bureau important to enlist the energies of as many cities in this work as possible. To this end it will be helpful to collect and present for the information of all, the little or much that is being done by the various cities.

The efforts of city health officials have resulted in the last 10 years in reducing the general death rate in cities, below that of the rural districts and villages. This reduction in the general death rate is an encouraging indication of what is possible of accomplishment in efforts to reduce the infant death rate. Babies die of diseases which to a large extent are preventable, and thus when welfare work is directed toward saving their lives the response is immediate and decided. In certain large cities such as New York and Philadelphia the result of systematic Summer baby-saving campaigns has been shown in a reduction of between 30 and 40 per cent in the deaths of children under two years of age, in the wards where the work was concentrated.

Practically the only limit of the good results to be obtained by enthusiastic campaigns lies in the financial side of the question. The investigations of the Children's Bureau indicate that the principal impediment to effective work in the health departments of most cities is the lack of adequate funds for carrying on preventive measures intelligently, and experience verifies the truth of the motto of the New York Health Department, "Public health is purchasable; within natural limitations a community can determine its own death rate."

It is estimated that a baby nursed by its mother has approximately ten times the chances to live than a bottle-fed baby has. All welfare workers, therefore, are advised to encourage mothers to make every effort to carry out this most important maternal duty.

A clean milk supply is a fundamental need. The ideal is: Nothing short of clean milk for everybody. But the need for the prompt remedy of bad milk conditions is more urgent in its relation to the welfare of babies than to that of adults, since dirty milk is largely responsible for the occurrence of diarrhoea and enteritis, the most frequent causes of death among infants. The remedy lies in the intelligent and effective inspection of farms, the means of transportation, and the shops where milk is sold, and in ordinances governing the sale of "dipped" or "loose" milk.

A constantly increasing number of cities of all sizes are establishing milk stations and dispensing milk, whether pure whole milk, certified, modified, pasteurized or sterilized milk to mothers of babies that must be bottle-fed. The milk station is simply a room sufficiently large to accommodate the patrons and equipped with a large ice box, a desk, some chairs, and a table. An ordinary store is suitable for a station and sometimes, as in the case of the station at Utica, N. Y., a school room may be used for the purpose. The station is usually under the charge of a nurse, and a physician is in attendance at stated hours.

Baby clinics are an almost inevitable outgrowth of the milk stations. It becomes apparent at once that many mothers need advice as to the care of their babies, especially those who are sick. Sometimes the clinic is established by the wholly volunteer services of doctors, who examine every baby presented at the milk station, weigh it, prescribe its diet, and tell the mother when to bring it back.

It is the opinion in some cities that visiting nurses, sometimes called "instructive visiting nurses," should take precedence over all other forms of welfare work. The duties of such nurses consist in following up the cases brought to the clinics and in general welfare work in connection with the babies in the congested districts.

Municipalities are just beginning to awaken to the importance of and to understand that much of the waste of infant life is due to causes that were operative before the baby was born. Some cities have a special maternity nurse who gives all her time to these cases; other cities direct the general nurses to take charge of them.

Since it is useless to send pure, clean milk into a dirty home to be handled by an ignorant mother or older child, istruction of the mother becomes a necessary feature of the milk station or a part of the duty of the visiting nurse. The instruction is often supplemented by public lectures.

The value of training school girls who are caretakers of little children in the care of babies is regarded as of immense importance, not only in the improved care which is given to the babies in their charge but in the influence which it cannot fail to have in the prevention of infant mortality in this and the next generations, and the organization of the "Little Mother leagues" or "Little Mother Classes" forms an important part of the welfare work in most large cities.

The house fly as a death distributor is only recently receiving the attention it deserves. Flies carry infection not only to exposed milk but directly to the baby's mouth, or to the nipple of its bottle. Insistence upon screens for the baby's rooms and for the baby's bed is a part of the campaign against infant fortality; and the work should go even further than this and should include the destruction of flies by every kown method and removal of the breeding places.

Whether or not the stable fly is the only carrier of the germ of infant paralysis it is certainly one, probably the principal carrier. Upon the opening of Summer a thorough listing of all horse stables and livery barns, whether public or private, is made by such cities as Seattle and Indianapolis, and complete measurts for the control of the fly-breeding places are instituted.

Attention to housing conditions, to the thorough watering of the streets, and to the question of fresh air and ventilation is urged and the distribution of circulars, pamphlets, and other printed matter containing advice concerning the care of the baby is considered helpful. Sometimes the circulars are printed in several languages; and in the appendix of the bulletin will be found specimen, "Save the Baby" circulars in nearly every necessary language, ready for reproduction.

In conclusion the bulletin advises the city health officials to establish a continuous graphic statement of the births and deaths of babies, kept by means of different colored pins to be placed day by day on a city ward map, and to thus keep informed as to the special points of danger; and urges prompt registration of births in order that the baby may be brought under observation as soon as possible.

EUROPE TEACHING AMERICA.

Commission Learning Facts From Foreign Countries.

The Southern Commercial Congress some time since assembled the Commission on Agricultural Co-operation which is now in Europe, studying co-operative farming, marketing and banking, in 14 different countries.

Around Milan, Italy, the commission has found, the farmers raise no less than nine forage crops in a single year on a dry and gravelly soil. The secret of the extreme fertility of this region lies in the system of irrigation which was shown to the Americans.

In the days when Milan was a powerful independent power, the victories of the Milanese troops were celebrated not by statues, but by the more sensible idea of building canals or irrigating systems. As a consequence, the years ago a plant was erected by the country about this city is honeycombed with irrigation ditches. About 20 government to carry the sewage of the city into these ditches. From the main canals the sewage charged water is carried through the irrigating ditches into the fields.

This water spreads thinly over the fields and since it has a comparatively high temperature the fields are kept green and productive for all except about 40 days of the year, despite the fact that the Winters are comparatively severe. The heavy forage crop which this system makes possible is responsible for the great development of the dairy industry of this district. Large quantities of cheese and condensed milk are exported each countries which have better natural facilities for dairy products than the country about Milan.

Even the street sweepings of the city are used to increase the productivity of the neighboring farms. Bones and other refuse matter of a similar character are used in the manufacture of fertilizers, and the manure is sold to the farmers engaged in intensive agriculture, principally in raising silk worms. The fertilizer sales are insufficient to meet the expenses of operating the system. The cost balance is made up through taxes.

Abundant labor is needed to obtain the agricultural results which the statistics of this district show. But progressive methods are also depended upon. American farm machinery is frequently seen by the American visitors to Northern Italy. Where such intensive cultivation is practiced it is profitable to use large quantities of fertilizers and manure. To the south of Mialn, where most of the irrigated lands are situated, the farms are about 250 acres. The principal industry of these farms is dairying, the herds averaging from 100 to 150 cows. The milk is used in cheese making chiefly. The American Commissioners were shown some excellent types of co-operative dairies, which are peculiarly fitted to the type of farmer in that district who cannot profitably make his butter and market his produce alone as his farming is on too small a scale.

The fact must not be lost sight of that the Italian farmers are progressing and that their progress is based upon thrift. The lesson learned by the American Commission in Italy has been a lesson in industry and thrift.

PRIZES FOR SHIRE HORSES.

Ten Gold Cups to be Given During Next Four Years.

Washington, D. C., June 14.—The Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture is informed by Mr. J. Sloughgrove, secretary of the Shire Horse Society, of England, that the council of his society, desiring to encourage the owners and breeders of Shire horses in America, have resolved to offer ten gold challenge cups, valued at $250 each, from the year 1913 to 1917, inclusive.

Two of these gold cups will be annually awarded to representative American shows in rotation during the five years that the sceme is in operation.

The council has selected the International Live Stock Exhibition at Chicago for their offer in 1913, and the gold cups will be awarded (a) for the best registered Shire stallion; (b) for the best registered Shire mare, duly certified by the official veterinary officer as sound and free from hereditary disease.

Horses entered for these cups must be registered or eligible for registration in the American Shire studbook. Breeders of English Shire horses in the United States will no doubt be interested and encouraged by this recognition of Shire breeding in the United States by the parent society.

Break Away From Blood Bondage

Drugs in Common Use Harmful as the Disease They are Supposed to Cure.

Many people are shackled to continued suffering by the drugs they use. These seem to dry up on the surface, but there's a stomach almost destroyed, there are ulcerated bones, locomotor ataxia, convulsions, abscesses, falling hair, impaired eye-sight, deafness, and a host of other troubles continue to make life miserable. There is one blood remedy that you can only rely upon. It is not a "dope," not a physic, not a mineral poison but a pure, powerful medicine that cleanses your blood so completely; so washes your veins, arteries and tissues; so thoroughly bathes your body with internal healthful influence that soon you not only feel a wonderful change but your entire appearance undergoes the most welcome transformation. S. S. S. has long been recognized as the greatest blood purifier ever known.

If you have been fighting some blood trouble, some eruptive skin disease, call it eczema, lupus, psoriasis, malaria, scrofula or what you will, there is but one sure, safe way to cure it. Ask at any drug store for a $1.00 bottle of S. S. S. and you are then on the road to health. The action of this remarkable remedy is just as direct, just as positive, just as certain in its influence as that the sun rises in the east. It is one of those rare medical forces which act in the blood with the same degree of certainty that is found in all natural tendencies. The manner in which it dominates and controls the mysterious transference of rich, red, pure arterial blood for the diseased venous blood is marvelous.

Out through every skin pore acids, germs and other blood impurities are forced in the form of invisible vapor. The lungs breath it out, the liver is stimulated to consume a great proportion of impurities, the stomach and intestines cease to convey into the blood stream the catarrhal, malarial germs; the bowels, kidneys, bladder and all emunctories of the body are marshalled into a fighting force to expel every vestige of eruptive disease.

There is scarcely a community anywhere but what has its living example of the wonderful curative effects of S. S. S. Get a bottle of this famous remedy today, and if your case is stubborn or peculiar write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Their medical laboratory is famous and is conducted by renowned experts in blood and skin diseases.

Secret of Getting Rid of Blackheads and Other Blemishes

Miss Valeska Suratt

Valeska Suratt, by Means of Her Own Secret Formulas, Has Made Herself Famous as the Self-Made Beauty-Actress of America

By Valeska Suratt

THE worst thing you can do in trying to get rid of blackheads is to pinch them out. There are many blackheads which require severe squeezing to make them come out. This nearly always leaves a spot slightly redder than the rest of the skin, and this spot never disappears entirely, unless certain treatment is used for the purpose.

Blackheads can be gradually removed. The "hole" left by an extracted blackhead brings blood to that part and causes a spot. I will venture that few readers ever thought of this fact.

Blackheads can be removed so as not to leave a sign of a spot or scar, by using the following formula. It is a formula I have perfected myself. By using this formula faithfully the blackheads you have will leave you and no more blackheads appear. It leaves the skin in splendid condition besides.

First wash the face with hot water and soap. Then sprinkle some neroxin generously upon a sponge made wet with hot water. Then rub well for a few minutes on the parts of the skin which are affected with blackheads. You should be able to secure the neroxin at any druggist's for fifty cents.

* * *

JOSEPHINE T.—Ordinary blood tonics have usually a very slow, indecisive effect on the blood. For that reason pimples have been found very difficult to get rid of. A blood cleanser that is free from anything injurious, that is really wonderfully effective, is made up as follows:

Dissolve twelve ounces of granulated sugar in one half pint of water, add one ounce of sarsene, and mix the whole together thoroughly, then add more water to make a pint. Sarsene is a liquid which you can get at the drug store by the ounce. Get it in the original package. Take one or two teaspoonfuls of this mixture three or four times a day, with a little water if desired.

* * *

HETTY.—The formula given below for the hair has astounded hundreds of my readers who have used it at my instigation. All are unanimous in saying that it is a marvel in making hair grow luxuriantly, and absolutely stopping the falling of hair. I have known cases where an inch of hair has been grown in one month by its use.

Mix half a pint of alcohol with half a pint of water. To this add one ounce of beta-quinol. Shake thoroughly, and then it will be ready for use. If you prefer, you can use imported bay rum instead of the water and alcohol. The beta-quinol you can get at almost any drug store for not more than fifty cents. This formula should be applied very freely to the scalp after brushing it generously for a few minutes all over. Rub the tonic thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips.

* * *

The finest shampoo I have ever used is eggol, which can be procured from druggists for twenty-five cents. It is surprising in its action in ridding the scalp of every particle of scurf and foreign matter, which nothing else, not even scrubbing, can do.

* * *

VIRGINIA M.—Every freckle, spot and blemish will leave, and the skin be made exquisitely pure and pluky white by using this easily made formula:

Let half a pint of water come almost to a boil. Add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine. Keep stirring while adding one ounce of zintone, until it is all dissolved. Then let it cool. If the cream is too thick to pour easily from a bottle, thin it down a little with more hot water. The cream will be white and satiny. Hold a wet towel to the face several times for several minutes. Rub this cream on the entire face. Then wipe off with a soft, dry cloth. Then apply again and let it dry on the face. Repeat this again at night. Any good druggist will let you have zintone for about fifty cents.

* * *

SUSPENSE—There is nothing so wonderful for removing superfluous hair as this. It never irritates or leaves a spot, and never fails.

Get one ounce of simple sulfo solution. This you can get at the drug store for one dollar. Apply it with the finger tips to the superfluous hair, keeping the hair moist with it for two or three minutes, until it has been dissolved. Then wipe it off with a damp cloth and wash the skin.

* * *

MISS WRINKLED — For crows' feet, small or deep wrinkles, sagging cheeks, the following formula is absolutely unequaled: Pour half a pint of hot water in a bowl and place the bowl in a pan of water over a slow fire. To this add two ounces of eptol. Stir until it is dissolved and starts to cream. Then remove from the fire, slowly add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and continue to stir until it is cold. Eptol may be obtained for no more than fifty cents at any good drug store. This cream should be applied very liberally and thoroughly rubbed into the skin until it has disappeared. The cream will not grow hair on the face. Keep the cream in an air tight jar or bottle.

NOTICE OF SALE.

Pursuant to an order of the Superior Court for New Hanover County, entered at the May Term, 1913, in a case therein pending, wherein Theodore M. Byers, et al., are plaintiffs, and the Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company is defendant, the undersigned commissioners will, on the 10th day of July, 1913, at 12 o'clock M., at the place of business of the Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company, Scott's Hill, N. C., sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, all the following real and personal property, belonging to the said Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company, and situate in Pender and New Hanover Counties, to-wit:

REAL PROPERTY.

FIRST TRACT: Beginning at a cypress in Old House Branch, and running thence South 2 deg. East, 12 poles, to a stake; thence South 88¼ deg. West, 61 poles, to stake; thence South 227 poles to a light-wood stump; thence North 80 deg. West, 145 poles, to a pine; thence North 357 poles, to a spruce pine, at the run of Old House Branch; thence with the meanders of said branch, to the beginning; containing, by estimation, 300 acres, same being on the North side of the railroad, about two miles from the Scott's Hill Depot.

SECOND TRACT: Beginning at the Southeast corner of the church lot of the M. E. Church, South, at Scott's Hill, in the center of the side track of the Wilmington & Newbern Railroad, and running thence with the course of the side track in a Northeast direction, 172 feet to a stake, 7 feet at right angles from the center of said side track to the West side of the same, and running thence North 30 deg. West, 823 feet, to a stake in a fence line; thence South 33 deg. 15 min. West, 435 feet, to a sycamore tree in the edge of an old grave yard; thence South 68 deg. 45 min. East, 371 feet, to a stake in the Western corner of the Methodist Church lot; thence North 35 deg. 30 min. East, 242 feet, to a stake in the Northern corner of the Methodist Church lot; thence South 53 deg. 15 min. East, 447 feet, to the point of beginning; containing 4.9 acres; and being the tract of land upon which the mill and plant of the Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company is located.

THIRD TRACT: All the standing timber measuring 12 inches in diameter, 18 inches from the ground, upon the following described tract of land, lying and being in Topsail Township, Pender County, and bounded as follows: On the North by lands of G. W. Huggins; on the East by lands of Jasper Sidbury; on the South and West by lands of W. H. Hill; containing 400 acres, more or less. It is the condition of this deed that the timber shall be removed from the aforementioned land within eight years from the 9th day of March, 1911. The party of the first part hereby conveys to the party of the second part all the rights and privileges of ingress, egress and regress named in the deed from J. T. Foy and wife.

FOURTH TRACT: 1st. Being a certain lot or parcel of land allotted to F. M. Foy in the division of the estate of J. M. Foy, deceased, and described as follows, to-wit: Situated on the East side of Island Creek and South side of Wanny's Branch, beginning at a sweet gum tree on the spot where formerly stood a stooping chinquepin; running thence North 85 East 77 poles, to a stake; thence South 36 poles, to a stake, Henry S. Foy's Northwest corner; thence East with said H. S. Foy's line, 256 poles, to a stake; thence North 58 East, 110 poles, to a gum tree on the run of Wanny's Branch; thence with the run of said branch, along the various courses thereof, about 286 poles, to a maple, the corner of the Sholar tract; thence with the Sholar line, South 44 West, 332 poles, to the beginning; containing by estimation, 337½ acres, more or less.

2nd. Situated on the East side of Island Creek, and on the North side of Wanny's Branch, beginning at a stake, Henry S. Foy's Northwest corner, referred to in the above tract; running thence South 304 poles to a maple on the North side of Mosquito Branch; thence North 14 deg. East, 84 poles, to a stake; thence East, 134 poles, to a pine; thence with the courses of the bay, first North 63 poles; thence North 82 deg. 50 poles; thence North 50 deg. East 120 poles, to a pine in the line of the Futch tract; thence with said Futch line, North 33 deg. West, 88 poles, to the corner of the Futch tract; and thence West 252 poles to the beginning; containing 332 acres, more or less.

3rd. Adjoining the above two tracts and lying on both sides of Wanny's Branch beginning at a stake at the edge of a bay, adjoining R. K. Bryan's land, being the beginning corner of the Futch tract, near Richard Earle's plantation; running thence North 33 deg. West 204 poles to a pine stump in Jeremiah Casteen's field; thence South 58 deg. West, 180 poles, across Wanny's Branch to a stake, corner of the two above described tracts; thence South 33 deg. East, along a line of the second tract described above, 100 poles, to a stake in the edge of a bay; thence South 18 deg. West, 60 poles, to a pine; thence South 58 deg. East, 60 poles, to a stake; thence North 58 deg. East, 263 poles, to R. K. Bryan's line, to the beginning; containing 229½ acres, more or less.

Excepting from the last mentioned tract, a certain parcel of land conveyed by J. W. Foy to Oscar P. Batton, by deed dated January ——, 1887, and recorded in New Hanover County, in Book Q, page 552, provided the said Batton has legal title thereto, but the said party of this deed conveys all interest he has in said exception, which purports to contain 22 acres.

4th. The following land in New Hanover County, North Carolina, adjoining the lands of the Nixon heirs and others, bounded and described as follows, to-wit: In Harnett Township, situated on Mosquito Island, beginning at a pine near the head of Island Creek, and running down said creek to a stone, N. M. Nixon's corner; thence with his line East 154 poles to a stake, his corner at Mosquito Branch; thence up said branch as it meanders to a pine at Briery Glade; thence the various courses of said glade to Cross Branch; thence down the run of said branch, its various courses, to the first station; containing 350 acres, more or less.

The last four tracts lying in New Hanover and Pender Counties, and conveyed by George M. Wiley to W. H. Hill, as Recorded in Book 53, page 430, Records of New Hanover County, and in Book 54, page 579, Records of Pender County, and sold by W. H. Hill to said Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company.

FIFTH TRACT: 1st. Situated in Topsail Township, adjoining the lands of the Brown heirs, beginning at a spruce pine on the North side of Trumpeter Swamp, near the mouth of Maul's Branch, and running thence North 20 deg. West, 176 poles, to a stake; thence North 38 deg. East, 16 poles to a pine, near a bay; thence along the bay North 5 deg. East 40 poles to a pine on the bay; thence with said bay North 65 deg. East, 236 poles to a stake about 8 poles from said road; thence crossing the cart road South 19 deg. 20 min. West, 107 poles to a small red bay; thence South 40 deg. 40 min. East, 88 poles to a stake on Foy's line; thence North 43 deg. 20 min. East 130 poles to a stake at the new road, F. M. Foy's and Bryan's corner, near the corner of Foy's lot; thence with the Foy and Bryan links South 68 deg. 40 min. East, 75 poles and 8 links to a stake in the line of the right of way of the Wilmington & Newbern Railroad, 50 feet from the center of said road, near the Methodist Church; thence along the line of said right of way North 47½ deg. 20 min. East, 87 poles, to the first station; containing 252 acres, more or less, saving and excepting one acre, heretofore deeded to the Methodist Church.

SEVENTH TRACT: Beginning at a stake on the West side of the Wilmington & Newbern Railroad, 50 feet from the center line of said road, being also a corner of G. W. Huggins; thence along the line of the right of way of said road, North 47 deg. 20 min. East, 95½ poles to a stake, where Bryan and McClammy cross said road; thence with said line North 51 deg. 40 min. West, 10 poles to a stake in Black Swamp, a Bryan and McClammy corner; thence with their line North 38 deg. 20 min. East, 41 poles to a stake, an old Bryan and McClammy corner; thence with their old line South 50 deg. 40 min. East, 58 poles to a stake in the field back of McClammy's house; thence with another of their lines, North 38 deg. 45 min. East, 66 poles to a stake about 2 poles from the edge of a pond beyond the road; thence with another Bryan and McClammy line North 61 deg. 40 min. West, 151½ poles, crossing McClammy's field to a stake, a dividing corner between R. K. and N. N. Bryan; thence with their dividing line South 38 deg. 20 min. West, 79 poles to a stake in the Northwest edge of Black Swamp, a dividing line between R. K. and N. N. Bryan and Mrs. S. B. Foy; thence with R. K. Bryan and Mrs. S. B. Foy to dividing line South 51 deg. 40 min. East, 70 poles to a stake in Black Swamp; thence with their lines South 40 deg. 20 min. West, 64½ poles to a stake, the said Mrs. Foy's division corner; thence with their division line, between R. K. and Mrs. Sallie Bryan, the same course mentioned, 48½ poles to a stake about 100 yards beyond the Loftin Canal, their division corner; thence with their division line North 51¼ deg. West, 348 poles to a stake, 21 poles beyond Bryan Avenue road, their division corner; thence with their division line North 51 deg. 40 min. West, 98 poles to a stake; thence with the old Bryan and McClammy line South 58 deg. 20 min. West, 95 poles to a stake in said line, a division corner of R. K. and Miss Mary Bryan; thence with their dividing line South 31 deg. 41 min. East, 184 poles to a stake just at the West edge of the new road; thence crossing said road South 64 deg. 10 min. East, 302 poles to a stake in a small field, another division corner between R. K. and Miss Mary Bryan; thence with their division line South 49 deg. 40 min. East, 102 poles to a stake by the right of way of the aforesaid railroad; thence with the said right of way of the said railroad to the beginning; containing 350 acres, more or less. Also all the timber rights purchased from Theodore Gillespie by W. H. Hill, now remaining uncut on the lands of said aforementioned Theodore Gillespie, in New Hanover County.

All the above land and timber and timber rights being the same purchased by the Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company from W. H. Hill by deed bearing date January 27, 1912, and recorded in Book 80, page 522, Records of Pender County, and in Book 68, page 244, Records of New Hanover County.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Seven head of mules; one yoke of oxen; four log carts; one ox cart; chain grabs and gear; one 65 H.-P. steam engine; two saw mills; one edger; one trimmer; one butt saw; one planer; one rip saw; one 80 H.-P. boiler; one 30 H.-P. boiler; one set dry-kiln trucks; one lumber truck; pulleys, cant hooks and chains. Mules as follows: One mule known as Millie, blind in both eyes; one mule known as Julia; one mule known as Lula; one mule known as Pete; two mules known as the Sidbury mules; and one mule known as Mike; same being the mules and other property used by W. H. Hill & Son in operating their mill at Scott's Hill, North Carolina, before they sold out to Marshall & Dawson, who, in turn, transferred their rights to the Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company. And all other property, except money, belonging to the said Scott's Hill Land & Lumber Company.

The real and personal property will be put up and sold separately and then offered together in bulk as a whole.

The highest bidder will be required to deposit 15 per cent. of his bid on the day of sale, pending confirmation of the same by the court.

This the 7th day of June, 1913.

Monument to Student Soldiers.

One of the most interesting events of the recent commencement at the University of North Carolina, an event which attracted the interested and esympathetic attention of the whole State, was the unveiling of a handsome bronze monument on the campus to the memory of the "Student Soldiers," who bravely and gallantly marched forth from the class rooms to battle for the State and the South in the Sixties.

The monument was erected by the North Carolina Division of the Daughters of the Confederacy, with the aid of the alumni of the University, and is the result of a campaign inaugurated at the suggestion of Mrs. James Kenan, of Wilmington, who was present and took part in the ceremonies.

The address on the occasion of the unveiling was delivered by Governor Locke Craig, who was introduced by Major Henry A. London, of Pittsboro, a gallant Confederate soldier; and after the Governor had spoken, representing the poople of the whole State, it was quite fitting that Mrs. Marshall Williams, of Faison, should follow, being president of the North Carolina Division of the Daughters of the Confederacy, who had carried orward the splendid camgaign which had resulted in the erection of the monument. Mrs. Williams' address was one of the most interesting events connected with the memorable exercises, and in part, is herewith given:

"Representing 4,000 Daughters of the Confederacy in the State, I feel I voice their sentiment, when I say today is a proud and happy occasion.

"The beautiful idea of erecting this monument on the University campus originated with one of our gifted daughters, Mrs. James Kenan, of Duplin county, now of Wilmington. She brought the motion before our State Convention—we heartily endorsed it, and for a year she worked assidiously at the cause, and then retired. Mrs. London, our beloved ex-president, was appointed chairman of the committee. How well she fulfilled her mission is exemplified here today.

"Many Chapters gave aid to this monument, but heading the list in generosity was the Johnson-Pettigrew Chapter, of Raleigh.

"The United Daughters of the Confederacy have erected over 700 monuments to the Southern Cause. In all the history of the civilized world, there were never before so many monuments to a single cause. 'Poor is the country that boasts no heroes, but beggared is that people who, having them, forget.' The South has her heroes—her immortals who add glory to American history, and 'we of the South revere, and we of the South remember.'

"Of all the instincts of the human heart there is none more difficult of analysis than love of country, altogether inscrutable, altogether beyond the power of description, is that silent voice. Vague it may be, vague as the pale grey smoke of fires drifting on an Indian Summer's evening along the hillsides, mysterious as the glint of the moon rays through barren wind-swayed branches, subtle as the sound of moving waters, but he must be blind or deaf indeed who would deny it the mighty strength of passion woven from the fibres of the first heart that ever throbbed in the misty dawn of time. This passionate love the United Daughters of the Confederacy have for the South, a love beyond analysis.

"May this shaft prove an inspiration to the students here as they come and go, and may they remember that such courage and fidelity as those 'Boy Soldiers' displayed made it possible for the fame of Lee, Jackson and Johnson, 'to be lifted higher and higher, until they wrote their names among the stars.'

"The world unites in giving a meed of praise to our soldiers, the equals of the hardened legions of Caesar and the enthusiastic followers of Napoleon."

PHYSICIANS AT MOREHEAD

State Medical Society and Health Officers' Association Hold Annual Meetings This Week—Wilmington M. D.'s Attend

The 16th annual meeting of the Medical Society of North Carolina will be held at Morehead City beginning Tuesday of this week, and physicians from all parts of the State will attend. The North Carolina Health Officers' Association meets at Morehead tomorrow, in third annual convention. The Board of Medical Examiners met there last Tuesday. The State Board of Health also meets.

The programme for the meeting of the Health Officers' Association includes the address of the president, Dr. L. N. Glenn, of Gastonia, the report of Dr. W. S. Rankin, of Raleigh, who is secretary and treasurer, and a resume of the new laws and changes in existing laws relating to public health subjects, made by the last Legislature, by Dr. L. B. Evans, of Clarkton.

Dr. W. M. Jones, of Greensboro, is to deliver an address on "The Part of the Physician in the Execution of the Vital Statistics Law," and Dr. B. W. Page, of Lumberton, will discuss, "Of What Value Are Reported Cases of Tuberculosis and Typhoid Fever to the Municipal and County Health Officer." Dr. A. S. Root, of Raleigh, will make an address on the medical inspection of the schools.

Dr. W. S. Rankin, at the afternoon session tomorrow, is to open a discussion relative to the quarantine, and among the physicians who will take part in the discussion is Dr. Chas. T. Nesbitt, of this city, superintendent of the consolidated health departments of city and county.

In a discussion of the subject of disinfection, quite a number of physicians will take part, among them being Dr. H. B. Maxwell, of Whiteville, and Dr. Wm. S. Jordan, of Fayetteville. Dr. Warren H. Booker, who is assistant secretary to the State Board of Health, will open this discussion.

The final session of the Health Officers' Association will be held tomorrow evening, when Governor Locke Craig is scheduled to deliver an address, but it is likely that he will not be able to attend, having gone to Asheville several days ago to rest and take treatment for rheumatism.

The Medical Society holds its opening meeting Tuesday at 10:30 in the Atlantic Hotel ball room. Dr. J. P. Munroe, of Charlotte, is president and will call the meeting to order. Rev. Euclid McWhorter will speak the invocation. Mayor W. M. Webb, of Morehead, on behalf of the community, and Dr. David S. George, on behalf of the Carteret County Medical Society, will each deliver an address of welcome.

Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be papers and discussions on various diseases by specialists. The chairman of Section Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat is Dr. J. G. Murphy, of Wilmington, and he will deal with the special subject, "Paralysis of One of the Extra Ocular Muscles." At the evening session Tuesday Dr. Stuart McGuire, of Richmond, and Dr. J. Allison Hodges, of the same city, will address the physicians.

At the Wednesday morning session Drs. Cyrus Thompson, of Jacksonville, and E. L. Brown, of Scott's Hill, will discuss "Hemorrhagic Fever," and a preliminary report based on animal experimentation, entitled "Prophylactic Vaccination Against the Diarrhoeal Diseases of Infancy," will be made by Dr. E. J. Wood, of Wilmington.

A conjoint session of the Medical Society and the State Board of Health will be held Wednesday at noon. In the afternoon discussions under various phases of the practice of medicine will take place, and among the physicians who will have papers will be Dr. A. B. Croom, of Maxton; Dr. T. Marshall West, of Fayetteville; Dr. Roscoe D. McMillan, of Red Springs; Dr. J. R. Parker, of Goldsboro, and others.

Thursday morning the last series of papers and discussions will be presented, among the physicians from this part of the State taking part being Dr. J. F. Highsmith, of Fayetteville, who will treat of the "Diseases of the Gall Bladder and Their Surgical Treatment." The men who will present papers, from first to last, represent the flower of the medical profession in the State, and from the concentrated thought brought to bear on the problems which their profession deals with, it is inevitable that the people of the whole State receive such benefit as cannot be estimated.

Wilmington physicians holding official positions in the society include Dr. E. S. Bulluck, who is second vice president; Dr. E. J. Wood, of the committee on Scientific Work, Dr. Wood being also one of the new members of the State Board of Health; Drs. C. P. Harper and J. C. Wessell, who are delegate and alternate, respectively, to the State meeting; and Dr. G. G. Thomas, who is a member of the committee on Public Policy and Legislation.

MRS. OLD CY'S IDEA.

Would Sing "Old Dan Tucker" at Husband's Funeral.

"Old Cy," in Troy Montgomerian: "As we were talking of different songs suitable for burials, I ventured to enquire of Mrs. Old Cy what she would have sung for me at my burial. She replied that she preferred 'Old Dan Tucker' for me, and I believe she meant it. Well, I told her that would suit me."

Investigation Reveals the Fact That New York Plots Overtop in Price Anything World Has Ever Known

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, June 14.—In spite of the recent shrinkages in the market values of the securities in which Wall Street deals, its real estate values have established their title to being the highest in the world, according to an investigation which has just been completed here. Never in history and nowhere in the world has a square foot of land been worth as much as it is today in the heart of the financial district. Search of the leading foreign value placed on a parcel of real estate large enough to hold a full-sized building is about $450 a square foot. New York has a dozen or more plots which even in such a dull market as is the present one would command that figure and more. In fact, a sale was made not many months ago in which the property figured at just a few cents more than $600 a square foot. The corner of Broadway and Wall streets brought $558.65 a square foot when it was sold about ten years ago. In the big cities of the old world the highest values seems to belong to a property in Rome. Here is where a value of $450 is to be found, and strange to relate the plot is not used for an immense income producing building, but includes the property of the German Embassy, which holds the Embassy building and its expensive gardens. Berlin has a property which sold recently for $180 a square foot and thereby established a new high value for real estate in that city. In Paris the most valuable land is placed at $280 a square foot. Altogether Wall Street's real estate values seem to be in no danger of losing their title to being the highest in the world.

That New York street parades are extremely expensive luxuries is a fact which is being emphasized now that the opening of the parade season is at hand. As an example of what it costs the city in which representations of various departments took part. Occupying half a day it has been carefully figured out that this parade cost the taxpayers almost $40,000. This parade, made up chiefly of members of the police, fire and street cleaning departments, to the number of 11,849, was about six and one-half miles long, so that its cost was just about $6,000 a mile. The half day's wages of the men in line account for $24,654.75. The cost of the floats and banners that "described clearly the particular work of the departments," as the official announcement phrased it, was approximately $10,000. Making allowance for the time that Mayor Gaynor and various other city officials spent in the reviewing stand before the Public Library, the whole cost of the afternoon comes close to $40,000. But the show was apparently regarded as being worth the money, affording to anyone who watched it from beginning to end an understanding of the city's machinery that he could get in no other way. More than that, the entertainment afforded must be included, helpful and impressive alone. Altogether there were 558 vehicles in the parade and the floats among them were the last word in that kind of advertisement. As this is only one of the many parades to travel Fifth Avenue between Spring and Fall, it is conservatively estimated that the cost of all of them, municipal and otherwise, is close to $1,000,000 a year.

One of New York's oldest church buildings, famous in the history of the city, is apparently doomed. Old St. John's, one of the buildings of the great Trinity Corporation, built 106 years ago, it is now announced must shortly give way to make room for subway extensions and street widenings. With it will go one more of the rapidly vanishing land marks famous when what is now the center of the city was looked upon as being out in the country. When this famous chapel was erected in 1807 it cost the enormous sum for those days of $1,772,833 and occupied a part of the vast acreage known as King's farm on the lower west side of the island which was granted to Trinity some 208 years ago by Queen Anne. This great grant, with nearly a mile of frontage on the Hudson, now worth hundreds of millions of dollars was then looked upon as being practically valueless, a waste tract which hunters used in Spring and Fall and skaters in the Winter. For more than a hundred years the doomed St. John's has held its own in this city of change. Once fine homes were grouped about it and fashionable folk passed beneath its stately portico, but that was long ago. Once its doors looked forth upon a jealously-guarded green park that was the pride of the chapel, but there came a day when the park gave way to an ugly freight depot. Gone with the park are the fine homes and today the splendid spire of St. John's rises amid warehouses and tenements. One ancient rite of St. John's has remained unchanged in all the recent departures. From that chapel of Trinity is continued the Leake Dole of Bread. This quaint institution was provided for in the will of John Leake, who made a bequest arranging for the gift every Saturday morning of 67 loaves of bread to the poor folk of the parish.

With the announcement that the great Morgan art collection is to be on exhibition here next year comes another, in some ways even more startling to the artistic world, proposing for this city a permanent exhibition of art fakes. The purpose of such an exhibition will be purely educational, for the protection of American buyers of works of art against the clever forgeries and imitations of old masters which are purchased here in great quantities and sold to the confident collectors who cannot understand that such paintings are so faithfully copied and counterfeited that they they can be deceived. As a matter of fact, the expenditures of Americans on such counterfeits are estimated to run far into the millions every year, and to keep on a prosperous footing abroad an industry of the most questionable character. The matter of such an educational exhibition was taken up some time ago with a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum, but came to nothing at that time because he felt that the museum could not lend itself an exhibition of fakes. The opening to the public of the great Morgan collection, however, will bring added attention to the need of artistic education against foreign counterfeiters who prey on Americans, and it is hoped may bring about the establishment here of a unique exhibition of fakes which will make for the protection of purchasers. Needless to say none of the fakes exhibited will be for sale.

That Central Park in addition to its other attractions provides a profitable if illicit hunting ground for certain of the city's residents has been brought to light here by the rapid decrease in the number of squirrels which for many years have inhabited the park. Investigation looking to the cause of the decrease in the squirrel population has revealed the fact that certain persons have been making a regular business of killing them for the profit to be obtained from the sale of their skins. So tame are these little animals that there is no great difficulty in capturing them. It is asserted that more than one hundred have been taken within two weeks from one small section of the park, while the total for the whole area is estimated as running into the thousands. As yet the discovery of this slaughter has led to no effective steps for its elimination. Apparently, however, it is being realized that if the squirrels are not to disappear something must be done to put an end to the traffic in their hides which is being carried on in the heart of thecity.

That subterranean New York will have to be absolutely griddled with the subway tracks necessary to serve its population of 21,000,000 people 50 years from now is the astounding assertion made by B. F. Wilcox, chief of the Franchise Bureau of the Public Service Commission, which has set all New York to wondering how the 200 tracks which he says will be necessary can be accommodated on the narrow island. If the city simply holds its own in the matter of increasing population and averages per capita paying for a rapid transit which it does now, an increase of 2,270,000 people in this city will be necessary to supply the new $330,000,000 subway extensions shortly to be constructed. The figures of the Public Service Commission are based on an increase of 35 per cent instead of 50 per cent in the population between 1910 and 1920 which gives to the statement of Mr. Wilcox an aspect of extreme conservatism. However, figures on a more conservative basis, the city in 1960 will have a population of 21,000,000 and its rapid transit lines will have to carry a yearly traffic of 21,000,000,000 passengers. In other words, every man, woman and child will make an average of 1,000 trips a year at a nickel apiece. To care for this traffic, the expansion of which is figured only on the growth during the past, 200 subway tracks, as compared to the 22 now in existence, will be necessary and these will have to burrow under the heart of the city. In view of the physical limitations of the island, it is probable that New York will soon have to consider the problem of not merely one level of subways but of many, since it will be absolutely impossible to accommodate the 200 tracks in the lower part of the city on the same level. In view of the enormous subway expansion which engineers say will be necessary in the next seven years, New York promises soon to develop the most remarkable transportation system which the world has ever seen.

With great exposures of every sort coming so rapidly that it is almost impossible to keep track of them, the city is nevertheless sitting up and taking notice of revelations which indicate that public officials and police have had just about $100,000 worth of free taxicab rides during the past year. Moreover, while this graft was being distributed, it is stated that the drivers for the taxicab trust have been practically immune from arrest for violating the traffic regulations. This surprising state of affairs has come tolight as a result of an effort to reduce taxicab charges in this city to somewhere near a reasonable basis and to do away with the private stands in front of hotels nd restaurants for which the taxicab trust pays large amounts of money not to the city but to the owners of the hotels and restaurants in question. A proposal to reduce the cost of taxicab charges has been before the Board of Aldermen for more than a year and their slothfulness in providing relief for a situation very evidently demanding attention has finally led to an investigation which has brought about a revelation of the graft which has been going on in this connection. Aside from the fact that this investigation has already revealed free rides to the amount of about $100,000 a year rendered by the taxicab trust, which cost that trust about $250,000 a year, the most surprising development is the treatment accorded to the independent taxicab lines. The Assistant District Attorney promises a sensation when the time comes to reveal the names of the officials who have enjoyed free rides. Altogether it begins to look as though it may be eventually possible to use taxicabs in this city at a reasonable rate. As soon as this occurs, however, various city officials will probably do much less riding and considerably more walking than at present.

With interest in Wall Street at practically zero, New York's business men are now paying an unusual amount of attention to the tariff bill before Congress and speculating as to its effect on local industries. As the home of the great sugar refining plants commonly known as the Sugar Trust, which is admittedly anxious to see free sugar in order to complete its monopoly of the trade in this country, particular interest is being given to this section of the tariff bill. The complexity of the situation is indicated by one of the foremost sugar authorities in the country who in commenting on the matter in Moody's Magazine, says: "The situation confronting the present Congress is very different from the situation of ten years ago. Competitive conditions exist all along the line, from the Cuban planters competing against each other in the raw sugar market to the beet factories competing for the interior trade. The great competition, however, is the one that has waged all over the Temperate Zone—beet against cane. It is to meet this that the refiners are looking to Congress for relief. The tariff on raw sugar is the present fighting ground. Of the big refining interests, the American and the National have gone on record before the Committee on Ways and Means as favoring a reduction in the duty, while Arbuckle Brothers and the Federal are for absolute free trade. If they get a sufficient reduction in the cost of their raw material it will enable them to undersell beet sugar next Winter and "keep it at home." If they get free sugar it will wipe out their competitor and restore them to their mastery of ten years ago. With sugar lower than it has been for years the chief question which is troubling the consumer in view of such statements as this is whether he or the refiners will benefit by any saving which may result from the passage of a free tariff bill.

That New York is the greatest church city in the world, not excepting even Rome, the home of Cathedrals, Berlin, Paris or even London, is a little known fact which has just been brought to public attention by a cataloguing of church property here, while it is true that this term does not apply to cathedrals, this city nevertheless has the greatest and the largest number of parish churches in which single congregations worship. They are the largest in the number of members, in the amount of the annual gifts of their people, aside from endowments, in the salaries paid to the clergy and the amounts given to missions as compared with amounts paid on current work. The amount to be expended this Summer in New York is not even approached by any city in the Old World. How great this expenditure will be is indicated by the fact that the churches on Manhattan Island alone, which constitutes only a small part of the greater city, are putting $4,450,000 into permanent structures as their answer to the question whether the church is losing its hold. Of this less than $100,000 is for repairs, the balance representing new projects. Four great structures, each among the finest in the world, of their kind, representing a total outlay of more than $2,270,000 are nearing completion. These with the numerous additions costing between $50,000 and $200,000 will all contribute to establishing New York's claim to being the greatest church city in the world.

As a result of the death of "Chuck Connors," New York has just lost one of its most famous characters and undoubtedly the most picturesque person who ever frequented the Bowery. While Big Tim Sullivan is undoubtedly the best known and best liked man on the Bowery, he has never had such an enthusiastic following as the late lamented "Chuck" for whom this twisting street of many queer characters has gone into mourning. So far as he is known to the outside world, "Chuck Connors'" reputation is based on an ancient play which he expected to be named after him but which was given an entirely different title. In his own bailiwick in which he lived for sixty-one years, Chuck persuaded himself and tried to persuade the rest of the world that he was a typical tough Boweryite. As a matter of fact, he was nothing of the sort. He was never seen in a fight and curiously enough for a man of his reputation he was always the first to escape when one started. Despite his quaint and invited claims for lawlessness, he never gave the police any trouble and his friends asserted at his funeral that he had never been in jail. The real name of this quaint character who numbered his friends on every side by the thousands was Patrick O'Connor, but he dropped it for the more picturesque one which figured so often in newspaper stories. The demise of Big Tim Sullivan when that occurs may produce a more largely attended funeral, but the death of "Chuck Connors" not only removes the best-liked man on the Bowery but a character known to newspaper men all over the country as well. —LONGACRE.

THE COMMERCE COURT.

No Appropriation Made for the Coming Fiscal Year.

Washington, June 12.—The Commerce Court for which no appropriation has been made for the coming fiscal year, will be continued until the next session of Congress unless the Democratic caucus of the House to be held June 25th decrees otherwise.

This programme was agreed upon at a conference today between Representative Broussard, of Louisiana; Champion of the Court Fitzgerald, chairman of the House committee on Appropriations, Clayton; chairman of the House Judiciary committee, Sims, of Tennessee, author of the bill to abolish the court, and Assistant Attorney General Denison.

Mr. Fitzgerald said he did not favor "starving the court pending a settlement of the efforts to abolish it, and was willing to report an appropriation to continue its existence until the December session.

The Judiciary committee probably will hold hearings soon on the Sims bill and on a measure introduced by Representative Broussard, which would make the Commerce Court the Supreme Court in bankruptcy matters and in cases arising from the Philippines, Porto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone.

OFFER TO PLEAD GUILTY.

Five Policemen Suspended on Charges of Conspiracy.

San Francisco, June 12.—Five suspended policemen today offered to plead guilty to conspiracy with bunco men if the sentence to be imposed on their fellow officer, Frank Ezola, convicted of grand larceny in the same set of cases, would be lightened, it was announced by District Attorney Fickert. The offer has not been accepted. All five officers, while asserting their willingness to plead guilty, maintain their innocence.

In return for pleading guilty, the five would get six months sentences, instead of a year and all felony charges would be dropped.

The Carolinas

George Hammond, a Cleveland county negro, who shines shoes for a living, has been "churched" for shining shoes on Sunday.

The largest crop of dewberries ever grown in Lee county, says The News, is now being gathered. Eight cars were shipped in about a week from Sanford, averaging 14 cents a quart.

A. W. Moye, former United States commissioner at Durham, is in the toils there on charge of violating the prohibition laws. He has probably tried more cases for violating the whiskey laws than any other man in Durham.

The Chatham county rabbit crop, says the Siler City Grit, will exceed that of two years ago, which was a record-breaker, 26,060 being shipped to the markets from Siler City. The total number shipped that year from four stations in the county was above 45,000.

C. W. Keel, a Vance county farmer, has been selling onions on the Henderson market that measured four inches in diameter and 14 inches in circumference. He planted one-tenth of an acre this year, says the Gold Leaf, and has sold $12 worth besides what he used at home.

Dogs in Chatham county recently got into the flock of sheep belonging to J. A. Williams and killed 14. The last Legislature taxed dogs in Chatham county $1 per head. It is generally accepted as true that if it were not for dogs the sheep industry in North Carolina would take on great importance, particularly in western counties, where the natural grazing resources are unsurpassed.

Although strange, on the face of it, it is nevertheless a fact that men who persist in making blockade whiskey like to locate their plants near churches. Whether the business is better in such vicinity or whether the respectable surroundings make it safer to operate, does not appear; but at any rate stills are often captured near churches in the rural sections. Deputy Sheriff Wright, of Chatham county, recently found a 22-gallon still, says the Siler City Grit, near Emmanus church.

The Sampson county papers, says the Fayetteville Observer, are bemoaning the fact that the huckleberry crop is very short, so short, in fact, that few of the delicious "Sampson blues" are to be found in the land. The same is true in this part of the country, says The Observer. A few crates have been seen in Fayetteville from White Oak, Bladen county, and that is the extent of receipts. The first crate sold in Fayetteville fetched 31 cents a quart.

IS THE NEGRO EXPECTING TOO MUCH?

To the Editor of The Star:

A prominent daily paper, whose editor is held in high esteem by the negroes of North Carolina, recently published a suggestive editorial in reference to railroad accommodations for negroes that must have been quite painful to its negro readers because of its suggestiveness and must have caused many thoughtful negroes to ask the question, "Is the negro expecting too much?"

That paper is doing splendid service for the State in crystalizing public sentiment against the unjust and discriminating freight rates with which the railroads are oppressing the people of North Carolina Every loyal citizen, black as well as white, must sympathize with the press, the Just Freight Rate Association, and every other agency or influence that will help our cities and towns to get fair freight rates that will not give to cities of Virginia undue advantages over the cities of North Carolina.

We are glad to see the influence the daily press is exerting towards organized efforts and determined purpose to check and remove this unjust burden that has so long hampered the business men of North Carolina. It is encouraging to see the earnestness of Governor Craig, the perseverance of prominent legislative leaders in this important struggle for fair freight rates for all the cities of the State. This, indeed, is a question that in a very material way affects all the people of the State. We sincerely hope it will be speedily settled to the credit of our official representatives and to the satisfaction of our businss leaders.

But while the people of the State are aroused to a feeling of strong protest against unjust and discriminating freight rates, the negroes have a question that is far more serious and important to them than that of business discrimination and financial loss. The question that must face a negro nearly every time he takes a train is how far and how long will the unjust discrimination in the railroad accommodation deprive him of ordinary comforts and jeopardize his life.

Every Southern State has a separate car law which provides separate but equal accommodation for the two races. We are confident that many of our Southern white friends believe this law is being observed. We are confident that most of the representative pople of the South and especially of North Carolina, believe that while the negro passenger is required to pay equal fare, he is receiving equal comfort and equal protection of his life. We are confident a personal examination would surprise many of our best people and friends.

They would be surprised to learn that often we have to put up with the inconvenience and embarrassment of having but one toilet room for both sexes; that our best women are often exposed in the toilet room to contact with toughs and drunkards a class of people who have no respect for God, man or the devil. Is the negro expecting too much in appealing to the Christian leaders of the State and Nation to remove this annoyance and embarrassment?

But this is not the worst feature of the discrimination which negro passengers have to endure. Every day trains pass through Greensboro going north and south in which negroes are forced to ride in wooden coaches sandwiched between the heavy engine in front and the heavy steel coach for white passengers in the rear. Instances after instances may be cited where because of the spreading of a rail or some other mishap a wreck is caused in which the wooden coach with its negro passengers is crushed like an egg shell and proves a veritable death trap, while the steel or Pullman coaches in the rear give the white passengers excellent protction.

A short while ago I had a friend, Grand Master Griffin, of the True Reformers, who was riding in the negro coach when a wreck occurred. He and the negro porter, the sole occupants of the negro coach were killed instantly while the protection afforded white passengers in the steel car following was so effectual that hardly a scratch was sustained. The negro passenger paid equal fare with the white passenger. Was he not entitled to equal protection of his life? Is the negro expecting too much when he asks of his white friends to assist him in getting, not the same accommodations, but equal accommodations, and equal protection?

Often negroes desire the comfort and protection of the Pullman service. Most sensible negroes, out of respect for the spirit of the separate car law, will go to the extra expense of securing a drawing room or a stateroom, when for financial reasons they would much prefer a berth. Is the negro expecting too much in asking his white friends to help him get this superior protection for his life and his loved ones by having a separate apartment in the Pullman coach? Our white friends are demanding of the railroads fair play and equal opportunities in business affairs. The negroes are anxious for them to win. It is best for them and best for us.

The fight the people of North Carolina are making for fair play and equal opportunities in business enterprise is undoubtedly founded upon justice and square dealing. When the negro asks for separate closets on all trains for negro passengers to save his women humiliation and embarrassment; when the negro asks that all trains for passenger service be made of all wooden coaches or all steel coaches so that in case of wreck he who pays equal fare may have equal protection for his life; when he asks that a portion of the Pullman service be set apart for his use so that he may have his meals, the superior protection of the Pullman coach as well as the comforts of travel, is the negro expecting too much?

An enlightened Christian conscience is the Caesar to which we appeal. We have an abiding faith in the rectitude of that public conscience, that though it has the giant's strength it sees the superior wisdom of letting right triumph over might and of giving a square deal to the humblest and the weakest. Is the negro expecting too much? We confidently hope for a just and Christian answer.

WATERWAYS AND ROADS.

How Federal Appropriations Are Kept From Atlantic Streams.

In the June issue of the Bulletin of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, President J. Hampton Moore, of the association, has the following comment relative to Federal appropriations for public improvements:

"The waterways movement in the Eastern States, which has suffered more or less in the matter of Federal appropriations because of the preponderating claims of the Middle West, has an additional reason for demanding continued popular support by reason of the creation by Congress of a Committee on Roads. The ease with which the Committee on Roads was authorized and created and the vigor already put into the good roads movement raises a very important question with regard to Federal appropriations which may give concern to delayed waterway projects along the Atlantic seaboard.

"The good roads movement is popular because it appeals to the rural districts of the country, and to a certain extent is backed by the automobilists, who give promise of ample demands upon the public treasury to keep the public roads in repair. When it was suggested that Federal appropriations for country roads was not altogether the function of the government as evidenced by the teachings of the Jeffersonians, the answer of the good roads advocates was that Federal money was appropriated for rivers and harbors and that no good reason existed why roads should not be similarly treated.

"While there is some logic in this reply, it is, nevertheless, true that waterways appropriations have been made upon the theory that they would promote commerce and navigation, and it is very difficult to determine how one State, which might very properly look after the roads of its own counties, could be made to pay for the improvement of the Mississippi river, which traverses many States, or of the port of New York, for instance, which does international business. The government refused to build the Erie Canal, and New York built it at the expense of the people of New York, and yet under the new road proposition, although New York has paid enormously for its county roads, it will be expected to bear its proportion of the expense of building roads in every section of the country, and perhaps under local rather than Federal superintendence.

"There is no disposition anywhere to delay the improvement of roads. Everybody acknowledges the public necessity that exists for them; but it is patent to everyone that, if county roads are to be improved at the expense of the Federal government, and the States and counties are to be relieved of this responsibility, then a new financial burden must be assumed that will weigh heavily upon other Federal improvements such as the navigability of streams. The Roads Committee appears to have in mind three methods by which it can obtain National funds for public roads: First, to construct military roads; second, to construct postal roads, which means every road over which the postal or free rural delivery service sends a horse or wagon; third, inter-State commerce roads, which, of course, means roads of almost every possible description.

"In the last Congress the Rivers and Harbors bill was criticised very largely by the advocates of public buildings, who wanted to secure appropriations for their respective localities throughout the United States; and it is to be expected that contrasts will now be made by the good roads people to show that rivers and harbors ought to wait until the roads of the interior of the country are financially cared for.

"It is only another evidence of the necessity for activity along the Eastern seaboard. Almost every new proposition demanding government support has arisen and been taken care of since the Delaware and Raritan canal was built in 1834, and yet we are still doing business upon that inadequate stream. Mississippi river appropriations for flood purposes have grown into the hundreds of millions without any marked advance in commerce since the completion of the Chesapeake and Delaware canal in 1825, and yet we are still begging Congress to open up the latter for the free use of the people.

Every flood on the Ohio river or Mississippi takes out of the public treasury more money that would be necessary to release from their commercial bondage thousands of active business men who need increased river or canal transportation in the East. Now comes the good roads proposition, which means that we must wait a good while longer for Eastern improvements unless waterways advocates get busy with their Senators and Congressmen. It is a situation which invites co-operation, but needs watching."

"FILLING UP THE PAPER."

A Little Incident Revealing a Newspaper Trouble.

Last night a very good friend of The Star called with a very good "piece" of "copy", rather a lengthy piece, but wholly desirable from a newspaper standpoint, and he was doing the paper quite a friendly service—appreciated service—in handing it in. However, there was that connected with the circumstance which revealed a common error on the part of the public, and withal, a source of some trouble to the newspaper folk.

"I thought you would like to have it tonight," said he, "because you will need a lot of stuff to fill up your Sunday paper."

Of course, he could not know that the Sunday paper on Saturday night is fairly swamped with all kinds of "copy"; and he could not know that the "copy" for a Sunday supplement is prepared all during the week and put into type, so that by Saturday night it is made up and printed before the regular news edition is put on the press.

The incident was seized upon to illustrate the misunderstanding many have about the Sunday paper and to show what the "force" must worry over relative to it.

Articles of a general nature that make dandy Sunday stories are welcome all the time, as are all manner of items and stories; they would be particularly welcome along about Wednesdays, for the Sunday paper following. This would insure their appearance beyond doubt and would be quite a help in making the Sunday paper attractive.

The holder of the record for the most economically-fought municipal election is probably Septimus Smith, of Blackpool, England. He contested Foxhall Ward as an independent candidate, and his total expenses did not reach two shillings.

Watch Your Baby These Summer Days

Little Stomachs Get Out of Order Easily in Hot Weather

During the hot months mothers should look very carefully to the condition of the bowels of babies and young children, and, for that matter, it is very important in the lives of people at all ages. Care should be taken that the water is pure, the milk wholesome and the fruit ripe (though not over-ripe), and that not too much of anything is eaten.

When trouble results it is usually in the form of constipation or of diarrhoea. If the child loses appetite, is fretful or languid, and complains of headache, you may look for constipation. Give it a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring, and by morning this pleasant laxative will have acted and the child will be its normal self again.

At the first sign of a Summer cold also give Syrup Pepsin, as the cleaning out of the bowels will usually be sufficient to break the cold. Summer diarrhoea can be stopped in the same way by ridding the bowels of the poisons and germs that cause the trouble. This opinion of the value of Syrup Pepsin is shared by thousands of people like Mrs. Elk Denzel, 124 Nichols Ave., Stratford, Conn., who uses it successfully herself and gives it to her two little boys, and Mrs.

C. C. Allen, of New Monterey, Cal., who finds it in every particular just what she and her family need.

Avoid giving children cathartics, purgatives, pills or powders, as they are too harsh. Confine yourself to a gentle laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You can obtain it of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Saved Mine Option

A WESTERN Mining Engineer, with an option on a valuable mine was about to close the deal, when, at the last minute, the Western capitalists withdrew their support. With a few hours left in which to find the money, he got New York on the Bell Long Distance Telephone, talked with a banking house and outlined the proposition, which they agreed to finance.

A personal interview by the Bell Long Distance Telephone often closes a trade or saves a situation.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

By Dr. David H. Reeder, Chicago, Illinois.

What to Do:—Part 1. Yes, and how to do it. I presume many of you will want to "swat" me for discussing again the same old subject of the fly, the typhoid fly, but I would have a big job if in turn I was to swat every one of you that have read and approved of what I have told you about the fly and done absolutely nothing to prevent its breeding.

Now, it is a fact which you cannot reasonably dispute, that if your horses and cows were free from the cruel bother of flies during the entire Summer, they would be able to render you greater service and be in better condition in the Fall. Isn't that so? Putting it on a purely cash basis, regardless of the health or lives of your family and it would pay you and all of your neighbors to prevent the fly from breeding. But looking at the matter of only one case of typhoid fever in your family in five years and from that standpoint alone it would pay to eliminate the flies from your premises.

Impossible? Not a bit of it. If you have lots of stock around your barns then you must have lots of land and should have a manure sprender. There is always some field or pasture where it can be spread at any time, and the land is better and the value of the manure is greater if spread while fresh. Just a short bit of time every morning and you have finished a job that must be done at some season and why not now. Keep the barns clean and the manure scattered out on the fields, where it does good instead of harm and the flies cannot find breeding place except around a filthy back door, the slop barrel, garbage can or the hog pen.

If the flies swarm around your back door and breed in dirty mess where kitchen slops are thrown, then I must say that neither you nor your housekeeper are clean. Yes, I know I am far enough away to be safe, but after you get your place into a sanitary condition, just come over and take breakfast with me on the back porch.

If you have only one cow or even three and a couple of horses, then build a pit or tight box as a receptacle for the manure and other waste or garbage that is to be carted off. Put screens over a portion if you want the air to get in, but fix it so the flies cannot get in there to deposit their eggs and you simply prevent the breeding upon your place of countless millions of dirty pests. Then make it a rule to kill every fly you can. Trap them with screen traps, fly poison, sticky fly paper and any other device known to be effective, but kill them some way, also kill the rats, they carry the disease, kill chickens and destroy food.

Five cents worth of plaster of paris mixed with corn meal and placed around their runways in pans will destroy hundreds of them. Mix about one tablespoonful with two tablespoonfuls of corn meal and set a small dish of water nearby. Mr. Rat will want water after he has eaten a few mouthfuls and the trick is done. He will hurry himself in the deepest rathole he can find and there will be no odor.

Don't leave an uncovered barrel half filled or with any water in it. That makes an ideal breeding place for mosquitoes and one more thing, if you must sprinkle your lawn, do it in the morning, never at night. The eggs and larvae of the mosquitoes are in the water with which you sprinkle and during a warm Summer night they hatch or develop into mosquitoes ready for business, but if the sprinkling is done in the early morning, the sun kills the eggs and larvae and the lawn does not produce a big crop of the pests to annoy you. If there is a pond near by or a marshy place where the mosquitoes breed, pour a little kerosene in it after every hard rain. If it is to be had, the crude petroleum is just as good.

Don't plant ferns around your porches, mosquitoes love them and breed under the leaves in the dew during the night. They dislike castor beans and that plant is much more attractive than ferns and grow to a great size in a single season. Try planting a lot of them about your house this Spring and note the effect on the mosquitoes. Don't forget to swat the fly.

Club Notes.

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, 5039 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address with 4 cents postage.

Dear Doctor:—Please tell me what to put on a fatty tumor to take it off. It was a kind of boil at first that might have been opened. Now it is a good bit larger, and gets sore and swells and gets a raw kind of place on it on account of wind and dust and germs.—W. P. J.

This is probably an abscess and should have been opened as soon as it was apparent that pus was present in it, if such was ever the case. In all probability there is still some there and should be allowed to escape by making a small incision. Some abscesses seem to be caused by an infection of a non-virulent type and these are slow and painless in growth. After opening such an abscess, it should be washed out daily with a 1 per cent. solution of Liquor Cresolis Compound and a small strip of gauze should be placed within it to aid free drainage and to prevent healing on the surface before it had healed up from the bottom. Should it prove not to be of the type just referred to, further details should have been given and suggestions will be made regarding the treatment best adapted to it.

Dear Doctor:—I would appreciate your advice regarding my husband's head. On the top near the crown of his head he always suffers with a pain, he has been suffering with it now for about a year or more. When it gets very bad the doctors give him some kind of dope, but he is never clear of it. I know he has catarrh, because he hawks and spits so very often. What could I do for him, I am afraid if the pain goes on it may cause some serious trouble.—Mrs. A. M. T.

The pain in the crown of the head may be due to any one of many different causes. Catarrhal condition, such as you state are present, sometimes give rise to pains, owing to infection of one of the bony cavities in the roof of the nose, which is brought about as the result of some obstruction in the latter interfering with free drainage from the cavities re-exists, it must first be removed. It is then necessary to raise the vital resistance of the system, by strictly adhering to the principles of health which have been given many times in these notes and are fully explained in the Home Health Club books. A nourishing diet should be used and care taken to prevent the development of constipation with its attending evils. The Compound Gentian would be a valuable aid in preventing this condition. A local wash to the nasal cavities of Hydrogen Peroxide or Liquor Antisepticus Alkalinus, either of these being diluted with equal parts of warm water, should be used as a spray three times daily. The bed room should be thoroughly ventilated. A cold sponge bath each morning, followed by a brisk rub dry, stimulates the circulation in the skin and thus lessens congestion of the internal surfaces. Nervous disorders are also very common causes for headaches of the above mentioned type. Further details regarding various possible causes of this trouble would be given on the furnishing of more complete information.

Dear Doctor.—I have a large swelling on my wrist, which the regulars call a tumor. It has troubled me more or less for ten years. I do not like the name they give it, neither do I wish to give them a chance to use a knife on it and pay an exorbitant price. I would appreciate your advice, and would be glad to have you tell me and perhaps others, what to do for a cure.—Mrs. C. H.

Wring heavy flannel cloths out of hot vinegar and apply to the wrist as hot as can be borne. As soon as the cloth begins to cool, replace by another. Continue for half an hour. Repeat night and morning, until the lump of which you speak disappears. I believe you will find that it will do so.

Dear Doctor:—I am still sick to my stomach and so nervous that I cannot sleep unless I take some narcotic. My tongue does not look as bad as it has all Winter, but this distress I am in now would wear anyone out before long. The lady I mentioned in my last letter is not improving after all her hospital treatments. No need to tell that I must not work very hard. I cannot work now. When I read your last letter I said to myself, "Bless Dr. Reeder, he has told me just what I ought to do, but what a hard task when there is no one to do anything for me." Could I see you and tell you many things you don't know you would understand me better. I try to laugh, but such a poor job I make of it. I don't believe I have laughed for years, I might say. No wonder my nerves are leaving me. Of course, I realized that I was undertaking too much when I commenced to clean house. Now I must sit and look at the confusion, as help is out of the question. My husband is not the kind that can help around the house.—Mrs. E. J. S.

You say that there are many things that you could tell me, if you could see me in person, but these things you ought to explain by letter, because I cannot know all the circumstances which go to effect your nerves unless you tell me. It is too bad that your husband cannot help you more about the house and help keep things in order, but some men are so constituted, and it is a very difficult matter to change them; therefore, the next best thing is simply to let things go. You ought never to attempt to clean house, or do things of that kind, while in your condition. Now, you should observe the instructions given you and then try and cheer up. You say that you have not laughed in years. Do you think it is any wonder that your stomach gets sour, when your mind is sour all the time? If you don't see anything else to laugh at that is funny, just laugh at yourself. Make fun of yourself for allowing the matter to depress you. This is a great big world, and nature is smiling all over just now. The flowers are trying their best to look pretty, and everything is a great big LAUGH. Now, you help all you can. Don't imagine that your house must be immaculate and kept perfectly clean. Those beautiful flowers out in the yard came up through an awful lot of dirt, and they are just as sweet and clean as they can be. I don't mean by this that you should go out and plant yourself where the roots of the flowers are, but just take a lesson from them and realize that you can be bright and cheerful and exhale an odor of good cheer for others, no matter what your surroundings may be. If you do as I have told you, you are going to win out and get well. Now please keep at it.

Dear Doctor:—You have said at various times in the club notes that if any of the members found out any new remedies that you would be glad to learn of them. I know of one which I have never seen mentioned. A friend of mine told me about her experience with her tape worm. She was ailing for some time, but had no idea what the trouble was. She lived on a farm and the medicine they usually gave the horses was an infusion of Yarrow which grew plentifully in the neighborhood. She thought if it was good for horses it might help her. So she steeped some and drank it for two or three days, and was greatly shocked when she found that she had passed a great long worm. She was all right shortly after that.—Mrs. M. J. M.

Dear Doctor:—I have read with interest your lectures, and have gained considerable help thereby. Some time ago a lady was asking for a remedy for hives. I would not say positively, but would not be surprised if she is bothered with chiggers, or chigoe, a minute insect that bores a hole in the skin causing an itching and festering sore. I do not know of anything to prevent them, but carbolic acid salve is a good remedy for the itching sensation which they cause.—H. H.

It is barely possible that the trouble is chiggers, and if such is the case, a simple home treatment is to apply well salted butter. Carbolated vaseline is also good. Your suggestion of carbolic acid salve used moderately is excellent. The part of your letter relating to your suffering being of a personal nature, it has been answered in a personal letter.

NEWEST NATIONAL PARK.

(Star Correspondence.)

Washington, D. C., June 14.—The principal points of interest in the newest of the great reservations that are maintained by the Government for the benefit of the people, are described in a circular entitled: "General Information Regarding Glacier National Park, Season of 1913," just issued by the Department of the Interior. This park is situated in Northern Montana, 260 miles northwest of Yellowstone Park, in an air line, and 447 miles by railroad. It is under the control and supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, who is represented in the actual administration of the park by a superintendent, assisted by a number of park rangers, who patrol the reservation.

The park is bounded on the north by the Canadian line, on the east by the Blackfeet Indian reservation, and on the west and south by the Flathead river. It has an area of about 915,000 acres and derives its name from many glaciers which are scattered throughout its area. There are about 80 glaciers between five square miles and a few acres in area. The park is a rugged mountainous region and contains over 250 lakes, which are surrounded by steep and beautifully wood mountains.

A road has been built from Belton to the foot of Lake McDonald, and from Midvale to Lake St. Mary. Beyond Lake McDonald trails extend into the greater portion of the park. A number of trips may be made from Lake McDonald in one day. One of these is to Avalanche Lake, a charming body of water which is surrounded by great cliffs and into which the melting snow pours cascades looking in the distance like threads of silver. Another interesting trip affording fine views of lake, mountain, and forest, is to the west of Lake McDonald to Trout Lake, situated in one of the most steep slopes of Mount Brown to Sperry Glacier, where a camp has been established for the accommodation of the traveler. One may continue from Sperry Glacier over Gunsight Pass, amidst the finest of mountain scenery, to Upper St. Mary's Lake, and thence to Midvale, on the railroad.

This circular, which may be obtained on application to the Department of the Interior, contains information regarding the hotels and camps, a tourist map of the park, a list of magazine articles, and the rules and regulations promulgated for the government of the reservation.

The walls of the Brighton (England) workhouse are adorned with water-color drawings by a former inmate, Claude Cooper. The works are well executed, and for the most part represent Sussex scenery. Cooper, who is about 60 years old, has done them all from memory. He recently received a grant from the Artists' Society.

(By S. A. M.)

A swarm of flies came buzzing by,
And soon a garbage can did spy,
Oh! my, they cried in flyish glee,
That filthy can looks good to me.
No place we've seen in all our flight,
As nice as this for us to light.
So down they flew as all flies will,
To the filthy can of slops and swill.
The can was sitting in the sun,
And Mrs. Blow-fly had begun.
You know it's Mrs. Blow-fly's way
To turn all things into decay.
And she had done herself real proud,
For this old can was smelling loud.
Of course, this helped attract attention,
The flies were holding a great convention.
Flies had gathered from miles around,
Large, small, black, green, yellow and brown.
The object of the meeting there,
Was to map out plans for the coming year.
The chairman, he spoke up and said,
He wasn't pleased with last year's dead.
He said that we must come to terms,
And try our best to scatter germs.
He warned them to be very shy,
Of the boys and girls, that "swat the fly."
Also, he thought 'twas awful mean,
For any one their house to screen.
He told of a paper on which flies stick,
But they were on to that old trick.
Now, these he said, are not so bad,
I've something else to tell real sad.
Men these days are very wise,
They know that germs are carried by flies.
They know that on our feet and legs,
Are millions and millions of germs and eggs.
They also know that flies can cause,
As many deaths as all the wars.
So they have made a preparation
That'll soon be spread throughout the Nation.
If all reports I hear be true,
I see the finish of me and you.
The stuff's a wonder—that is, men say,
Guaranteed to drive all flies away.
And everywhere it has been tried,
Flies and insects by the thousands died.
They say it's of a liquid kind,
Made "Down South" from the long leaf pine.
It's used in such a simple way,
Blown through the tube which causes a spray.
It penetrates the air so fast,
A few minutes only our lives can last.
Spring is here, it's time to work,
We want no drones, no one must shirk.
Now what we wish to do is plain,
To kill all the babies that we can.
But now and ever understand,
That it shall always be our plan,
To make ourselves as busy as bees,
To scatter every known disease.
The place for us to do our worst,
Is the nipple of the bottle that the babies nurse
And then it should be awful handy,
To crawl all over children's candy.
To do this thing successfully,
We must do it systematically.
Let's fly from here to the manure pile,
And crawl over it awhile;
From there we'll fly to the horse's stall,
And there we'll have another crawl.
When we finish with the horse's stable,
Then it's to the dining table.
And if they open a sick room door.
Make a dive for the cuspidor.
If you'll try and do just what I say,
Everything will be our way.
But talk is cheap, we're losing time,
Let's make our hay while the sun doth shine.
We'll start right now, to the house we'll fly,
Our motto, ever "TO DO OR DIE."
And so right there from that filthy can,
The 1913 season began.
They all went swarming to the house,
When they got there, things were as still as a mouse.
It seemed to them that from afar,
Came the faintest odor, the smell of Tar.
But this they did not mind at all,
Till by the hundreds they began to fall.
In a very few minutes, our story goes,
Every one of them turned up their toes.
This jingle is not idle jest,
Everyone should give this drug a test.
If it doesn't do just what we say,
We won't receive one cent of pay.
And on my word you can rely,
When I say it's death to every fly.

Manufactured in Wilmington, North Carolina,
Where flies grow fewer, health conditions grow finer.
If you do not make your town the same,
You have no one but yourself to blame.
In this whole, wide world, there is nothing greater,
Than "Shepard's House Fly Driver And Insect Exterminator."

GOSSIP OF FOREIGN CAPITALS

Former President Porfirio Diaz, of Mexico, Longs to Return Home—Royal Child Deaf and Dumb—Talk of Yachting.

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, June 14.—Porfirio Diaz, ex-President of Mexico, feels the call of home and longs for the time when he can return to a tranquil country.

The voluntary exile enjoyed his months in Egypt; the visit to Rome was interesting and his stay in Nice would have been agreeable had not every mail brought letters and newspapers describing the distress and disturbance in Mexico. From Italy the former President and Senora Diaz came to Paris, and they are now living in pleasant rooms near the Arc de Triomphe, with a small staff. Diaz has a secretary and valet, and his wife a maid. They drive out every day in their own motor. Senor Limantour, Diaz's former Minister of Finance, lives a few doors away and often looks in to see him, and Senor Delanda, ex-minister to France, calls frequently. A good many Mexicans living in Paris or traveling call on the retired President and deplore his absence from Mexico.

Whenever Diaz says anything on this subject, however, it is to declare that he will not go back until the country is quiet, and in the hands of a stable government. This, he believes, soon will be the case, and he has even mentioned the late Summer or early Fall as the time when he could possibly go home to a peaceful old age.

Although seemingly quite well, Porfirio Diaz does not today give the impression of a man who could ever again enter active affairs. While strong for his 82 years, his hands tremble and he is easily tired. Paris, the asylum of fugitive presidents and exiled kings, affords him few amusements. The days pass in hope of an early return home. Nevertheless, Diaz has a living interest in public events. He is punctilious in replying promptly to all letters, and he receives all callers who have the least claim upon him with pleasant cordiality.

The reputation of no public man or woman can be considered safe during the present craze for writing memoirs. Neither princesses nor domestic servants can refrain from putting pen to paper, if offered the slightest pretext. A local newspaper declares that the French Prime Minister, when engaging a valet recently, made the latter sign a formidable contract in which it was provided that in case the valet should ever think of writing his memoirs, he undertook to pass over in silence his time spent in the Barthou household.

Royal Child's Affliction

Madrid, June 14.—The Infante Don Jaime, second son of the King and Queen of Spain, now five years old, was born deaf and dumb.

For a long time no one outside the palace knew of the Prince's infirmity and there it was scarcely mentioned except in whispers. The late premier Senor Sanalejas announced two years ago, that the little prince had a form of tuberculosis which prevented him from hearing or talking. His lack of hearing was proven by making a loud noise suddenly near the boy. He did not move. Although three years of age at that time he had never uttered a sound, and already had the fixed look and strange behavior characteristic of the def and dumb. Spanish specialists adjudged him incurable. One of them performed a difficult operation without beneficial result. The child was sent to the sanitarium of a celebrated physician in Switzerland, but he returned in the same condition as before.

Don Jaime at present is under the care of Valencian nuns whose mission in life is to educate the deaf and dumb. The name of Miss Helen Keller has been mentioned in the palace, but nothing definite has been arranged about asking her to undertake the teaching of the boy. One difficulty is that Miss Keller, who does not know Spanish, would have to teach in a foreign language.

Lipton's Latest Yachting

London, June 14.—It was natural, after William Fife had thrice failed to turn out a boat speedy enough to win the America's cup for him, that Sir Thomas Lipton should entrust the designing of his fourth challenger to another man. But it is no secret that Fife was much chagrined at not receiving the commission, and the selection of Charles E. Nicholson for the job has intensified the rivalry between the two designers.

This year each of them has turned out a new yacht for the 15-metre class. These boats are built in accordance with international rules, and will race this year in home waters. Their water-line length averages about 66 feet. They met the other day for the first time this season in a race organized by the Essex Yacht Club, a sporting little club with its home in the old American schooner Gypsy, which is hauled up on the shore at Leigh-on-Sea. The interest in the contest was accentuated by the fact that Fife himself steered the Maudrey, the boat which he had designed, and Nicholson handled his latest creation, the Pamela. Thus it was a contest both of seamanship and design between the two rivals.

The result was a victory for Nicholson on both points, for the Pamela not only proved herself the speedier of the two, but was the better handled. It is safe to say that Nicholson's triumph was very gratifying to Sir Thomas Lipton.

Of course a first race between two new yachts can seldom be regarded as conclusively settling their respective merits, because, as all yachtsmen know, it usually requires much sailing to tune a boat up so as to develop her highest capabilities of speed, and future races between these two boats will be watched with much interest on this side. But for the present Nicholson is entitled to do some crowing, which, by the way, he never does for he is one of the most modest of men.

Mexico's Troubles Unabated

Mexico City, June 14.—In the three months General Huerta has been President of Mexico he has made no substantial headway against the rebels, according to the opinions of close and impartial observers of the situation in this republic. Unless there is made a radical change in the conduct of the government's campaign against its enemies, or unless the rebels become much weaker than they are today, foreign observers believe that Huerta will have great difficulty in restoring peace to Mexico. As for the rebels, they have grown steadily stronger since General Huerta became President, and now there is scarcely a State in which their mobile columns have not been operating in defiance of the government's superior armament and organization.

"The country is plunged in anarchy," said El Diario, a pro-government paper, recently. "Brigandage holds sway in a large portion of the National territory; defeated in one place, the bands re-appear in another, and they carry their audacity to the point of defying the Federal divisions in their headquarters." The usual expression in the local papers, however, is of a different character. For the most part they reflect the carefully studied optimistic tone of the officers at the National palace, who make much of defeats administered here and there, and often fail to make any mention at all of the rebel victories.

The military operations of the government have been divided into three general campaigns, one in the south against the followers of Zapata, conducted by General Juvencio Robles; another whose center is Guaymas, in Sonora, and the third, directed from Monterey against the rebels operating in the States of Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas. In addition to these defined campaigns the government troops are riding here and there over a dozen States, forcing their way from one point to another, only often to find when they arrive at their destination, that the rebels have cut in behind them, or have torn the country to pieces on either side of their line of march.

In the South Robles promised to exterminate in a few weeks the "bandits" led by Emiliano Zapata. He was instructed by the War Department to use the methods of Weyler in Cuba; to concentrate in a few points all non-combatants, and then devastate with fire and cannon the remaining villages and towns, killing his prisoners, except those whose physical strength appealed to him as material for the regular army, but before Robles could get his plan under way, Zapata was attacking him in his headquarters, and since then it has been an open question which side would be the victim of the Weyler method. The region to the south already is practically devastated. Haciendas on which enormous sugar crops formerly were grown are today fast returning to jungle growth, and the warfare in which the followers of Zapata have engaged now for almost three years appears to be causing them to revert to some wild and savage type.

The Guaymas campaign began well. General Medina Barron marched forth, but only to return after defeat, and it was almost two weeks after the battle at Santa Rosa vefore the government admitted the reverse, meanwhile characterizing as untrue the press dispaches from the border.

The campaign directed from Monterey has resulted in the recall of General Trucy Aubert who, apparently, was unable to suppress the rebels under command of Venustiano Carranza or even to re-take and re-open the railroad between Monterey and Laredo, Texas. His successor has done no better. The rebels have extended their field of operations until small towns from the Gulf coast to Chihuahua are entered, seemingly, almost at will.

Conditions in the Central States are little if any better. In its desire to clear up the "border situation" and open the railroads in order that the United States may have a higher opinion of the general sitlation, the government has confined most of its energies to the two northern campaigns.

Opposed to the rebels is the army of Huerta, a more numerous organization than any Mexican has ever seen. But in its ranks as "volunteers" are thousands of men "recruited" from the jails of the country and from prisoners captured in battle. The recent success of the government in securing a loan, however, will enable it to pay its soldiers, buy ammunition and other supplies, and otherwise conduct its military campaigns with greater energy. As a result conditions in Mexico are bound to be disturbed for some time to come.

The press of the capital, which bristled with anti-Americanism in the early days of May following recognition by several nations and the failure of the Washington government to fall in line, has suddenly changed front. Wiser counsel seems to have prevailed, and now a conciliatory tone is distinctly noticeable. A campaign to bring about a boycott of American products has fallen flat, and a proposed popular demonstration of disapproval of Washington's non-recognition of the Huerta government has been called off. Today there are no evidences of any anti-American agitation in Mexico City.

THE PROGRESS EDITION

Some Kind Expressions from Our Brethren of the Press

Durham Sun: "The Wilmington Star today issued a splendid 'Progress Edition' of 48 pages. The edition is handsome in appearance, well edited, and is a credit to The Star and the city of Wilmington."

Fairmont Messenger: "The Industrial issue of the Wilmington Morning Star is a gem. It was issued last Tuesday morning and readers will do well to keep their copy on hand. We congratulate the Star Company."

Newbern Sun: "The Wilmington Star has just issued a most handsome and creditable industrial and progress edition. The typographical appearance of the paper is splendid and it is an advertisement for progressive Wilmington that is hard to beat."

Wilson Times: "The Wilmington Star issues a most creditable and extensive edition descriptive of Wilmington and its interests. The paper is a mammoth affair, gotten up in fine shape with illustrations and write-ups of the leading industries of North Carolina's principal seaport town."

Charlotte News: "That industrial edition issued by the Wilmington Star this week was a hummer. It was gotten up in most attractive style and in setting forth the advantages and opportunities offered by the Wilmington section it rendered a service which will undoubtedly have good effect."

Greenville Reflector: "The Wilmington Star has issued a progress edition of forty pages that is certainly something fine. It is splendidly illustrated and filled with matter showing Wilmington to be 'the imperial city of the Old North State.' Not only Wilmington but all the adjacent section of the State will be benefitted by this progress edition of The Star."

Charlotte Observer: "The Morning Star has issued a 'progress and prosperity' edition for Wilmington, comprising five sections of eight pages each and all quite thoroughly illustrated with commercial cuts and city scenes. The whole makes an elaborate advertisement of the present development and future possibilities of the port of Wilmington, the coming Atlantic coast gateway for the Panama Canal."

Greensboro News: "The Wilmington Star yesterday issued an excellent industrial edition that sets forth in splendid style many of the industrial and commercial attractions of the State's leading seaport town. The edition is especially valuable at this time in attracting attention to Wilmington which occupies such an important and potential position in the future development of the State through possible lower freight rates to interior points. The Star deserves commendation for this work of enterprise."

Charlotte Chronicle: The Wilmington Star has just issued a most creditable "Progress Edition" of 40 pages describing in words and pictures the resources of Wilmington. North Carolina's Coast City has taken on new life during the past few years and its growth is gratifying not only to those who know the town and have bonds of affection for it, but to the people of the State generally. The development of Wilmington as a shipping center and as a port is of vital importance not only to the jobbers, shippers and merchants of the State, but to the consumers as well."

Raleigh News and Observer: "The Wilmington Morning Star shows progress and enterprise that will prove of service to Wilmington and all that section. It has issued a "Progress and Prosperity" edition in 40 pages of five sections with many illustrations which add to its attractiveness. It is work of this kind by newspapers which adds to the growth of a city and a State, and this advertisement of what Wilmington is and what it expects to be in the future is of value to that city. The Star has done handsomely in the edition and Wilmington has a right to plume itself on the showing made."

Southport News: "The Progressive Edition of the Wilmington Star came out Tuesday morning and is an issue that would do credit to a town much larger than Wilmington. The edition is 40 pages in size and hasn't within its folds a display advertisement. Forty pages of good reading matter illustrated with good cuts make the Industrial Edition one that the people of Wilmington should justly be proud of. Our own little city comes in for its share of publicity, the back page being taken up with five views of things in and around Southport, together with a write-up full of facts and figures that will forcibly impress those who read it."

Winston-Salem Journal: "The 'Progress Edition' issued this week by the Wilmington Star is a magnificent achievement of our hustling contemporary, and is in every particular worthy of a newspaper published in the leading seaport city of North Carolina. It is a forty-page edition, and tells in splendid style the story of Wilmington's great progress during the years that have passed, and unfolds fine prospects of much greater prosperity in the future. The edition is particularly timely just now, when the cities all along the Atlantic coast are pushing their claims as the gateway to the country for the ships of the completed Panama canal. We congratulate The Star on the enterprise it has displayed in thus giving to the world this splendid story of the industries, institutions and progress of one of North Carolina's greatest cities."

Newbern Journal: "Yesterday's Wilmington Star came to us in the form of a 48 page Progress Edition. It is one of the most complete, satisfying and informing special editions we remember to have seen. Numbers and numbers of the progressive business houses of Wilmington are written up in good shape and there is a wealth of illustrations that one finds even more enlightening and indicative of Wilmington's wonderful growth and present commercial prestige than the reading matter. And while indefatigable industry and good taste have been shown in securing and preparing the matter for the special edition, there is equally as much praise in the mechanical execution. The Star has always plumed itself on its mechanical appearance and every page of the 40 of its progress edition is approximately perfect in every detail of newspaper workmanship. The edition is creditable to The Star and a veritable eye-opener in the way of revealing the extent of variety of the business and industry of Wilmington."

STOLE MANY REVOLVERS.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., June 14.—Thieves last night stole revolvers to the value of $60 or $75 from the shop of G. E. Rayner, at 123 South Queen street, directly across the street from the police station. The weapons, 12 or 15 in number, were in a display window in the front of the place, and a trick known to accomplished crooks was used in securing them. A towel soaked in molasses was spread upon the window, and the pane was thus broken without the noise of falling glass.

A Jewish merchant in the neighborhood identified the towel as similar to a lot in his stock, while a grocer recognized the molasses adhering to the broken glass as of a grade sold by him. Both remembered having sold the articles to a negro woman some hours before the robbery, so that the police are convinced that the men who did the job under the shadow of headquarters had a female accomplice.

Two officers were on duty at the police station, and the thieves waited until these were both called away before accomplishing the theft.
